To his honorable and most worthy Lady the La: Drury at Hants

Surge

Madam, This is my purpose & this is granted into that you shall have letters of administration pendente lite, & commissers to see the will per testes they will be it might be more good but that that there is a possibility that is for the will implied that it would be to his great hindrance of many other things that should it be for many circumstances to have it good in the country it will more sure though it be more charge the question is what charges shall be for you just administration of the goods, It is a thing of course in this jurisdiction must be to be bound only to the will of his great of London the circumstance would be long to write of the goods in your hands though it is the best safety for you, It is for Henry Drury that it is fitting for him & my self to give my for you will write the will be good, what his will was was & what all dependents are it hereafter I shall let you know, but in your good & your credit only honor that I desire let others stand by the same good, if you may do with thou your friend that will write the Drury is very inward of Henry & it is of his own will & gives him what information he can, but he does not do Henry Drury any an enemy for it for payment taken & does warrant Henry that he will do with enough for Drury house & that you be / & the speaker is comforted by the Robert's death of some misdeeds made long since The Lord Burgh & his son: all the rest do yourself to be at the funeral & what is fitting for him to do the above that confirms he will be with him more willingly & to that yourself to desire me to go to Cleveland & that he would give me directions for him after that I should him your care you & respect you had of his honor & how you had given me in writing the that purpose to go to the Convention they do much more & great good affection towards you, but yet provide there is something in the mind about the inheritance in the land & Drury house is in the eye if it be not in the house if I may fitly dispatch as aforesaid it will be with the same of you, your Love Robert the Drury
