air for the first time yesterday for more than a month past. This sort of thing, which is continually occurring, would kill any thing that works as I do at thirty-six. But must it do at fifty-six?

I have also in the press at Cambridge Part II of my Comicommon Gracorum Fragmenta.

I will shew you a sheet of both books some day when I can call.
It is horrible that, although the printing of both books is provided for, I should be so crippled as not to be able to move.
Literary men, I well know, are seldom rich enough to subscribe to books — but if any of those

You are acquainted with - Mr (ary for instance, or Mr Dale, to whom you introduced me - are so, & you think that you can with propriety ask them to take a veteran & battered editor by the hand, I should, I suppose you, be most thankful. ~~Oh~~ I will therefore say that the price of Part II of my Essay will be the same with that of Part I
 - that the price of Part I of my Com. Co. For. which has been out some few years, is $9/6^d - I that the price of Part II of that work, although probably as large affair, will in all probability be $9/6^d also.

Yours very truly
 Henry Bohm Esq. J. Bailey,
