THE GENERAL CIVIL AND MILITARY ADMINISTRATION OF NORICUM AND RAETIA.

BY MARY BRADFORD PEAKS.

THE paper here presented was at first intended to form Chapters II and III of a "History of the Provinces of Noricum and Raetia," the material for which has been grouped as follows:

Chapter I. A General Survey.

1. The Tribal Period.
2. The Period of Government by Procurators.
3. The Period of Military Importance.
4. The Decline of Roman Authority.

Chapter II. The Governors.

Chapter III. The Army.

Chapter IV. The Finances.

Chapter V. The Roads.

Chapter VI. Local Affairs.

Chapter VII. Religion.

Chapter VIII. Industries and Products.

Chapter IX. Emigration and Immigration.

As it is hoped that the other chapters may appear later, the original form of this portion has been altered as little as possible in revising it for separate publication. Some peculiarities in the order of topics and in the cross-references are due to this fact. The time of Constantine is adopted as the lower limit in the present article.

The author's choice of subject does not indicate a belief that Noricum and Raetia formed a political or military unit;¹ on the contrary, the study of the two countries was pursued separately until it was discovered that together they afforded an unusually illuminating example of the way in which the Roman system was adapted to varying conditions. In what is local, social, commercial, the two adjacent provinces offer interesting contrasts; in all that has to do with the Empire and especially with their mission as guardians of the Upper Danube frontier, Noricum and Raetia were alike, and from their likeness one may gather much information when the evidence for either alone is fragmentary. The facts with regard to each province, however, have been kept separate within the different chapters and subdivisions. It is believed that this method is likely to yield a truer picture of the Roman world than is obtained when the investigation is arbitrarily limited by the boundaries of a modern state.

The extent of the author's indebtedness to the writings of Cagnat, Cichorius, Hirschfeld, Jung, Liebenam, Mommsen, Ohlenschläger, Schiller, and others will be evident from the footnotes; among her instructors grateful acknowledgment is made especially to Professor Frank Frost Abbott, at whose suggestion this work was begun, and by whose scholarly instruction and unfailing helpfulness its execution was made possible.

PART I. THE GOVERNORS.

I. Introductory Statement.

PROCURATORES AND PRAEFECTI.¹

Titles.—For a brief period after the Roman conquest, Ractia was in charge of a praefectus,² whose province also included Vindelicia and the Vallis Poenina, with the command of the auxiliaries of the region. From some date prior to 69 A. D.,³ perhaps under Claudius,⁴ until 167/169 A. D.⁵ it was under a procurator Augusti provinciae Raetiae, who, following the outbreak of the Marcomannic war, was given increased power and the title procurator et pro legato;⁶ this, however, was but a temporary expedient, pending the arrival of the legion designed for this province.

That Noricum was ever governed by a praefectus is less likely, because its condition when conquered was such that there was no need to fear a revolt against Roman control;⁷ still the title of the first known procurator (procurator in Norico; under Claudius) may perhaps go back to an earlier form like praefectus civitatum in Norico.⁸

⁷ It was exhausted by recent wars with the Boii and the Getae; see n. 4.

⁹ Aschbach, Sitzungsber. d. Wiener Akad. (phil.-hist. Classe), XXXV, p. 5, followed by Mommesen, CIL, III, p. 588; Kammel, pp. 48, 55; Marq. I, 290; Sch. I, 222, and others (cf. also Zippel, pp. 275 ff.), promulgated the doctrine that Noricum during the time that it was governed by procurators was a regnum rather than a provincia. The facts are briefly as follows:

1. The country is called regnum Noricum five times during the period in question (Vell. ii. 109, 5; Suet. Tib. 16; CIL, VI. 1599; VIII. 9363; III. 11543 (Noricum 6, 20, 24)) and four times even after the arrival of an imperial legate (CIL, VI. 1546 (Noricum 25); III. 4800; 4797; 4828), the latest case being in 239 A. D. (III. 4800). Now, these last four instances obviously illustrate the retention in popular speech of a familiar, though no longer exact, term; one of them, VI. 1546, is shown to be colloquial in character by the use of quinquefascialis for legatus, and the other three are inscriptions of freedmen revenue officials. Why may not the same explanation apply to the five earlier cases as well? It is certainly unsafe is unusually complete,¹ especially for the time of Antoninus Pius.² Since seven governors can be dated with certainty as coming within the twenty-three years of his reign, while ten or eleven more probably also belong there, the average term of office at that period was less than a year and a half.

*Duties.*³—The procurator commanded the auxiliary troops stationed in his province,⁴ and had civil,⁵ and, in at least one case,⁶ criminal jurisdiction (ius gladi).

Beneficiarii procuratoris Norici.—The procurator of Noricum was assisted by one or more⁷ beneficiarii, from twenty-three of whom⁸ we have inscriptions, mostly dedications to I. O. M.,⁹ ranging in date from Trajan to M. Aurelius.¹⁰ The function of these officials is uncertain;¹¹ the older explanation, that they comto interpret strictly a mere parenthetical explanation of locality like Suet. Tib. 16, while Vell. ii. 109. 5 is offset by Vell. ii. 39. 3. Such a laxity in designation as has been suggested occurred also in the case of regnus Cottium (see CIL. V, pp. 808 f.), and can easily be paralleled today, e.g., in the use of the Colonial "shilling," which in the eastern part of the United States still lingers after more than a century.

2. Noricum is called provinciā (ἐπαρχίᾳ) four times before M. Aurelius (Vell. ii. 39. 3; Tac. Ann. ii. 63; Ptol. ii. 13. 2; CIL. IX. 4753 (Noricum 4)). On Aschbach's theory these must be explained as inaccuracies.

3. There is no evidence that the retention of "den alten stolzen Namen Königreich"¹² (Kämmel, p. 48; cf. Sch. I. 222) was accompanied by any greater freedom from Roman control than in the case of any other procuratorial province. Noricum was treated no better than Raetia, which had previously been neither a unified kingdom nor an ally of Rome. The comparison with the regna of Egypt and the Cottian Alps is misleading because these were under praefecti; the history of Raetia shows that government by praefecti was not the same as government by procurators, but was a preliminary stage used for communities not fully organized or trusted.

4. A partial collection of the material does not bear out the supposition that hesitation was felt in applying the term provincia to a district ruled by procurators; see, for example, Raetia 3, 5, 6, 9, 10; accident or custom seems to be the controlling factor in the name.

In view of all these considerations it seems more probable that provincia was the official designation.

² Noricum 6-22 or 23.

³ Lieb. Quaest. pp. 43 ff.

⁴ Noricum 2, 7; Raetia 9; hence the assumption that Sextilius Felix (Noricum 3) and Ti. Iulius Aquilinus (Raetia 4) were procurators.

⁵ Noricum 10.

⁶ Raetia 3.

⁷ Three cases of two (Noricum 7, 12, 16; see pp. 182 f.) and two of three (Noricum 9, 17) beneficiarii of the same procurator are recorded, but it is not known whether they served simultaneously.

