

Sweete harte I pray you to cause as much of the cloth to be sent up by y^e next carrier as will serve for your Linens, of some 2 y^{ards} and a half or 2 y^{ards} three quarters in a linen, I pray aske Susan, what she did with the consune of roses, that plum did bring from London, I would wishe if y^t if you goe to smalbridge y^t you went quickly, because I may change from Rye to w^h for something I maye misse of, if you sh^d be gone from home, howe soe I pray you write presently, and send a messenger for y^e howards, if it will please my sister to send them, for assuredly, she or I wilbe cased of them.
 I pray you cause an entry to be made into horcroft ferme, as my cousin Drury shall advise you, and because y^t Albon is runne away, and y^t cutrisse is to be putt Adams oute, he may house w^h ferme he will have, and Adams shall have y^e other, and I will make a lease for 12 y^{ears}, but not a penny under 10⁰ y^e a^{re}, for as y^e price of Ringes is 10⁰ y^e a^{re}, I will warrant you, you shall see the price of Lande rise much in sixe months be passed.
 If cutrisse will kepe a gooshaule for me I will bring one from y^e Brewe. I pray take order y^t candles be no taddy. I have, and lett my bayles beke to all my tenants about it. I pray that Gabriell take order for timber for the byding house to be a stable, and y^t he have as many carpenters as he can about it, as also for y^e Land to be mowd that they neede not strind to make so broad, but only for necessary houses and some of it for a Dogges kennell; And y^t the doe cause barren woad, and how woad to be cutt and mowd w^h a bushy sythe, and y^e way be to be sett up at thretford, and y^e water cutt to rund Morowen the ditch on both sydes, of y^e cause, and y^e young sick

[illegible]