

Open (S) (R)

6345, Ingleside-avenue, Chicago,

21 December, 1900.

, Dec. 28, 1900.

My dear Sir

If, as I am informed, the salary of an instructor in the University of Chicago is $1,800, for which he delivers six full courses in the 6345 Ingleside avenue, Chicago, Illinois.
Mr. Wallace Rice,

My Dear Mr. Rice:—no reason for asking any other terms than those established wish to acknowledge at the same time your courtesy week for twelve in presenting the copies of your books which were received lectures would make the amount named unprofitable for me were I less the books with great interest. I am free to confess that sanguine concerning their success, and, if one course is to be given in
I am becoming more and more interested in the proposed each term, I should ask the privilege of delivering it in the afternoon.
plan. One of the serious difficulties, however, involved

The best results, as I believe, will come from having the three is the matter of money. Will you allow me to correct courses running at once placing question of the salary of an amount to a complete nstructor staff. The University pays its instructors at the other, the rate of $1200, $1400, and $1600 for three successive years.

The sum of $1800 has never been paid and is not being paid those in the third furnishing examples of style and form for the rest any instructor or indeed any other officer of the University, to follow. This could be done by dividing the junior class applicants
The Question is whether you could afford to give a course into three classes, the two latter of which would finish the third $200. I note also what you say concerning the additional course and the 1st of the course involved in calling in practical men discussed later. taking the matter up it would be important to know

My plan also concretes definitely with reference to this. I have not yet prepared a recommendation to the trustees but hope for specific lectures. This would require an additional expenditure.

to do so at no very distant date. I remain Just how much this would be I cannot state, but less than $100 a course
Yours very truly should cover it. The type-writing machines can be postponed until the purely experimental stage has been passed, so that my wage will be the

66

dear Sir:-
If, as I
of Ch

Dear Mr. Rice.

Mr. Wallace Rice

224 Ingleside Avenue, Chestnut Hill

My Dear Mr. Rice:-

I wish to acknowledge to the same time how you have bothered me copies of your book which were received in presenting me and also how sorry I am to receive such a loss as the book with great regret. It is the first of
I am becoming more and more interested in the proposed by you, due to the various difficulties, however, I feel it will be well worth the trouble to you.
As the matter of money, we will have to wait for the arrival of the bill to the University which is to be submitted by the University trustees. The University will be asked for $1800, say $1500 for three additional years, but I do not believe that at this price there will never be need to ask for any further sum to cover the expenses of the University and the trustees will be asked to give a sum to the University at whatever you consider fair and reasonable. I hope to have a sum of $800, I hope so as I have not yet prepared
so far as to know what will be required to get the University to accept my letter of this date. I remain Yours very truly

(68)

(N)

6345, Ingleside-avenue, Chicago,

21 December, 1900.

dear Sir:—

If, as I am informed, the salary of an instructor in the University of Chicago is $1,800, for which he delivers six full courses in the space of nine months, I see no reason for asking any other terms than those established, or $300 for each course, involving four hours a week for twelve weeks. At the same time, the initial labor of preparing the lectures would make the amount named unprofitable for me were I less sanguine concerning their success, and, if one course is to be given in each term, I should ask the privilege of delivering it in the afternoon.

The best results, as I believe, will come from having the three courses running at once, placing under my control what will amount to a complete newspaper staff, each department furnishing material for the other, the second course men correcting the work of the first, and those in the third furnishing examples of style and form for the rest to follow. This could be done by dividing the junior class applicants into three classes, the two latter of which would finish the third course and the series in the senior year. But that, of course, can be discussed later.

My plan also contemplates the calling in, as I said, of practical men for specific lectures. This would require an additional expenditure. Just how much this would be I cannot state, but less than $100 a course should cover it. The type-writing machines can be postponed until the purely experimental stage has been passed, so that my wage will be the

4
Cape Verde Islands - 1945 - Part 1

6

CONTINENTAL IS.

Continental Is. is composed of the islands of Fernando de Noronha and the small island of Gomé. Fernando de Noronha is a group of nine islands situated about 350 miles off the coast of Brazil. It consists of two large islands, Fernando de Noronha and Santa Catharina, and seven smaller ones. The islands are of volcanic origin and are covered with dense tropical forest. The climate is warm and humid, with temperatures ranging from 70° to 80° F. The soil is very poor and rocky, but there are some good streams and rivers. The people are mostly of African descent, with a small number of Portuguese and other European immigrants. The economy is based on agriculture, particularly coffee and tobacco, and on fishing. There is also some mining of gold and diamonds. The islands are visited by many tourists, especially during the winter months. The capital is Olinda, located on the island of Fernando de Noronha. The other islands are São Pedro, São Paulo, Ilha das Couves, Ilha da Boa Vista, Ilha dos Frades, Ilha das Flores, Ilha do Mel, and Ilha das Catarinas. The islands are part of the state of Pernambuco, Brazil. The islands are known for their beautiful beaches, clear blue water, and lush green forests. The islands are also famous for their unique culture, which is a mix of African, Portuguese, and other European influences. The islands are a popular destination for scuba diving, snorkeling, and surfing. The islands are also known for their excellent seafood, particularly lobsters and shrimp. The islands are a great place to visit if you are looking for a tropical vacation with a touch of history and culture.

only outlay to be considered until success seems assured. I may add that my project continues to excite much interest among the working ~~le~~ newspaper men down town, and ^{that} I have recently added Hearst's Chicago American to the papers for which I am reviewing.

Will you permit me to congratulate you on the growing success of the University, to thank you for your kindly interest in my project, and to subscribe myself

Yours respectfully,

Wallace Rice.

William R. Harper, Ph.D., D.D., LL.D., President, The University of Chicago,
Chicago.