⁸ For list, see pp. 182 f.

⁹ III. 5176 is to Epona; 11826 is an epitaph; 14362, p. 2322¹⁹⁷ is doubtful (Noricum 17, 9, 22; cf. p. 183, n. 1).

¹⁰ While the province was ruled by legates, similar dedications were made by bf. cos. leg. II Ital., see pp. 200 f.

¹¹ Jung, Dac. pp. 177 f.; EE. IV, pp. 400 f.; Cagnat, p. 127; Diz. Ep. I, 992 ff.; Westdeutsche Zeitschrift, XXI, 158 ff.

manded detachments of auxiliaries, seems inapplicable here, for the completeness of the series is entirely out of proportion to the military importance of Noricum at this time;¹ some secretarial or other confidential duty is more probable.

Rank.—The procurator of Noricum was a centenarius.² He outranked the procurators of Sicily,³ Lusitania,⁴ Thrace,⁵ Asturia and Gallaecia,⁶ probably also those of Pontus,⁶ Judaea,⁷ Sardinia,⁷ Africa,⁷ he was of less importance than the procurator of Mauretania⁸ or Raetia.⁹ His relation to the procurator Pannoniae superioris and the procurator XX hereditatum is uncertain.¹⁰

The procurator of Raetia was probably a ducenarius;¹¹ his office was of the same grade as the procuracy of Mauretania Caesariensis,¹² lower than that of Belgica et utraque Germania,¹³ or of Lugdunensis,¹⁴ higher than that of Cilicia,¹⁵ Lusitania,¹⁵ Dacia superior,¹⁶ Cappadocia,¹⁶ Pontus¹⁴ mediterraneus et Armenia minor et Lycaonia Antiochiana,¹⁶ Noricum.⁹ As the greater part of the inscriptions is of the time of Pius, the evidence is not sufficient to

² Hirschfeld, Verw. p. 261, n. 1. The time of Pius is meant, unless otherwise indicated.

⁵ Noricum 6. ⁶ Noricum 8. ⁷ Noricum 22. ⁸ Noricum 23; 20(?) ; cf. n. 10.

⁹ Noricum 23; cf. the restoration of Noricum 8.

¹⁰ Lieb. Beitr. p. 62: "Auffällig wenigstens ist, dass die Procuraturen von Lusitanien und Noricum sowohl vor als nach den proc. XX hereditatum verwaltet werden." His authority for Noricum is evidently Noricum 20 (Beitr. p. 93); he does not use Noricum 4 in this connection. It is, however, not absolutely clear whether the cursus of Noricum 20 is to be taken in ascending or descending order, a difficulty which Liebenam apparently felt, for on pp. 93 and 35 (by placing Pannonia superior above Noricum) he adopts the descending order, but prefers the reverse in his table for Pannonia, p. 37 (cf. p. 23). If Mauritaniae be supplied with the last item of CIL. VIII. 9363 (cited p. 176), the cursus of Noricum 20 is ascending, which would fit in well with the seeming unimportance of Pannonia superior. On the other hand, in the case of Noricum 4 (under Trajan), proc. XX hereditatum precedes proc. prov. Noricæ.

show any chronological variations in the grade of Raetia during its rule by procurators, nor indeed is there any reason to suppose that such existed in the case of either Raetia or Noricum, since, after they had once been thoroughly subdued, their commercial and strategic importance must have been fairly constant until M. Aurelius.¹ As both stood near the head of the list of procuracies, they were in general held only by men who had previously been provincial procurators elsewhere; but, in the first century at least, this requirement was not absolute in the case of primipili II.²

LEGATI PRO PRAETORE.

Titles.—From about 170 A. D.³ until the reforms of Diocletian, Noricum and Raetia were ruled by legati Augusti pro praetore,⁴ called informally quinquefascales⁵ ($\pi\tau\eta\tau\alpha\rho\beta\deltao\iota^6$) and praesides,⁷ who were also the legati legionis II Italicae and legionis III Italicae respectively.⁸

Rank.—Until the middle of the third century they were praetorii,⁹ sometimes consules designati,¹⁰ later a previous legionary command, which before had been usual,¹¹ became the only requisite.¹² The legates of Noricum were lower in rank than those of Germany,¹³ Hispania citerior,¹⁴ Asia,¹⁴ and Numidia.¹⁵ The legates of Raetia were lower than those of Upper Germany and Britain,¹⁶ or Pannonia inferior;¹⁷ higher than those of Thrace and Moesia superior.¹⁸

*Duties.*¹⁹—The inscriptions show that the legati in Noricum and Raetia commanded legionary⁸ and auxiliary¹⁹ forces, took part in active military operations,¹ superintended the construction of fortifications² and roads,³ and shared in the worship of the imperial family⁴ and the genius of the legions.⁵

PRAESESIDES AND DUCES LIMITANEI.

Titles.—Under Diocletian, at least as early as 290 A. D.,⁶ the military was separated from the civil administration, the latter being intrusted to praesides provinciae Norici mediterranei,⁷ Norici ripensis,⁸ and Raetiae,⁹ the former to duces limitis Raetici,¹⁰ and duces limitis Pannoniae primae et Norici ripensis.¹¹ In the fourth century Raetia too was divided,¹² and praesides Raetiae primae and Raetiae secundae are mentioned.¹³

Rank.—All the above were viri perfectissimi;¹⁴ in the Notitia dignitatum the duces are also called viri spectabiles.^{10, 11}

Duces limitis Raetici.—The mention in the historians of duces limitis Raetici as early as the middle of the third century raises a perplexing question as to the date when duces were instituted.¹⁵ Was the separation of the two branches of the government a gradual one, beginning under Alexander Severus?¹⁶ That is, were there occasionally, in times of extreme peril, duces as well as legati? (One may compare the Republican practice of appointing a dictator to take charge of the military duties of the two consuls.) Or did the Scriptores historiae Augustae employ the terminology of their own time for events of the previous century?¹⁷

¹³ Not. Dign. Occ. i. 92 f.

¹⁴ Though no evidence is available for the dux Raetiae, his rank was undoubtedly the same.

¹⁶ Sch. I. 773; Marq. I. 557 and n. 9; according to Arnold, Roman System of Provincial Administration, pp. 156 f., the change began under Aurelian.

¹⁷ So Aurelius Victor, de Caes. 32 f. (cited p. 192) says "apud Raetias," etc., although Raetia was not divided till long after the date referred to.

The confusion would have been natural, since *dux*¹ (like *praeses*²) had been a loose, general term for military commander long before it acquired a technical meaning. Of these two hypotheses, the second is perhaps the more reasonable.

² P. 179, n. 5. A new and puzzling bit of evidence is afforded by a series of milestones erected by praes(ides) p(rovinciae) P(onti), dating in 279 and 282/283 A. D. (Am. Jour. of Arch. IX. 328 f., nn. 76, 78, 79; X. 431 ff.; Am. Jour. of Phil. XXVII. 449). Does this mean that the change to praeses (in the technical sense) began before Diocletian? The whole question of duces and praeses needs to be thoroughly investigated.

