A MILITARY ANECDOTE.

It was customary with Marshal Basompierre, when any of his soldiers were brought before him for heinous offences, to say to them—"Brother, you or I will certainly be hanged"—which was a sufficient denunciation of their fate. A spy, who was discovered in his camp was addressed in this language; and next day, as the wretch was about to be led to the gallows, he pressed earnestly to speak with the marshal, alleging that he had somewhat of importance to communicate. The marshal being made acquainted with his request, said, in his rough manner—"It is always the way of these rascals; they pretend some frivolous story, merely to reprieve themselves for a few moments; however, bring the dog hither." Being introduced, the marshal asked him what he had to say—"Why, my lord," said the culprit, "when first I had the honour of your conversation, you were pleased to say that either you or I should be be hanged ; now I am come to know whether it is your pleasure to be so, because, if you won't, I must ; that's all." The marshal was so pleased with the fellow's humour, that he ordered him to be released.

---

I have told you this for your amusement ; now let me impart something which may prove to your advantage. The new State Lottery, which will soon be drawn in One Day, contains Forty Capital Prizes, amounting with smaller ones, to the immense sum of £200,000, besides Four Extra Prizes of Tickets, with all the Prizes they may contain, by which plan One Ticket may produce the good round sum of £100,000 !!! The great advantages of the Scheme are unparalleled—Tickets will (from the very great demand at all the offices) most likely be raised in price—therefore you should not be tardy in availing yourself of an opportunity of realising a princely fortune, by purchasing either a Ticket or Share ; and should it prove fortunate, you will, I hope, remember the story of Marshal Basompierre.

---

Tho' the gay Fruits of Nature are tempting and sweet,
Yet I know by far a more excellent treat;
'Tis the rich golden Fruit in the Lottery
Wheel,
Which Fortune, Next Month, to all ranks will reveal.

How to get Married

DEAR Madam, at your feet I bow
A very humble swain,
Be kind enough to tell me how
Your hand and heart to gain

Good Sir, you need not bend so low:
But pray attend to me:
My heart to gain, you'll please to know
There are conditions three

I'm all attention, pray proceed
For be they what they will,
I'll fly on wings of lightning speed,
Your pleasure to fulfil

First, you must love me warm and true,
Your love by actions prove,
And next, no rival must I view
I scorn divided love

Both these conditions, lovely fair,
I can with ease fulfil;
The third condition now declare,
And shew me all your will.

Last, you'll observe, that in my hand
I Twenty Thousand hold;
That sum you likewise must command
Love without wealth is cold.

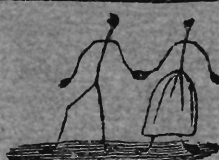

Alas! then there's no hope, that you
Will bless me with your hand;
For though my heart is warm and true,
No wealth can I command.

Nay, don't despair, man, go to BUCK,
A Lottery Ticket buy,
And he perhaps may crown your wish,
At all events, I'd try

The fair's advice the lover took,
A Ticket he obtain'd;
and by consulting Fortune's book,
A Twenty Thousand gain'd.

Join'd heart and hand in Hymen's chain,
No bounds their pleasure knew,
Be wiss like him, and you may gain
A wife and fortune too

The Chace of Fortune!

Farewell, my dear girl, honour calls me away,
And that is a summons a tar must obey;

'Tis the glory of Britain I go to maintain,
But with victory crown'd, I will meet you again.

In pursuit of the foe the brave hero departs;
And she yields to the valour of true British hearts.

To oppose British courage is always in vain
For Britannia will rule as Queen of the Main.

She's boarded, and see the fierce carnage begun,
But soon by our tars is the victory won.

And many more laurels their prowess shall gain,
While the standard of Britain floats over the main.

Safely anchor'd ashore, with money galore
His luck in the Lunt'ry he tries.

Fortune smiles at his pains, now he's counting his
In the shape of a Capital Prize. (Guana)

LOVE AND RICHES.

Oh! charming Miss May
If you'll only be mine,
Every pleasure that Wealth
Can procure shall be thine.

Away! you old fool
I am not such an elf,
To barter my bliss
For your ill-gotten pelf.

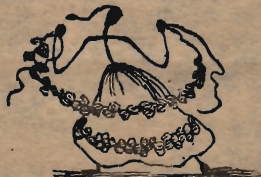

Good bye, my gay lass,
But you shall remember
The slight you now pass
Upon Mr. December.

Good bye, my old Dad
But don't be in a rage,
I'm griev'd you're so sad
And I pity your age.

Your true lover, June
Begs to offer his hand,
Whose heart and whose love
You may ever command

I acknowledge your worth,
But we're both of us poor
And love cannot keep
The wolf from the door

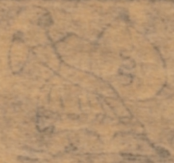

But Fortune you'll own can grant all your wishes
And make you both happy in Lottery riches.

Farewell, then, to care, and to church haste away,
The gay Mr. June shall be married to May.

LOVE AND EIGHTER.

It is not only for love
That we are drawn to each other,
But for the pleasure of the moment
And the joy of the moment.

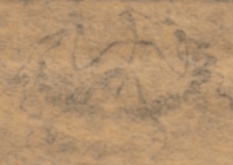

It is not only for love
That we are drawn to each other,
But for the pleasure of the moment
And the joy of the moment.

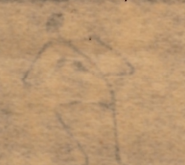

It is not only for love
That we are drawn to each other,
But for the pleasure of the moment
And the joy of the moment.

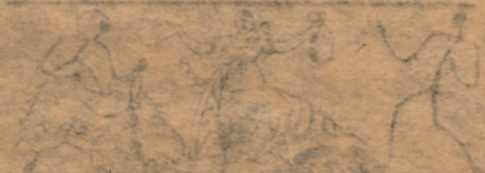

It is not only for love
That we are drawn to each other,
But for the pleasure of the moment
And the joy of the moment.

It is not only for love
That we are drawn to each other,
But for the pleasure of the moment
And the joy of the moment.

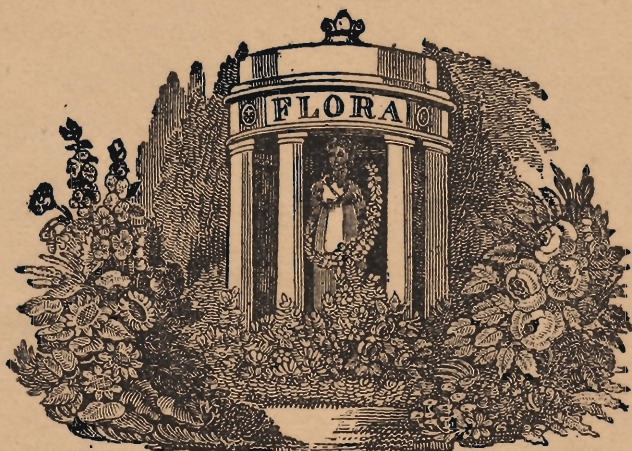

It is not only for love
That we are drawn to each other,
But for the pleasure of the moment
And the joy of the moment.

It is not only for love
That we are drawn to each other,
But for the pleasure of the moment
And the joy of the moment.

It is not only for love
That we are drawn to each other,
But for the pleasure of the moment
And the joy of the moment.
