In behalf of the Church Federation Council I wish to thank you heartily for your kindness in speaking at the Illinois Theatre on Monday. I regretted that important meetings of which I did not know at the time the Theatre meeting was planned detained many ministers who regretted the necessity of missing your message but I have had many indications of deep interest in what you said from those who were present.

we were speaking last week in New York, and is a section of my report to the American Commissioners to negotiate peace, in Paris. I feel at liberty to give publicity to it because it certainly involves nothing of a confidential nature, and because anything that may be said on this subject at this time is very much in point. Of course the special thing which I was emphasizing was, as the title indicates, the relation of the League of wations to the old civilizations which need modernizing. It is unnecessary to say that the same principles precisely apply to these new states which are being created out of old empires like Austria-Hungary and Turkey. If you have any use for it of course you are welcome.

My dear Doctor Judson:

In my mail this morning is a note from you returning a check sent by the Business Office as honorarium for the material from your report that we printed in the April number. Things of this kind happen not infrequently for two reasons, one of which is inclusive.

A very constant motive in the conduct of this Review is, to adapt your phrase, "the aiding of causes in which we are greatly interested." The consequence is that we are constantly obtaining from active men article or statements concerning particular matters about which they are directly concerned, and which come from them because they wish to aid a cause.

If, however, we attempted in giving honorariums to draw a line between writers who have to be paid because they earn their livings by writing articles and others who write articles in order to promote a cause about which they write, we would find ourselves in a rather difficult and delicate position.

While there isn't any need of going into details, I will add a few sentences because I think they will amuse you. Look, then, at this very program for April. Haynes, who is in office at Washington, was very glad to get us to print the article about his own race but it was best to send him a check. Dr. Livingston Farrand's article was really offerred to up for publicity purposes by the Red Cross, but, from our own standpoint, it was best to send a check. Secretary Baker, in a recent number, made a statement for us on the returning soldiers, and he naturally sent back a little check that was mailed to him, but accepted it when I explained to him that in such cases it was best that we should pay an honorarium which the recipient could apply to some worthy cause in which we all felt a common interest. When J.D. Rockefeller, Jr., wrote an extended article for us in promotion of the drive for Y.M.C.A. and other War activities, it was obvious that we all had as our object the promotion of the same things. He accepted the check for his work, and turned it in to the fund. The thing that you will do in this particular case, I doubt not, is to use this check as a contribution to the fund for Relief in the Near East or apply it in some more personal way to the situation with which you have been and are still concerned.

As ever,

Sincerely yours,

Dear Sir:

You cannot be unaware that the solution of the problem of Irish nationality has ceased to be purely local to the British Empire.

The united and aggressive action of the people of Irish blood scattered throughout the world, including some twenty million of them in America, is demanding that the age long question be settled by international advisement.

We are asking you for an opportunity to present this very vita problem before the faculty, student body and friends of the University that the standpoint of the friends of the Irish Republic may have official pronouncement.

To this end, may we ask that you permit one of the National Council of the Friends of Irish Freedom, the Reverend James Grattan Mythen, D. D., Ph. D. of Columbia, Oxford, Utrecht and Bonn Universities, a collateral relative of the immortal Grattan, and who is a clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal Church, to appear before such assembly of the faculty, students, and friends of your institution as may wish to hear this subject discussed.

The Rev. Dr. Mythen will be available for engagements from Tuesday, May 19th to Wednesday, May 28th.

Dr. Mythen would lecture on "Self Determination for Irland Guaranteed by American War Aims." This lecture would be without expense to the University and no admission would be charged.

Kindly communicate with the Chairman of the Committee and state whether it is agreeable that Dr. Mythen should deliver this lecture at your University on any date which you may specify within the above limits.
