President Theodore Roosevelt,
Washington, D.C.

I wish to congratulate you upon the confidence which the country has shown in reelecting you and to congratulate the country upon the result of election.

William R. Harper.

READ THE NOTICE AND AGREEMENT ON BACK.

ALL MESSAGES TAKEN BY THIS COMPANY ARE SUBJECT TO THE FOLLOWING TERMS

To guard against mistakes or delays, the sender of a message should order it REPEATED ; that is telegraphed back to the originating office for comparison. For this, one-half the regular rate is charged in addition. It is agreed between the sender of the following message and this Company, that said Company shall not be liable for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for non-delivery of any UNREPEATED message, beyond the amount received for sending the same ; nor for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for non-delivery of any REPEATED message, beyond fifty times the sum received for sending the same, unless specially insured, nor in any case for delays arising from unavoidable interruption in the working of its lines, or for errors in cipher or obscure messages. And this Company is hereby made the agent of the sender, without liability, to forward any message over the lines of any other Company when necessary to reach its destination.

Correctness in the transmission of a message to any point on the lines of this Company can be INSURED by contract in writing, stating agreed amount of risk, and payment of premium thereon, at the following rates, in addition to the usual charge for repeated messages, viz, one per cent. for any distance not exceeding 1,000 miles, and two per cent. for any greater distance. No employee of the Company is authorized to vary the foregoing.

No responsibility regarding messages attaches to this Company until the same are presented and accepted at one of its transmitting offices ; and if a message is sent to such office by one of the Company's messengers, he acts for that purpose as the agent of the sender.

Messages will be delivered free within the established free delivery limits of the terminal office. For delivery at a greater distance, a special charge will be made to cover the cost of such delivery.

The Company will not be liable for damages or statutory penalties in any case where the claim is not presented in writing within sixty days after the message is filed with the Company for transmission.

THOS. T. ECKERT, President and General Manager

ACADEMY OF FORESTRY AND AGRICULTURE

URGED TO HONOR T. R.

Food Inspectors Propose Educational Memorial.

It is perhaps little known that the Meat, Food and Sanitary Science Inspector's Association, consisting of Food Inspectors of the Chicago Department of Health, meet on Saturday afternoons to discuss matters of Education in connection with their duties and under the leadership of the Chief Food Inspector James P. Kilcourse- endeavor to keep their standard of efficiency to the top notch by considering questions of the day which tend to benefit the public.

TEMPLE OF AGRICULTURE

The splendid plan of public spirited persons to build a Temple of Agriculture in Chicago was endorsed and elaborated upon with the suggestion of erecting in connection with the Temple, an Academy of Forestry, Agriculture and Domestic Science in the Forest Preserve and name this in honor of the late Theodore Roosevelt.

PEOPLE WOULD BENEFIT

The members were unanimous in declaring such a monument most appropriate, and in harmony with the endeavors of the late Mr. Roosevelt and of lasting and ever increasing benefit to the public. The president of the Association, Otto P. Black appointed the following committee: J. C. Krueger, chairman, H. Halbach, Z. Blaisdell, J. Weaver, C. Ertzman and P. Larsen who herewith present to the public their views, urging that the public endorse the plan, as the benefit arising from such an Academy would be far greater to the public than we are able to describe.

EDUCATION

No doubt most intelligent people will favor such a plan for it means education - true education - by which boys and girls, men and women are given independence and self support and hence may become actual living monuments to the man to be honored.

ORNAMENTAL MONUMENT

But many will say, "Ornament is what we desire in a monument". Very well, imagine a "Temple of Agriculture" in the city of Chicago, the center of the great Mississippi Valley where nearly two thirds of the country's food is produced. Is there need of a limit in its splendor, its magnificance - what would hinder a statue of Theodore Roosevelt to be placed at the entrance and would not the walls of the interior afford splendid opportunity to depict the life of the late typical and ideal American in imposing oil paintings? And imagine the Academy located in the Forest Preserve.