⁴ See Seidl, Sitzungsber. d. Wiener Akad. (phil.-hist. Classe), XIII, pp. 62 ff.; Marq. I. 290, n. 6; Lieb. Quaest. pp. 72 ff.

⁶ Pros. I. 224 n. 7; Dessau, 1349. Liebenam, Beitr. p. 28, n. 3, says: "C. Baebius Atticus war wohl nur Verwalter der Domänen des Kaiser Claudius, denn in Noricum gab es zahlreiche kaiserliche Güter (III. 5695: dominica rura). Baebius war vorher nur primipilus II, während die andern Procuratores von Noricum schon ziemlich wichtige Provinzen verwaltet hatten." It is, however, a well-established fact that the primipilate gave its possessor a decided advantage in his later career (Lieb. Quaest. pp. 21 f., 33 f.; cf. also pp. 34-36, and Hirschfeld, Verw. p. 252, n. 2). Now of the undisputed procurators of Noricum there is only one who is known to have been primipilus II, namely, M. Bassaeus Rufus (Noricum 6); before his term in Noricum, he had been procurator of Asturia and Gallaecia only, the lowest in grade of all procuratorial provinces (Beitr. p. 30); moreover, in commenting on the later cursus of this same Bassaeus Rufus, Liebenam (Beitr. p. 28) says that the importance and rank of the governor of Noricum had greatly increased since the early empire (but see p. 168). There seems, then, to be no more reason, in this case than in many others, to doubt that procurator means procurator provinciae. It is not surprising that the title at this early date is expressed informally. As for the "dominica r[ura]" (sic, cf. III. 11827), it should be borne in mind that the words occur in a fragmentary poetical epitaph of uncertain date, origin, text, and meaning.

As the commission of Petronius Urbicus (Noricum 2) would cease with the defeat and death of Otho,⁶ Sextilius was quite possibly the procurator of Noricum under Vespasian. See p. 166 and n. 4.

Since at least five years must have elapsed between Memmius's Dacian campaign and his term of office in Noricum, 106 A. D. is the earliest possible date for the latter; while, as Trajan was living when the inscription was cut, 117 A. D. marks the lower limit.

Bassaeus Rufus was made praefectus praetorio between 161 and 169 A. D.³ His procuratorship in Noricum under a single Augustus,⁴ being prior to that date, was not later than 161. Before governing Noricum, he had filled one administrative and five military positions; still, as late as 177,⁵ he was not too old for active military service, nor for the office of praefectus praetorio. He could scarcely therefore have served in Noricum before about 145.

If the restoration given is correct,⁷ this man held office in Noricum long enough before 161 for him to fill four other positions during the life of Pius, i. e., probably not later than 155.

³ Nowotny, p. 272, argues from the large number of alae and cohortes that this fragmentary diploma refers to the auxiliaries in Raetia, not those in Noricum; the place of finding (Castra Regina) affords some slight confirmation for this view; cf. Urban, p. 19. There is, however, ground for believing that the armament of Noricum was increased between 107 and 153 (p. 211); so, for example, ala I Aug. Thracum (p. 216) was transferred from Raetia to Noricum between 107 and 140/144; there is then no difficulty in assuming a similar history for ala II Fl. p. f. &c., especially as it is omitted in the Raetian diplomata dating later than 153 (p. 215). Ulp[ius] Victor, moreover, is known from two other inscriptions to have been procurator of Noricum not far from 158 A. D. It is of course not impossible that afterwards (cf. p. 167) in 153 he was procurator in Raetia (cf. Noricum 8 = Raetia 5; Noricum 23 = Raetia 8).

⁴ Pros. II. 267, n. 82.

⁶ Cf. p. 165, n. 9.

⁷ The restoration proposed by Hirschfeld in the Corpus: --- [proc. provi[n]e. [R]aet[iae et regi] Nor. --- , is faulty because it implies that Noricum and Raetia were united under one procurator, an assumption for which there is not a particle of positive evidence, and which, when one bears in mind the early history of the two provinces, their opposition in 69, (Noricum 2, 3; Raetia 2; Jung, Röm. p. 35), and their complete separation during and after the period of military occupation, appears extremely improbable. The rank of the two provinces, moreover, was not the same (p. 167).

⁴ Pros. I. 296, n. 304; PW. III. 1133. As there is no clear example of a proc. Aug. prov. Noricæs (or Raetiae) who had not previously ruled another province or held the primipilate for the second time (p. 168), it is uncertain whether or not Secundinus was a provincial procurator. A similar doubt which is sometimes expressed, e. g., Lieb. Beitr. p. 28, n. 3, with regard to other instances of proc. Aug., seems less well grounded in the case of those who are mentioned in the long series of dedications by beneficiarii; all of these about whom we have other information (Noricum 4-7, 10) prove to have been governors; in the absence, therefore, of indications to the contrary, the others of similar form (Noricum 12-19) would naturally refer to the same officials, especially as inscriptions of other kinds of procurators are not found at Celeia.

No evidence is known for dating Noricum 13-21. The inscriptions for Noricum 13-19, which are similar in form to the inscriptions of beneficiarii of Noricum 4-7, 9, 10, 12, and which (with the exception of 15) were found like them at Celeia, probably belong to about the same period, namely, the reign of Pius or a little earlier. The title in each case is indicated by proc. Aug., hence they surely precede 161 A. D.

III. 5775; 5777 (Abudiacum).

It is uncertain whether Noricum or Raetia was the province ruled by this man. The inscription from Noricum (III. 14362), however, is concerned with building operations—probably under the charge of a beneficiarius—in one of the chief cities of the province. The tituli from Raetia all come from a comparatively unimportant town and are of a private nature: III. 5777 is the epitaph of the mother⁴ of Clementianus; 5775 and 5776 give his cursus in a form such as would be suitable to place upon a building erected through his generosity. Hence it would seem slightly more probable that the country governed by Clementianus was Noricum, while his home was in Raetia.⁵ It is of course not sure that he was procurator of either province.

⁴ Pros. I. 406, n. 860.

⁵ The opposite was true of T. Varius Clemens, Raetia 6. Cf. Jung, Röm. p. 39 and n. 2.

If the M. Claud. Paternus,¹ who was a friend of T. Desticius Severus, procurator of Raetia in 166,² was the same man, the date cannot be many years earlier than 161,³ the last year when proc. Aug. of III. 14362 would be possible.

² On the reading in line 5, see PW. cited below in n. 3.

