To President Harry PRATT JUDSON.

Dear Sir,

I herewith beg to hand you in your quality of member of the Standing Committee on the Study and Teaching of International Law and related subjects some documents of the "Central Organisation for a durable Peace," concerning the work that is undertaken by the nine internationale Study-Committees created by our Organisation.

I saw in the American Journal of International Law of July 1916 in the comment on the work of your Committee that you would be glad to receive further suggestions as to the study of international law and so I suppose you may feel interested in these documents.

At the same time I am writing to Mr. James Brown Scott as Secretary of your Committee to ask your Committee to take part in our study-work and I hope your Committee will give us a favorable answer to this request, in order that our International Organisation may have the privilege of your cooperation in this matter.

On the other hand I would feel indebted to you if you would be kind enough to send us a copy of the report of your Committee and other papers realting your work.

May I finally draw your attention to the fact that the various reports about the nine items of our Minimum-Programme of which some copies are sent to you as an example have been collected in two volumes entitled "Recueil de Rapports sur les différents points du Programme-Minimum." A list of the contents is enclosed.

Thanking you by anticipation for your answer,

Faithfully yours,

B. de Jong van Beek en Donk

Secretary.