Paint for yourself in the beautiful scenery of Cook County the buildings of the Academy, viz: Administration, - Forestry and Botany, Agriculture and Dairy, Machinery and Dormitory buildings and in the midst of which a statue of the man be placed in whom we admire the great "Naturalist" and "Hunter-Explorer". Here also as suggested before, oil paintings could be used to advantage to decorate the interior.

the following committee: J. C. Krueger, chairman, H. Halbach, E. Blatnick, J. Weaver, C. Krueger and P. Larson who herewith present to the public their views, urging that the public endorse the plan, as the benefit arising from such an Academy would be far greater to the public than we are able to describe.

But many will say, "Ornament is what we desire in a monument". Very well, imagine a "Temple of Agriculture" in the city of Chicago, the center of the great Mississippi Valley where nearly two thirds of the country's food is produced. Is there need of a limit in its splendor, its magnificence - what would hinder a statue of Theodore Roosevelt to be placed at the entrance and would not the walls of the interior afford splendid opportunity to depict the life of the late typical and ideal American in imposing oil paintings? And imagine the Academy located in the Forest Preserve. Paint for yourself in the beautiful scenery of Cook County the buildings of the Academy, viz: Administration, - Forestry and Botany, Agriculture and Dairy, Machinery and Dormitory buildings and in the midst of which a statue of the man to be placed in whom we admire the great "Naturalist" and "Hunter-Explorer". Here also as suggested before, oil paintings could be used to advantage to decorate the interior.

ROOSEVELT'S CHOICE

But if Roosevelt could have a voice in the matter he would surely be in favor of a plan that stands for the development of "Brawn and Brains".

Is there anything more important than the study of Forestry and Agriculture? The legend "Food will win the War" has surely not been forgotten.

We have not space here to enter on this theme in detail but let us state in brief the most important benefits to be derived from a realization of our plan.

STANDARD OF ACADEMY

Naturally, such a proposed Academy would be what the County of Cook would make it. If we measure up to our true standard we would make it the leading of its kind in the world for we have the facilities and if all interests pool together enough money will be collected for such a worthy cause.

The University of Chicago, no doubt, would lend their influence and perhaps would exercise suzerainty over it and help it to become a full fledged college; from its inception it may be a preparatory school in place of a high school.

Wisconsin has nine Agriculture and Domestic Science Preparatory Schools; Illinois has none. Even if our plan is not adopted such a school is still a crying need for Cook County.

benefits to be expected from our proposed institution.

FIRST - The returning maimed soldiers who have practical experience in farming could be given an education in the theory of Forestry and Agriculture which would enable them to become teachers in these studies and hence make their lives happy, independent, and useful.

DELINQUENT BOYS AND GIRLS

SECOND - Delinquent boys and girls, also some of the feeble minded and unemployed, could be put to work in the dairy barns, the former could be educated and helped to independent occupation.

THE LOCAL COW

THIRD - The introduction of the local cow. The cow stables and the dairy herds connected with the agricultural school would be of manifold benefits to the Chicago people. The Forest Preserve affords pasture for many cows and there need be no limit in number, say, thousands of cows could be milked in the Forest Preserve, the production of milk so near the market is of inestimable value as it would provide fresh milk, which is the main factor in the quality of milk. The supply would be enough for the needs of the Municipal Tuberculosis Sanitarium and for the poor babies of Chicago. It would also make Chicago independent in case of milk strikes by the farmers at least for the most important demand.

Under the supervision of the Academy the highest quality of milk could be produced as the people who do the milking would do nothing else except taking care of the cows.

CHAIN OF MEMORIALS

If the Academy were a success which it undoubtedly would become because of its great need, other countries would emulate our action and a chain of such memorials would be possible and all who benefit in any degree thereby would herald the great renown of our late Theodore Roosevelt.

Much more could be said but may it suffice to emphasize that there need be no limit to the grandeur and usefulness of such a memorial.