³ Wilmanns, Exempla inscr. Lat. 1201 (followed by Sch. I. 714; Dessau, 1140, and in the main by Jung, Röm. p. 36, n. 1; PW. III. 2691, n. 96) reads in lines 5 and 6: aduersus rebelles H(ispaniae), h(ostes) p(opuli) R(omanii), | item Asiae, item Noricae, making the last two genitives depend upon rebelles, and inferring that Noricum supported Clodius Albinus against Septimius Severus. That seems unlikely, however, in view of the fact that the legion in Noricum was honored by Severus in 193 and again before 200 (p. 197). The political sympathies of Noricum were always with Pannonia and the other Danubian provinces rather than with the West. Then, too, this construction as a parallel to Hispaniae and Asiae would require Norici, not Noricae, which is not used alone as the name of the province. The explanation given in the text is that of Liebenam, Verw. p. 61, who considers lines 4 and 5 parenthetical and construes item Asiae, item Noricae with legatus in line 2. Noricae is then taken closely with provinciae, thus avoiding one difficulty in the older interpretation. The cursus is descending as far as the legateship of Noricum with its accompanying extraordinary command. As the latter naturally suggests the similar purely military commands

The command in Pannonia and the military exploits are placed by Ritterling⁶ in 90/92; the office in Raetia then falls at least two years later.

Cf. III. 5212-5216 (Celeia).

The approximate date is determined as follows: VIII. 2728 (Lambaesis), a letter to Valerius Etruscus,³ who was legate in 152 A. D.,⁴ tells of the completion under the procurator Clemens of an aqueduct begun in 147/149. Clemens therefore was in office in Mauretania Caesariensis in 152, or not long before that year. His term in Raetia followed, but, from the occurrence of proc. Aug. in III. 5211, was not later than 161 A. D.

The only time in the reign of two Augusti when Raetia was a procuratorial province was under M. Aurelius and L. Verus, 161–169.⁴ The increase of military force shown by the title procur. et pro leg. probably indicates a date subsequent to that of Raetia 9 (166 A. D.), i. e., during the transition from procurators to legati.⁵

APPIUS CL(AUDIUS) LATERANUS⁷

³ Pros. I. 247, n. 25; cf. Pros. III. 39, n. 304 (where read “a. 219” for “a. 119”).

⁴ P. 168. Cichorius’ date under Claudius (PW. IV. 303) is therefore impossible; Zippel, pp. 289 f., wrongly places the inscription under Marcus and Commodus.

⁵ P. 197; Lieb, Quaestt. p. 53; Beitr. p. 18, n. 3; Jung, Röm. p. 34, n. 5; Hirschfeld, Sitz. pp. 430 f.

⁶ P. 168; Planta, p. 161; Ohl, Sitz. pp. 227 ff.; Prog. pp. 25 ff.; Marq. I. 289, n. 5; Lieb, Verw. p. 352 ff.; Jung, Dac. p. xviii, n. 10; Arnold, p. 46; Franziss, pp. 55 f.

The recognition of Iasdius as legate of Raetia rests solely upon an old restoration of CIL. VI. 1428; a better text is given in VI. 31851 (cf. Pros. II. 151, n. 8). Ohl, Prog. pp. 17, 26, gives M. Aurelius Probus as legate of Raetia in 253/259, his authority being Script. Prob. 5. But legio tertia felix there assigned to Probus was more probably legio III Gallica; cf. CIL. II. 2103. Felix is nowhere used of leg. III Ital.

⁷ Pros. I. 383, n. 731. Ohlenschläger, Sitz. pp. 227 ff.; Prog. p. 14 (followed by Lieb, Verw. p. 354; Arnold, p. 46) assigns this man to 196 A. D., but the consul of 197 was T. Sextius Lateranus (Klein, Fasti consulares, p. 87). See also Raetia 18.

169/177, 182/196, 212, 214/246, etc., are the only dates possible for a single Augustus during the period of legati, except the years when other governors are definitely known.

Now the grandfather, M. (Roscius) Murena,⁹ must have been proconsul of Bithynia before 165 A. D., by which year at the latest Bithynia had become an imperial province, governed by a leg. Aug. pr. pr.⁸ He would naturally be from thirty to fifty years older than his grandson's father- (or uncle-) in-law, who therefore was not likely to have been quinquefascalis Raetiae later than the reign of Septimius Severus.⁹

¹ Pros. I. 262, n. 120; PW. III. 1283, n. 1. Not the C. Caerellius Sabinus of III, 1074–1076; 1092; 1111; cf. Ohl. Prog. p. 27, n. 72.

⁹ As the upper limit is fixed at 167 (p. 165), the date assigned to both inscriptions by Halbherr, Museo ital. di ant. class. III. 703, is too early by about half a century. The evidence there adduced, the absence of the title felix from the name of legio IV Flavia, is not conclusive, see, for example, CIL. VIII. 2744, 2745 (176 A. D.); V. 1870 (under Commodus); III. 1201 (after Caracalla).

Au[gg. pr. pr.]

The titles of M. Aurelius and Commodus which precede the part quoted, although apparently referring to the year 179, are given in a form used only after the death of Marcus.² The stone therefore was probably cut after March 17, 180, and the term of Helvius belonged, in part at least, to the year of transition, 180, though it may have begun in 179.

If the name was really Cerialis, the identity of this legatus with Raetia 15 is not improbable, and would be an indication, perhaps, that at this period legati held their commands for a term of years.⁹ But the assumption that such was the case and that the rulers of III. 11933 and III. 14370₂ were the same, seems to have influenced the later observers who report the reading as Ceriale.

170/177, 180/192, 212/216, 218/234 are the years when a single [Au]rel[ius] was Augustus in May within the period during which Raetia was ruled by legati. Other names have been assigned to 180, 181, 213, and perhaps to 182-183/5.² If the letters missing in the imperial titles were intentionally erased, 170/177, 212/216 are not possible.

points therefore either to 246/249 or 251/260;¹ a dedication genio Daciarum is hardly likely, however, after the loss of the province in 256.

¹ It is hard to see why Liebenam (Vero, p. 353) says: "In den beiden Augusti sind wohl Marc Aurel und Verus zu erkennen" (168/169 would be the only possible years, for Raetia in 166 and afterwards was still a procuratorial province, cf. Raetia 9, 10). With equal positiveness, Jung, Dac. pp. 58 f. (cf. Vaschide, p. 89), concludes: "Wohl aus der Zeit des Septimius Severus und des Caracalla," and Planta, p. 161, n. 3: "am wahrscheinlichsten unter Diocletian."

The exact title borne is a matter of inference merely; Valerian and Aureolus seem, however, to have exercised a military command of somewhat more general character than that of the leg. leg. III Ital. and accordingly are placed here rather than in the preceding list. But see p. 169.

PART II. THE ARMY.

I. The Legions of Noricum.

LEGIO II ITALICA: HISTORY.¹

Formation and early history.—The second legion, which eventually garrisoned Noricum, was levied by M. Aurelius² in northern Italy,³ immediately after the outbreak of the Marcomannic war became imminent. The draft, which was put in charge of M. Claudius Fronto, was ordered in 165 or 166 and was presumably completed in about two years.⁴ In 170 A. D. a detachment commanded by a centurion of legio II Traiana helped strengthen the walls of Salonae in Dalmatia.⁵ The legion arrived in Noricum probably not later than 171/174 A. D.,⁶ and remained there permanently. Mommsen's view⁷ that it was sent for a time to Pan-

¹ The best account is by Cagnat, DS. III. 1078.

