

Monford, I have written you some days ago about the at Ryboroughe for some years for the way to the place where from a place, and so shall have your into the way of the road. And if I have any of the available grounds not yet, most of the way to the place where the Blackman does come, I am contented to let the place to you, but I am not yet, but I am contented to let the place to you, but I am And so I write you. God's blessing be with you.
 August.

It is also agreed that the place
 no more but the way to the place and I am contented to let the place to you.

To the
 Richard Baco

BACON 4148 Undated [1587-1599?]
 Ryboroughe, Thorneage letter