Dear Mr. Judson:-

The suggestion regarding an introduction to Captain Young's essay to be written by Colonel Roosevelt, was thrown out as a possible compromise in the event that it should be deemed desirable to accommodate Mr. Roosevelt's wishes, and as the only way in which the offer might be made acceptable as a commercial proposition.

However such an introduction would not remove the objections of the publication committee to the essay considered on its merits, and on the whole it does not favor the publication.

Dear Mr. Roosevelt:-

During my absence abroad last summer your letter relating to Captain Young's book reached my office, together with the MS. The matter was carefully considered this fall after my return by the committee of the University Press having in charge such publication, a copy of whose opinion I am herewith enclosing. While the book might be an interesting one for general use, and while some publisher who is interested in the sale to the general public might be glad to consider it, the committee feel that the function of the University Press, which is restricted to publications strictly scientific in the large sense of the term, would not warrant taking over the MS. of Captain Young. The report of the committee will make this entirely clear. I may say that I personally greatly regret that this is the case, as the subject matter and the author are such as I hoped would result in a production of no little scientific interest. The MS. has been returned to Captain Young.

Dear Mr. Judson:-

The Publication Committee of the Board of the University Press has considered the question of the publication of the treatise or essay entitled "Military Morale of Nations and Races", by Charles Young, Captain U. S. Army, military attache, American Legation, Port au Prince, Haiti. The Committee is of the opinion that whatever interest might attach to this work in view of the personality or position of the author, its character as a contribution to science does not satisfy the standards set for the publications of the University Press. In this judgment the Committee is confirmed by the opinion of Professor Thomas, who is especially familiar with the literature on Race Psychology. Professor Thomas states that while he does not undertake to say that the work would not be read with interest by a number of people, it cannot be regarded as having any scientific value, that the author has not the present day standpoint, and that the work is mainly quotations and paraphrases of LeBon and half a dozen other writers who are not themselves strictly up-to-date. (The Committee has not considered the question whether the work would have any "documentary" value if merely put forward as a significant or representative utterance, endorsed and introduced by some one whose words carry great weight with the public.)

The following letter is written, in a pure spirit of unselfishness, which I know will, readily, find a responsive chord in your soul.

By invitation of the author, I have recently read a work, yet in manuscript, entitled "The Military Morale of Nations and Races", by Capt. Charles Young, of the U. S. Army. Capt. Young you will recall, is a graduate of West Point, and the only "colored" commissioned officer, in the Army.

I regard the book as a most remarkable production, proceeding as it does, from an unknown author, and especially from one of a Race of people, however talented they have shown themselves in music and oratory, who have never essayed, even, works dealing with science and philosophy.

Capt. Young's book is a classic in style, clear, terse and unpretentious in language, but showing clearly the hard study and deep thought he has given, to a scientific and philosophical subject, and one not hackneyed by any predecessors in the same field.

The peculiar merit of Capt. Young's work, is, that, differing from the custom of all other colored writers, he has not occupied a Race standpoint, he has written from the standpoint of an impersonal scientist and philosopher.

He is really a very learned scholar, handling a deep sociological subject, from the viewpoint of history and modern psychology.

I am informed by some of the Military officers, at Ft. Russell that Capt. Young is held in high esteem, in the Army, not only for his abilities, but on account of his splendid character as an officer and gentleman. They say competent judges, who know both men regard him as the equal, intellect, of Booker Washington, the great man of his Race.

Capt. Young's book, it seems to me would be of great value to the U. S. Government, as a text book, in the Military and Naval Academies of the country, and certainly should be read by Military officers.

This letter is addressed to you, thinking that if you were disposed to move in the premises, you might be able to get the Government to promote the publication of the manuscript, on account of the value it would have as a Military text book, to it, and on account of educational value to Nation, which would result from the knowledge that one of its "colored" citizens had demonstrated the capabilities of his Race to produce a work of great scientific and philosoph~~ic~~ic value.

I have the honor to be,

Dear Sir:-

We need to hold our boys and girls in Sunday School through the critical age. If they knew that prominent men whom they read about, were interested in the Sunday School, it would increase their respect for the School.

