Sir,

Certain questions and controversies having arisen between Horace Gray Esq. and sundry others claiming under him of the one part, and the Boston & Roxbury Mill Corporation & the Boston Water Power Co of the other part, respecting the quantities of water to which said Gray & others are entitled to, the mode of measuring and delivering the same, & other mutual rights obligations & claims of the parties they have respectively agreed upon a board of commissioners consisting of one lawyer and two civil engineers to whom the whole subject is to be submitted with full power to settle conclusively the rights of the parties, and with authority to employ any needful assistance in surveying &c & other requisite powers as will more fully appear in the formal instrument of submission, a brief outline of which is enclosed.

The parties hereby jointly request that you will consent to act as one of this

Dear Sir

I wrote you in January, directed to Charleston; since which I have learned that you have been absent on a number of surveys at the South during the winter, which is probably the reason of my not receiving an answer. Being ignorant where to direct to you, I enclose this to your brother in Boston to be forwarded.

My letter of January informed you that yours to me of Nov. directed to Brunswick was by some oversight of the postmaster not handed to my son Frederick till it had lain in the office six weeks. It also informed you that Frederick by your recommendation would continue his studies through the winter. He is now ready and anxious to be with you, and will, if you conclude to continue at the South, join you as soon as you shall give him permission for that purpose.

Will you please favor me with an answer by an early mail and oblige yours most truly and respectfully

Portland (Maine) April 20th 1834

Sir—

In April 1833, I was informed by a letter to me, from the Secretary of the Navy, that my name was entered in his Office, on the list of candidates for an appointment to the Office of Midshipman in the Navy of the U. States. Since that time I have devoted much more attention, and applied more of my limited means to qualify and prepare myself to meet the appointment, and to encounter the duties of the Station, with confidence of my ability to discharge them, than I should have done, had I entertained a doubt of receiving the appointment before this day— but I am tired and disgusted with the flattering promises that, "whenever a Midshipman can be appointed from Maine, it will give the Secretary pleasure to examine my claims"! And my puerile credulity and inexperience (encouraged by the assurances of the acting Secretary of the Navy, that my recommendations placed me high on the list of candidates) have, thus far, given credence to those official encouragements, one of which, as I had supposed, imposed an obligation upon the Secretary, not to be evaded, to give me the first appointment that could be conferred on an inhabitant of Maine.— But, pardon me, Sir, I intended to say to you, that in consequence of my wish to enter into the Naval Service, and of my confident expectation of being appointed a Midshipman, I placed myself under the instruction of Capt. Francis G. Clarke, formerly a Shipmaster, who for a number of years past has devoted his time to the instruction of youth in the Mathematics and Navigation; and during the time I have been instructed by Capt Clark I attended assiduously, and I hope successfully, to the Study of Nautical Science, embracing Navigation, Nautical Astronomy, and the collateral branches, – as Algebra, Playfair's Geometry, and something in Spherical Trigonometry, Huttons Mathematics in part, and such other collateral branches, as are deemed requisite for the appointment I have anticipated. – But by my own choice, not less than by the advice of Friends, in whom I have great confidence, I have made up my mind to think no more of the Navy, and to reject the appointment, I have hereto for so ardently desired, should it be conferred upon me – And have concluded to seek for the best aide to be obtained in our Country, for acquiring a knowledge of Civil Engineering – And believing, that my Object would be best accomplished by placing myself under your instruction and friendly auspices, in any capacity, or employment, connected with Study, in which I may acquire a competent knowledge of the mysteries of the practical Science of Civil Engineering, and by which I may be enabled, in an honorable employment, to obtain honest bread. – I take the liberty to ask you, Sir, if you will consent to receive me, as one of your pupils – either to remain in Charlestown in case of your absence, or to accompany you, on any journey you may make, to examine Routs for Rail Roads, Canals &c. As I am blest with health and a good Share of muscular power, which I should be extremely happy to apply, in your aid, as you should wish, perhaps I might be able to "work my way" and thus pay my travelling expenses, or a part of them, and be studying and acquiring Practical knowledge at the Same time – but I fear I am presuming too much, & taxing your patience too far – I hope however, you will excuse me for the assurance, that I am anxious to receive the benefit of your personal instruction, and that if you will consent to favor me with it, you shall never have occasion, from my conduct, to charge me with ingratitude, or insensibility, to your kindness.

I am, Sir,
With the highest Respect,
Your Obed.t Serv.t
