

Brotherly, before I write to you, at my house, I cannot but be at the other side of the appointed time, and I have to write to you, and I have into you, and I have to write to you, delivered to me, for the recovery of twist, but I have for the performance of of sent you now enclosed an acknowledgment for the full receipt of all such sums of money as was due unto me, from you, for the purchase of my share, and also a bill of my hand of x^b and I have returned more was due unto me.

I require from you a Note drawn by you to this effect: That whomever I do stand bound unto you for the payment of certain sums of money, namely to M^r Calthrop, and M^r Pecke, and John Taylor, I you doo acknowledge the same debts to be yours only, and to discharge me of them, as I remember this was the affect of y^e speche concerning these matters at my being with you if there be in y^e consideration any thing for my service, needfull for y^e to add to y^e writing pray do it, and what shall request for my parte to you you shall give the same order to pay for it, to conclude I write I remain all yours and then I would say more than now I will write, thus your brotherly friend

I all waies to command your humble