² Dio, lv. 24. 4; cf. Script. M. Aur. 14. 6; Ver. 9. 10.

³ This is shown by the name Italica, and by the fact that several officers and soldiers of the early period are known whose homes were in that region: in Ameria, CIL. XI. 4371; Dentona, VI. 1636; Firmum, III. 15208; Oericulum, XI. 4085; Terventum, IX. 2593; see pp. 199, 178, 202, 201; Arnold, p. 89.

⁴ On CIL. VI. 1377, 31640; III. 1457, which give the complete cursus of M. Claudius Fronto, see Dessau, 1097 f.; Pros. I. 373, n. 699; PW. III. 2722, n. 157. After holding two important commands in the Armenian and Parthian war of 162-165/6 but before receiving the dona militaria at the triumph of 166, Fronto was made consul and curator operum publicorum, and was detailed for recruiting service in Italy (CIL. VI. 1377, l. 14: missō ad inventū per Italiā legēdām; cf. DS. II. 219). Certainly this can refer to nothing but the levy of the second and third Italica legions. Fronto was relieved from his duties as dictator in Italy in time to hold two other offices before the death of Verus in 169. The alarm caused by the siege of Aquileia would naturally hasten all preparations for defense.

⁵ CIL. III. 1980.

⁶ Van der Weerd, ME. VII. 101-103, using CIL. IX. 2593 (p. 201, n. 5), shows that the soldier there named enlisted in legio II Italica in the original levy and served in Noricum at Aelia Ovilava, dying at the age of twenty-three; hence, if he enlisted aged eighteen to twenty, the legion had reached Noricum by 171/174. But enlistment of legionaries earlier or later than the age given is fairly common (e. g., at fourteen, III. 3538; at fifteen, XIII. 6886; at sixteen, III. 12440; XIII. 6853; at seventeen, XI. 4085; Dessau, 2261; 2341; 2348; at twenty-two, III. 5930; Dessau, 2252; 2258; 2265; 2314; 2329; 2352; 2422; at twenty-three, Dessau, 2245; 2284; 2319; older than twenty-three, III. 4857; XIII. 6943; Dessau, 2257; 2270; 2273; cf. DS. II. 221), and would be unusually frequent at such a time of peril as 165/169. The arrival of the legion may possibly, therefore, have been as early as 168/170 or as late as 175/177. It was presumably later than 167/169, the date of the last procurator of Raetia.

⁷ CIL. III. 1980, note.

nonia does not seem very likely; there is nothing to support it¹ except the fact that Pannonia was Marcus's headquarters,² while on the other hand the attack of 162³ and the invasion of 167/169 had recently shown that the upper Danube frontier and the roads leading south through Noricum and Raetia needed guarding, and that a procuratorial form of government was no longer adequate.⁴

Name and titles.—In 170 A. D. the legion bore the name II pia,⁵ which was still in use as late as 191 A. D.,⁶ legio II Italica was, however, the common designation throughout its history.⁷ In 193 the legion was honored on the silver coinage of Septimius Severus,⁸ whose assumption of the imperial power in the spring of that year it had undoubtedly supported;⁹ before April 11, 200, it had received from him the title fidelis.¹⁰ Antoniniana was added under Caracalla,¹¹ dropped after his death (April 8, 217),¹² and resumed under Elagabalus.¹³ During the reign of Alexander Severus, the cognomen Severiana was used.¹⁴ June 23, 238, allegiance to Gordian III was declared by a votive offering in the name of a bf. cos. leg. II Ital. p. f. Aug. n.¹⁵ It is therefore perhaps a mere accident that no instance of the name Gordiana occurs.¹ The titles pia fidelis were renewed by Valerian and Gallienus in 253² and at intervals thereafter; LEG. II. ITAL. VI. P. VI. F.³ and LEG. II. ITAL. VII. P. VII. F.⁴ appear on the bronze legionary coinage of Gallienus.

¹ Pertinax's defense of Noricum and Raetia by means of leg. I (adi.) (Script. Pert. 2. 6, cf. Dio, lxxi. 3. 2: perhaps in 172, see Sch. I. 647) does not necessarily imply that the provinces had not yet received their own legions. CIL. III, p. 707.

² Dio, lxxi. 3. 1; Eutrop. viii. 13. 1; Hieron. Chron. Euseb. a. Abr. 2194; Oros. vii. 15. 6. Pannonia continued to be the headquarters in the German wars even after the date when legio II Italica is known positively to have been in Noricum.

Stations.—One of the most important duties of the legion was to guard and keep in repair the road leading east through Celeia to Poetovio in Pannonia superior, which formed the main line of communication between Italy and the Lower Danubian provinces.⁵ Accordingly, bricks made by the legion have been found in large numbers near Celeia, and all the way from that city to Atrans.⁶

The main camp of the legion at Lauriacum was occupied from 191 A. D. at the latest until Noricum ripense was abandoned in the fifth century;⁷ in the fourth century, at least, it had a shield factory (fabrica scutaria),⁸ and served as headquarters for a fleet,⁹ and for auxiliaries.¹⁰

Ovilava, twenty-six miles west and south of Lauriacum, at the junction-point of roads leading to Raetia and to the southeast, was garrisoned for a short time in the early history of the legion;¹¹ later it was deserted in favor of Ioviacum¹² and Lentia¹³ on the Danube.

The earlier renewals are inferred from inscriptions of other legions. CIL. VIII. 2482, 17976 (Gemellae, Oct. 22, 253): --- 1(egionis) [III] Aug. Bricks of leg. II Ital. dating from the period when parts of Noricum and Pannonia were united under one dux, are common in Pannonia superior near Carnuntum and Vindobona.¹

In the fourth century a part of the legion was in Africa,² another detachment at Dativia on the Lower Rhine.³ No other stations are known.⁴

Active service.—An expedition against the Daci⁵ and a war with the Goths⁶ are known from epitaphs but cannot be dated.⁷ For the rest, the inscriptions of Noricum give no information.⁸

The numbers within brackets which are appended to several of the lists refer to inscriptions containing no indication of the troop to which the soldier belonged. They are included here because of the slight presumption that the legion stationed in the province is meant when no other is named.

IV, pp. 379, 385; Marq. II. 549, n. 7, that co(n)sularis in this title (and by implication, therefore, in str. cos., libr. cos., etc.) designates the holder as the assistant of a man of consular rank. The lists here given are enough to show that in the less important provinces the original meaning of the terms had been extended to include the helpers of the legatus pro praetore, regardless of his rank, which in Noricum and Raetia was praetorian or less (p. 168).¹² The following names (with the exception of the fourth and the last) are learned from a series of dedications to I. O. M., often with the addition of d(is) d(eabus), the imperial house, or a local deity (Celeia, Norea, or Bedaius). See pp. 166, 182 f. on similar inscriptions by beneficiarii of procurators.¹³ This inscription and that of P. Aelius Verinus below, to judge from the place of finding, the dedications to local deities (Celeia and Norea), and the similarity in form to others of the series, surely belong to the legion stationed in Noricum.¹⁴ From the circumstances of finding and the simple form, the date is quite certainly early, i. e., before the cognomen pia fidelis was given by Septimius Severus (p. 197).

