

Syr, as you sent me word by ofborn, as soone as I understood of my lord Treasurers coming from the court ^{this} afternoon I lett him know what you said of Nathaniels lett of coming. That he lett shuld be trew wth is named ^{to me} forye, for it is a great pain, but to be playn as I can not now change when I fyrst heard his wyffe was come or not he, I looked not for him.
My lord Treasurer hath appointed to morrow at 4 of the clock in the afternoon ^{to hear the matter} at so wyll to certefye you. I pray god worke in yo^r hart as a disposition to Ende as I at the first by his grace gave a very rare example to beginn well Immediately upon yo^r Fathers death, of a most faithful hart ever to him & the lybe desire to conform yo^r good will stiff. yf any y^t townsett, as the world is full of subtiltee go about to alter yo^r own nature which hether to I have taken to be well enclined, I pray god syr Nicolas Bacon lett it do no hurt betwixt us where there hath ben so long a continuance of more then comon Amitye. you being the same, as I the wyff, & now the wedloe of the same fath^{er} or husband. So I byd you hartely fare well & shalbe very glad when wee may mete togeth^r frendly.
Fro Shudloe yourse this prunday.

yo^r well wyller alwayes Bacon
