DR. HENRY MEYER, IN JAIL, CALLED POISON CASE MAN

Dr. Henry Meyer, who is finishing a six months' term in the county jail for pandering, it was learned yesterday, is Dr. Henry C. W. Meyer, who was sentenced to Sing Sing prison in New York in 1893 for poisoning Ludwig Brandt for his life insurance. At that time he was accused of having poisoned five other persons, including two of his wives and his child.

He was discharged some months ago from the Dunning asylum, where he was employed, on charges of pro-Germanism and is wanted by the federal authorities for alleged traffic in narcotics.

At his recent trial in the Morals court Mamie Brooks and Lillian Saunders testified he told them to "hook" men of means and he would "put them out of the way."