LEGIO I NORICORUM.¹

Stations.—The following sites were garrisoned by legio I Noricorum during the fourth century.

1. FAFIANA

Not. Dign. Occ. xxxiv. 41: praefectus legionis liburnariorum² primorum Noricorum, Fafianae.

2. IUENNA

Tegulae (found at Mauer-Oehling in Noricum³ and also in Pannonia superior⁴ and inferior⁵): figulinas Iuensianas leg. I Nor.

Not. Dign. Occ. xxxiv. 40: praefectus legionis primae Noricorum militum liburnariorum² cohortis quintae partis superioris, Aduvense.

The single extant inscription of the legion was probably erected by a soldier from this division.

CIL. III. 4803 (Virunum):—Ulpius Valerius specul.⁶ leg. primae Nor. — — —.

It is not possible to determine from the presence of bricks alone whether or not a given point was occupied by the legion. The fact, however, that tegulae made at Iuenna were exported to such a distance as the eastern borders of Pannonia inferior¹ makes it slightly more probable that those also which were stamped simply LEG I NOR² were articles of commerce rather than of local manufacture.

OTHER LEGIONS.

There is no reason to believe that any other legions were ever stationed in Noricum.³

II. The Legions of Raetia.

LEGIO III ITALICA : HISTORY.⁴

Formation.—Legio III Italica was formed by M. Aurelius⁵ in 165/169 at the same time as legio II Italica; in 170 it furnished a detail for the repairs at Salonae;⁶ by 179/180 it had arrived in Raetia and was engaged in fortifying the northern frontier.⁷

Name and titles.—The legion was at first known as III concordia;⁸ for a short time after its arrival in Raetia as III Italica concordia,⁹ then as III Italica alone or, less frequently, with the addition of a cognomen derived from the name of the reigning emperor, Antoniniana¹ or Gordiana.²

Legionary coins.—Like legio II Italica,³ the Raetic legion was named on the coinage of Septimius Severus (193 A. D.)⁴ and of Gallienus.⁵

Stations.—The permanent camp was at Castra Regina.⁶ Detachments sent from there helped fortify and perhaps, in some cases, garrison various other points along the Danube and the limes Raeticus, as Böhming,⁷ Abusina,⁸ Straubing,⁹ etc.¹⁰

A station at Augusta Vindelicum, a place of strategic importance because of its location at the junction of two rivers and several roads, seems not improbable. Moreover, bricks have been found at Westheim, five or six miles west of the city.¹¹ The inscriptions from Augusta and vicinity¹² would not be conclusive in themselves.

By the time of the Notitia dignitatum the northern portion of Raetia had been abandoned and the camp at Reginum moved to Vallatum;¹³ other divisions of the legion, each under a praefectus, were located at Submuntorium, at Cambodunum and in the neighboring country from Vimania to Cassiliacum, and at Foetus and Terioli.¹⁴ Still another part was in Illyricum.¹⁵

² Under Gordian III (238-244): III. 5768; Gordiana is omitted in III. 5942 (240 A. D.).

³ Pp. 197 f.

⁵ Coben, V, p. 389, nn. 487-498; Eckhel, VII, p. 402 (symbols: a stork; a bull; cf. DS. III. 1074 f.). VI.P.VI.F. and VII.P.VII.F. are still more puzzling than on the coins of leg. II Ital., because we have no knowledge that leg. III Ital. was ever called pia fidelis before the time of Gallienus.

⁶ Tegulae: CIL. III. 6000, pp. 1051, 2328⁵³; 386*; Ann. Ep. 1906, 183; milestones giving the distance a l(e)g(ione): III. 5996 (201 A. D.); 5997 (195 and 215 A. D.); a large number of inscriptions from members of the legion, dating from 179-180 (cf. p. 206, n. 7) to the time of Diocletian or after (Raetia 31); Tab. Peut. III;c; Not. Dign. Occ. xxxv. 17. Cf. CIL. III, p. 730.

⁷ Raetia 15.

⁸ Tegulae: III. 6000; 11986; 11989.

⁹ III. 11988 (teg.).

¹⁰ Bricks have also been found at Abbach and Alkofen near Castra Regina (III. 6000; 12005 (pia fide lis ?)); Lietzheim (?) (6000); Ummendorf (p. 2328⁵³). A find of bricks as at Abbach and Alkofen, or of inscriptions like those from Lauingen-Faimingen (5874; 5876) does not prove even a temporary occupation by legionaries; cf. Franziss, pp. 42, 284, 293, 296, 340, 343, et passim. Franziss' statement (p. 343) that bricks of the third legion have been discovered at Künzing (Quintianae) has not been verified. With regard to Böhming and Pfünz, see Allen, pp. 359 f.

¹¹ III. 6000, 11987.

¹⁴ Ibid. xxxv. 18, 19, 21, 22.

¹⁵ Ibid. v. 88 = 237 = vii. 53.

Active service.—The inscriptions prove that the third legion made a successful expedition against the Buri, possibly under Marcus or Commodus,¹ and took part in the German wars of 197² and 213 A. D.;³ after the close of the latter campaign, some Raetic soldiers perhaps accompanied Caracalla to the East.⁴

Allen, pp. 363 f., gives this stone as from Abusina, saying: "It is significant that although there is no evidence leading us to suppose that legionaries were ever stationed at this point [but cf. p. 206, n. 8] the legionary centurion returned here and rendered a vow for the successful issue of the expedition just as though this were his regular place of sojourn." The inscription, however, was found near Kelheim, which is on the Danube. What would be more natural than for the soldier to pay his vow on returning to the frontier of the province in which he was serving?⁵ Cagnat, p. 109.⁶ CIL, III. 1201; Jung, Dac. p. 95.⁷ There is no evidence for the assumption (Allen, p. 364) that an auxiliary corps was encamped at Lauingen in charge of Ulpius; cf. p. 206, n. 10.⁸ P. 200, n. 10. LEGIO III AUGUSTA.

Former soldiers of legio III Augusta were among those assembled in Raetia in the summer of 253 who proclaimed Valerian emperor.¹ They had returned to Africa by Oct. 22 of the same year.²

OTHER LEGIONS.³

Veterans of leg. I (Germanica) and leg. XX (Valeria victrix) in Lower Germany were sent into Raetia in 14 A. D.⁴ Similar vexillationes may well have been temporarily quartered in the province during any active campaign, as for example, that of Caracalla in 213;⁵ there is one probable reference to such an occurrence under M. Aurelius.⁶

The bricks of LEG IIII M⁷ and LEG VIII AUG⁸ which have been found in Raetia were probably brought from Germany.

