

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS
OFFICE OF THE LIBRARIAN
WASHINGTON

+6

Jan 20, '05

My Dear Sir,

R N

I need not say with what profound concern we at a distance have followed each published word regarding President Harper's illness, with what dismay we read his own forebodings, with what anxiety we shall scan the reports during the next few days, and how heartily we pray that the diagnosis be favorable.

I have refrained from writing

24
LIBRARY OF CONGRESS
OFFICE OF THE LIBRARIAN
WASHINGTON

-ing to him because I realize the burden of his recent correspondence and wished to save him even the trouble of an acknowledgment. I would save you it also. Do not therefore take this as other than an expression of concern which requires no answer.

Faithfully yours

Herbert Hulman

Prof Harry P. Hudson and when I was travelling I was often asked to write for the benefit of the cause. I have done so and I hope to do so again.

of course what I have written is

Yours truly
John Lubbock

Herbert Putnam

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS
WASHINGTON

OFFICE OF THE LIBRARIAN

May 1 1908

7

My dear President Judson:

The data requested in your note of the 28th can of course be given only approximately, the two extremes of books of great simplicity and of sets very intricate (from the view point of the cataloguer) being so far apart in their requirements. But I am asking our Chief Cataloguer to get together for you some figures which may be to your purpose.

Very sincerely yours,

Librarian of Congress

President Harry Pratt Judson
The University of Chicago
Chicago Illinois

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS
WASHINGTON

OFFICE OF THE LIBRARIAN

May 1 1908

My dear President Judson:

The data requested in your note of the 28th can of course be given only approximately, the two extremes of books of great simplicity and of sets very intricate (from the view point of the cataloguer) being as far apart in their requirements. But I am asking our Chief Cataloguer to get together for you some figures which may be to your purpose.

Very sincerely yours,

Librarian of Congress

President Harry Pratt Judson
The University of Chicago
Chicago Illinois