

In view of the extraordinary rally of the Princes and People of India to Great Britain and the Empire in this great conflict, Sir Gilbert Parker hopes that the little book, "India and the War," authoritative in its nature, which he sends herewith, may be welcome to you. An acknowledgment is not necessary, but if it should be your wish to send one, Sir Gilbert will be glad if you will address it as follows:—

Sir GILBERT PARKER, Bart.,

20, Carlton House Terrace,

London, S.W.,

England.

June, 1915.

In view of the extraordinary rally of the Princes and People of India to Great Britain and the Empire in this great conflict, Sir Gilbert Parker hopes that the little book, "India and the War," published in its nature, which he sends herewith, will, may be welcome to you. An acknowledgment is not necessary, but if it should be your wish to send one, Sir Gilbert will be glad if you will address it as follows —

SIR GILBERT PARKER, Bart.

20, Carlton House Terrace,

London, S.W.

England.

June, 1915.

Chicago, September 9, 1915

President Harry Pratt Judson
begs to extend his thanks to Sir
Gilbert Parker, Bart., for the very interesting and valuable book on
"India and the War".

Sir Gilbert Parker, Bart.,
20, Carlton House Terrace,
London, S.W., England.

Chicago, September 9, 1918

President Harry Pratt Judson

begs to extend his thanks to Sir

Gilbert Parker, Bart., for the very interesting and valuable book on

"India and the War".

Sir Gilbert Parker, Bart.,
20, Carlton House Terrace,
London, S.W., England.