III. The Auxiliaries in Noricum.

The army of Noricum in 69 A. D. consisted of one ala (I Hispanorum Auriana), eight cohorts (including I Montanorum and perhaps I Asturum), and some native troops.⁹ Before 106 A. D. ala I Hispanorum Auriana was withdrawn, but ala I Commagenorum was added, so that the total force in the province remained practically unchanged (three alae, six cohorts).¹⁰ A great increase (to four alae and fourteen cohorts) had taken place by 153,¹¹ an increase which, as it surely began under either Trajan or Hadrian, and, as far as we know, affected the northeastern part of the province, may best be connected with Hadrian's policy of strengthening the ⁴ Tac. Ann. i. 44. 6 (cf. i. 39. 2). Ohlenschlager's suggestion (Prog. p. 7 and n. 3) that the 7 leg. XX of CIL. III. 5577 (Rott) was one of this detachment is improbable; the omission of the legionary cognomen and the province Britain is not conclusive proof that the inscription is early, while the use of ligatures, the orthography (e. g. Niceforu[s]), and the infrequency in this region of monuments of the early empire, all militate against his hypothesis.

Danubian fortresses of Pannonia superior.¹ That Hadrian visited Noricum is proved by senatorial coins marked EXERCITVS NORICVS which represent him in the act of addressing troops.² The arrival of a legion³ soon reduced the auxiliaries to a position of secondary importance; still there is some slight indication of a later (third century?) addition to their strength.⁴

ALAE IN NORICUM.

Ala Antoniniana in 211/222 was under the command of the legatus leg. II Ital.⁵

Ala Augusta was at Virunum in the third century;⁶ it is perhaps the same as ala I Augusta Thracum.⁷

Ala celerum may have been at Virunum at a late date.⁸

Ala I Commagenorum, which in 106 A. D. was in Noricum,⁹ must at some time have garrisoned Comagena.

Ala II Flavia pia fidelis miliaria: see p. 215.

*Ala I Hispanorum Auriana*¹⁰ is known to have served in Noricum in 69 A. D.¹¹ and from 107 to 166 in Raetia¹² in or near Weissenburg.¹³

Ala I Augusta Thracum: see p. 216.

Alae stationed in the Danube provinces, Britain, Upper Germany, and Mauretania, are mentioned in the inscriptions of Noricum.¹⁴

COHORTS IN NORICUM.

Cohors I Aelia (Severiana) sagittariorum miliaria equitata during the reign of Alexander Severus,¹ and perhaps considerably later,² garrisoned the frontier fortress of Astura.³

Cohors I Asturum⁴ was in Noricum from 106 A. D.⁵ until the third century at least,⁶ giving its name to Astura.⁷

The co[h(ors)] Breuc(orum) which was in Noricum during the reign of Philip (244/249)⁸ may be identical with the cohors V Breucorum serving in Pannonia in 80 A. D.,⁹ although neither of the inscriptions of the latter found in Noricum¹⁰ in itself necessarily implies the presence of the cohort in that province.

Cohors I Aelia Brittonum miliaria was located in Noricum in the third century.¹¹

Cohors I Flavia Brittonum came into Noricum from Dalmatia¹² before or during the third century.¹³

Cohors I Montanorum, at Virunum in the early empire,¹⁴ towards the end of the first century was sent to Pannonia.¹⁵

Some cohorts belonging in other provinces are named in Norican inscriptions.²

LOCAL MILITIA OF NORICUM.

Besides the regular auxiliary forces just enumerated, a body of local militia (Noricorum iuventus) was in existence in 69 A. D.³

OTHER AUXILIARIES OF THE LATER EMPIRE.

The Notitia dignitatum gives the names of six bodies of equites stationed at various points on the northern frontier.⁴ Equites Dalmatae Aquesiani comitatenses won a victory in Noricum in 310.⁵ The latest dated inscription of the province⁶ (370 A. D.) records the completion of a fortress at Ips by milites auxiliares Lauriacenses.

IV. The Auxiliaries in Raetia.⁷

Very little is known of the army of Raetia before the end of the first century; light-armed native troops were there from the time of Augustus,⁸ and other auxiliary forces by 69,⁹ the total presumably being about equal to that of Noricum.¹⁰ Between 82 and 107, on at least two different occasions (82/90, 90/107), troops were brought from Germany, Pannonia, and even Africa,¹¹ so that the diploma of 107,¹² fortunately preserved entire, assigns to Raetia four alae and eleven cohorts. The next half-century or so (Trajan to Marcus) shows no appreciable change in the strength of the army—three alae and thirteen cohorts are named in the diploma of 166¹³—although there is considerable shifting of soldiers from Germany to Raetia and from Raetia to Noricum

ALAE IN RAETIA.⁵

Ala I Flavia Commagenorum may have been in the north of Raetia for a short time in the middle of the second century.⁶

*Ala I Flavia fidelis Gemelliana miliaria*⁷ was in Raetia 162–166 A. D.⁸ and was stationed in the north, perhaps at Kösching.⁹

*Ala II Flavia pia fidelis miliaria*¹⁰ served at Aalen¹¹ in Raetia from the latter part of the first century until some date between 107¹² and 153,¹³ when it moved to Noricum. It is probably identical with ala II Flavia gemina, which was in Germany until 82/90;¹⁴ hence the title pia fidelis may have been won in 88 during the revolt of Saturninus.

Ala I Hispanorum Auriana: see p. 212.

Ala I Flavia Raetorum was at Quint[i]anae (Künzing) in the late empire.¹⁵

Ala II Valeria Sequanorum in the early part of the fifth century garrisoned Vimania.¹⁶

*Ala I Flavia singularium civium Romanorum pia fidelis*¹⁷ formed a part of Vitellius's army,¹⁸ probably stationed in Raetia.¹⁹

XXXV of the year 107, while the diploma of 64 (D. III) was found in Noricum (at Geiselbrechting), not in Raetia, and does not state the location of the troop.

¹⁹ The Raetic auxiliaries had supported Vitellius (Tac. Hist. iii. 5; i. 70, where the fact comes out that Caecina anticipated no opposition in Raetia), but by 70 must have transferred their allegiance to Vespasian, for Sextilius Felix apparently met no resistance in his march through Raetia (see n. 18). Now this ala appears first in history under the command

It afterwards supported Vespasian,¹ from whom it secured the name Flavia. After fighting in Germany in 70 against the Treveri and the Batavi,² the ala stayed in Germania superior until after 90 A. D.³ winning the title pia fidelis; then before 107 it returned to Raetia⁴ where it remained until the third century.⁵ Its camp in that province was probably at Pföring.⁶

Ala II Valeria singularis occupied Vallatum under the later empire.⁷

Ala I Augusta Thracum, which was in existence in 97/98 A. D.,⁸ was in Raetia by 107,⁹ and was sent to Trigesamum in Noricum before 140/144.¹⁰ It gave the name Augustana to Trigesamum.¹¹

COHORTS IN RAETIA.¹²

*Cohors II Aquitanorum equitata*¹³ between 107¹⁴ and 162¹⁵ moved from Germania superior¹⁶ to Raetia, where it was located at Castra Regina.¹⁷ of Iulius Briganticus, whose surname seems to be connected with the name of the Raetic tribe Brigantes (p. 165, n. 4), and it apparently joined the German army at the same time as Sextilius Felix, though it was not with him in Noricum. May it not therefore have been in Raetia and come with him from there?