If the pastor or superintendent of the 15,000 or more schools which we reach, could announce some Sunday morning that he had a message from you to the school, and then proceed to read the message, it would attract attention and make a deep impression on the scholars.

Will you write 25 or more words, which we may use in this way?

Ex-President Roosevelt responded to our request. We enclose you copy of the message which he sent us, as it appreciates the importance of our work.

These messages will furnish the pastor or superintendent a text for remarks, after which he can review the lesson.

Sincerely yours,

F. M. Barton

Dear Sir:-

Education, to be complete, should include a study of religion as well as of secular subjects. No better service can be rendered the community than thorough organizing and intelligent direction of Sunday-schools. On the other hand, the young student can do nothing better for himself than to secure all the possible advantages from the instruction therein given.

February 24, 1905.

My dear President Harper:

I have been very deeply touched by your letter, written at such a time. Now, my dear fellow, let me say to you with all the earnestness I can how deeply I appreciate all the aid and comfort you have given me by advice and friendship and example, and how proud I am, as an American, of you and of your career and of all that you have done.

With deep regard and sympathy, and heartiest
good wishes for your speedy recovery, I am
Ever your friend,

President's Statement.

Assembled to-day in special convocation we cordially greet the President of the United States and the eminent gentlemen who accompany him.

We desire on this occasion to give formal and public expression to the honor in which we, in common with all men belonging to academic circles hold our distinguished guests Universities in all lands have judged it to be reasonable and right that those men who, surpassing others in native genius and in devoted toil, have carried great undertakings in letters and science to a successful issue, or in administration of affairs have rendered memorable service to the commonwealth, should receive the meed of honors and distinctions; that they themselves may have the praise which is their due, and that the minds of others may be roused to emulate their virtues and to win like fame.

Once before in this same room we sat in similar assembly; a meeting long to be remembered. At that time there sat with us as the guest of honor one who, "at a time of gravest crisis, when the weal not only of the Republic, but of foreign states was put in deepest peril, and the path of wisdom lay dark before the people, served each highest interest and, by his wisdom and foresight, out of confusion brought a happy ending".

Let us at this time, in affection and gratitude, call again to mind that simple, kindly and sagacious man who, in God's providence, was cut off in the midst of his days and in the fullness of his power, William McKinley.

Theodore Roosevelt, scholar, soldier, statesman, chief magistrate of the Republic: For effective service in the advancement of the higher life of the nation; for intelligence, integrity and courage in the administration of public affairs, for tireless devotion to the public honor in the settlement of grave questions of social order and the conservation of the vital interests of sister republics; and especially for the dignity, fidelity and unselfish devotion to the public good with which exalted duties, assumed at the summons of an appalling calamity, have been successfully discharged; the trustees of the University of Chicago, on the recommendation of the University Senate, admit you to the degree of Doctor of Laws in this University. In testimony whereof I now present you with this hood which the degree conferred entitles you to wear; and with this diploma of the University, duly signed and sealed; and I bestow upon you all the honors, rights and privileges here or elsewhere appertaining to the same. And may God grant that you increase in wisdom and in virtue; and in the days to come as in the past cherish the republic and defend her.

possible gratification to us that the first stone, the great stone, the corner-stone, should be placed in its position by the chief magistrate of our Republic.

It is in order first of all to have recounted by the Secretary of the Board, the articles placed in the box enclosed within the corner-stone.

It is my privilege now to present to you one who came to us three years ago. May I use again the words employed on that occasion- "Some men we revere, some we admire, some we love. There are some whom we revere and admire and love; for we revere the statesman, we admire the hero, we love the man who is known to be a good fellow. SONG.

(Air, Mr. Deeley.)

There is a sturdy gentleman who's known on every hand,
His smile is like a burst of sun upon a rainy land,
He'll bluff the Kaiser, shoot a bear, or storm a Spanish fort,
Then sigh for something else to do, and write a book on sport.

