"La Belgique Pittoresque"

is a perfect representation of a Belgian Village of the year 1572. This of course, calls for Authentic and correct Costumes of the period. As at that time Flemish countries were in the possession of Spain under Emperor Philip II, the Spanish influence in dress entered into the costumes of the country, especially among the nobles.

The old Chicago firm of Fritz Schoultz & Co., were selected to supply all the costumes for the village and correct wearing apparel, as worn in the year 1572, to suit each different tradesman or woman was imported or made in their shop in Chicago.

This village has a Burgomeister or Mayor and three Aldermen. The guards wear the correct uniforms of the soldier of the Period. The various shop-keepers wear the costumes of the Burghers and townspeople. The Belgian milkmaids and the boy and girl dancers, however, are of the present day style such as worn by the farmer people.