LOCAL MILITIA OF RAETIA.⁷

Light-armed native troops during the first century supplemented the regularly organized auxiliaries.⁸

OTHER AUXILIARIES OF THE LATE PERIOD.

The following entries in the Notitia dignitatum give information about other troops in Raetia:

- (Occ. xxxv. 14) equites stablesiani seniores, Augustanis.
- (15) equites stablesiani iuniores, Ponte A[e]ni, nunc Febian[i]s.
- (16) equites stablesiani iuniores, Submuntorio.
- (20) praefectus militum Ursariensium, Guntiae.
- (31) tribunus gentis per Raetias deputatae, Teriolis.

Summary: The Defenses of Raetia, 150–200 A. D.

In the following table covering the latter half of the second century an attempt is made to present a concise statement of the location of troops in Raetia, such as is given for a later date by the Notitia dignitatum. The period chosen, from Antoninus Pius to Septimius Severus, is the one of greatest importance in the military history of the Upper Danube—the period of construction, at least in stone, of the majority of the castles along the limes Raeticus. The evidence is unfortunately too scanty to permit of a similar schedule for the army in Noricum.

V. The Fleet.

THE FLEET ON THE DANUBE.

The Upper Danube frontier was patroled by the classis Panonica,¹ which was created before 50 A. D.² and had its headquarters at Carnuntum. Under the later empire, two subdivisions of this fleet, classis Lauriacensis and classis Arlapensis et Maginensis, were stationed, each under a praefectus, at Lauriacum and at Arlapa and Comagena respectively.³ Marines (milites liburnarii) belonging to legio II Italica at Ioviacum and legio I Noricorum at Fafiana and at Iuenna near the Drave, co-operated with them.⁴

THE FLEET ON LAKE CONSTANCE.⁵

Tiberius won a naval victory on Lake Constance while engaged in conquering the Vindelici (August 1, 15 B. C.).⁶ There is no further record of a fleet on the lake until the "praefectus numeri⁷ bar[bari]cariorum, Confluentibus sive Brecantia" of the Notitia dignitatum,⁸ nor is there any reason to believe that such existed while the Roman authority in southern Raetia remained undisputed.

VI. Auxiliaries Raised in Noricum and Raetia.

From the earliest times the tribes inhabiting Noricum and Raetia had a reputation for fierceness and bravery in war.¹ Noric equites fought under the Roman standard, even during the republic;² one cohors and one ala Noricorum are known in the first century of the empire and later. Norici more commonly, however, served in praetorian and urban cohorts, as equites singulares, or as legionaries.³

Raetic alae, five or more in number, are mentioned in the Notitia dignitatum, and at least seventeen cohorts of Raeti and Vindelici are certain; some were organized by Augustus or Tiberius,⁴ and all about which we have information were in existence before the time of the Antonines. Two or three of these cohorts served in Raetia,⁵ two or three others in Asia Minor,⁶ five in Germania superior,⁷ and four in Pannonia or on the lower Danube.⁸

ALAE FROM NORICUM.

*Ala Noricorum*⁹ in the first century was in Mainz,¹⁰ but before 74¹¹ was sent to Cologne,¹² and later to Calcar.¹³ Traces elsewhere are quite uncertain.¹⁴

COHORTS FROM NORICUM.

*Cohors I Noricorum equitata*¹⁵ was located in Pannonia¹⁶ (after the division of the province, in Pannonia inferior¹⁷) from 80 to 167 certainly, and probably as late as the reign of Caracalla.¹⁸

LOCAL MILITIA FROM NORICUM.

See p. 214 for troops stationed in Noricum.

It is possible that a vexil(latio) Raetor(um) et Noricor(um) which served at Mancunium in Britain was organized as local militia.¹

ALAE FROM RAETIA.

Ala I Flavia Raetorum saw service in Raetia, see p. 215.

[Alae II, III, IIII Raetorum] are known only from the existence of ala V Raetorum.

Ala V Raetorum was at Scenae Veteranorum in Egypt during the late empire.²

COHORTS FROM RAETIA.³

Cohors I Raetorum was stationed in Raetia, see p. 218.

Cohors I Raetorum equitata served in Cappadocia under Hadrian.⁴

Cohors II Raetorum: in Raetia; cf. p. 219.

Cohors II Raetorum civium Romanorum was in Germania⁵ superior⁶ throughout the empire; it probably was one of the cohorts which fought at Idistaviso in 16 A. D.;⁷ its station was at Aquae Mattiacorum (Wiesbaden)⁸ until about the time of Hadrian, when it moved to Saalburg.⁹

[Cohortes III Raetorum] are known only from the existence of the cohorts with higher numbers.

*Cohors IIII Raetorum*¹⁰ formed part of the army of Moesia superior in 93 A. D.;¹¹ it also fought in the second German war of M. Aurelius and Commodus.¹²

Cohors V Raetorum was in existence under Hadrian.⁴

Cohors VI Raetorum served at Vindonissa in Germania superior,⁵ and was in existence by 103/111.⁶ It may or may not be the same as cohors VI Valeria Raetorum; cf. p. 219.

*Cohors VII Raetorum equitata*⁷ was in Germania⁸ superior⁹ from the first century; it was located at Vindonissa,¹⁰ and later, in the early part of the third century, at Niederberg near Coblenz.¹¹

Cohors VIII Raetorum civium Romanorum served in Pannonia under Domitian.¹² It won the title civium Romanorum in Trajan's Dacian war, afterwards remaining in Dacia.¹³

Cohors Raetorum et Vindelicorum in the first century formed a part of the army in Germania superior;¹⁴ it perhaps fought under Germanicus in 16 A. D.¹⁵

Cohors Raetorum. In some cases it is quite impossible to decide which of the above is meant,¹⁶ or indeed whether there is a reference to cohortes Raetorum at all.¹⁷

*Cohors I Vindelicorum (miliaria)*¹⁸ probably took part in Hadrian's Jewish war,¹⁹ and in 157 was in Dacia superior.²⁰

Cohors II Vi(ndelicorum) was perhaps located at Carnuntum in Pannonia superior.¹

[Cohors III Vindelicorum]: no inscriptions are preserved.

Cohors IIII Vindelicorum garrisoned Grosskrotzenburg² in Germania³ superior⁴ and there manufactured bricks for use along the whole German limes.⁵

LOCAL MILITIA FROM RAETIA.

In the early empire the Raetic militia remained in the province;⁶ after the arrival of the legion it could be spared for service abroad.⁷ So during the second and third centuries a vexillatio Raetorum gaesatorum was stationed in the north of Britain⁸ under the command of a trib(unus) coh(ortis) I Vang(ionum),⁹ and a [n(umerus)] g(a)esatoru[m] garrisoned Atuatuca in Belgic Gaul.¹⁰

In the period following Diocletian, Raeti formed a part of the guard of the comes Illyrici,¹¹ and Raetobarii (?) attended the magister equitum praesentalis of the East.¹²