CHORUS. Oh Mr. Roosevelt, he makes his blows felt,
 Where'er he hits, he's always hitting tee;
 And one year more, sir, in 1904, sir,
 I guess we'll have to vote for Teddy-ree!

Last time he came to see us he was just a perfect gent,
But now he's been promoted up to be our president,
We'll offer him an LL.D.--a Linger, Longer, Do,--
Because we are so very fond of Mr. Teddy-ree!

Oh Mr. Roosevelt, our belles and beaux felt
So very glad you came to see us the U.,
That one year more, sir, in 1904, sir,
They want another chance to yell for you!

FORM 15.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH-CABLE COMPANY. This Company transmits and delivers the within message subject to the following TERMS AND CONDITIONS.

To guard against mistakes or delays, the sender of a message should order it REPEATED: that is, telegraphed back to the originating office for comparison. For this, one half the regular rate is charged in addition. It is agreed between the sender of the message written on the face hereof and the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company, that said Company shall not be liable for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for non-delivery, or of any UNREPEATED message, beyond the amount received for sending the same; nor for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for non-delivery, or for any obscure messages. And this Company is hereby made the agent of the sender, without liability, to forward any message over the lines of any other Company when necessary to reach its destination.

Correctness in the transmission of messages to any point on the lines of the Company can be insured by contract in writing, stating agreed amount of risk, and payment of premium thereon, at the following rates, in addition to the usual charge for repeated messages, viz: one per cent. for any distance not exceeding 1,000 miles, and two per cent. for any greater distance.

No responsibility regarding messages attaches to this Company until the same are presented and accepted at one of its transmitting offices; and if a message is sent to such office by one of this Company's messengers, he acts for that purpose as the agent of the sender.

Messages will be delivered free within the established free delivery limits of the terminal office. For delivery at a greater distance a special charge will be made to cover the cost of such delivery.

This Company will not be liable for damages or statutory penalties in any case where the claim is not presented in writing within sixty days after the message is filed with the company for transmission.

This is an UNREPEATED Message and is delivered by request of the sender under the conditions named above. Error can be guarded against only by repeating a message back to the sending station for comparison.

No employee of this Company is authorized to vary the foregoing.

WILLIAM H. BAKER,
V. P. and Gen'l. Manager.

JOHN O. STEVENS,
Secretary.

JOHN W. MACKAY,

My dear Mr. Cortelyou:-

Your telegram of September eleventh was duly received. I am very glad that the arrangements may be made by letter. It is possible that my telegram to you was not quite clear. The points in reference to the President's visit concerning which I wished to consult you were simply the details of his visit to the University. Everything has been arranged satisfactorily by the committee. The President is to be the guest of the University from twelve o'clock to half past three.

I am submitting to you herewith the following schedule:

1. At 12 o'clock start from the city for the University.
The details of the escort will be arranged later.
2. Luncheon at the President's House, to which will be invited the members of the President's staff, the Trustees and Senate of the University, together with a few outside guests.
3. The procession to the University Tent, where the degree will be conferred.
4. The exercises connected with the conferring of the

4. The exercises connected with the conferring of the degree; substantially the same as those in the case of Mr. McKinley.

3. Here I wish to suggest something to which I have not heretofore referred because it might appear that we might not be able to arrange it. I am permitted to say that the University School of Law will open October 1st. It has been accepted by Harvard and Columbia as one of a group of three which are to work in co-operation along the same lines. The plans for a splendid building have been completed, and the foundations are in process of being laid. Our plans will permit us to lay the corner-stone of this new building October third. I am writing to beg that Mr. Roosevelt will be willing to say a few words upon this occasion. This will be the only request made of him to speak in connection with the University visit. It would come very appropriately after the degree had been conferred, and need not exceed five minutes unless he so desires.

The establishment of the school on the high standard which has been fixed by the University is a step which has been taken in response to an almost universal feeling of the Bar in the west, that such a school was needed, and will, I am sure, offer an opportunity for a few remarks which perhaps the President will
