

BACON 3130

1627

receipted bill

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO LIBRARY

87 Nicholas Bacon, the Younger

1972 Bacon
Exhibit

The eldest son of Sir Nicholas inherited Redgrave; he was a member of Parliament for Suffolk and in 1611, was made premier baronet of England. His marriage agreement is number 85. In the church at Redgrave is his tomb, somewhat less elaborate than his father's, but still splendid. From the bill shown, signed by his son, Edmund Bacon, we learn that the tomb is of Petworth marble, white and black (A).

The 1626 Extent of the estate of Sir Nicholas is also shown here, with manors in the counties of Norfolk, Suffolk and Essex, attesting to the still great size of the Bacon estates. His personal estate at his death was £ 6400, and his children were well provided for. Edmund, heir to Redgrave (whose final inventory is number 93, Bacon 897), succeeded him as second baronet of Redgrave (B).

Bacon 3130
Bacon 890

1627-1628
1626

the pectus 4 foot long and 1 foot $\frac{1}{2}$ broad } ~~to~~ 4-0-0 with a Botell motoring fairly glased at the table with the incisions for } ~~8-10-0~~

 with compartment } 5-10-0

the paving of ~~perfect~~ potwork marbell } 18-16-6
 at 18 the foot fairly hooped and laged

the lisen stone of whit marbell with the } 25-0-0 Crise of black marbell and the letters given and filled with black for the space of

Set Edmond to be at all Carrys of Carrys } and mete and dringe in the country, and the ~~Carrys~~ ^{Some} will be the Kentes steps 190 foot at 13² the foot } 9-8-4

 for 30 perfect stones 18 fingers square } 1-5-0

this last of marge 1627

E. H. Bacon

~~4~~
 51-6-6
 5-0-0
 1-12

57-18-6

received of this Some 40
 the 25 of January 1627

this 27 of Nov: 1628 Received in full payment of all debts the Some of 10-10-0
 I say in full Sares favour 10-10-0
 Nic: Stone