My dear Mr. Judson:

Subject: "A Proposal that You Act as Sponsor to a National Publicity Campaign".

1. I return the telegram from Gadsden on this subject.
2. Frankly, the enterprise seems to me a more or less futile one which the Secretaries of the Treasury, Commerce and Labor are very likely proving as a sort of an alibi for the administration. The administration has fallen down woefully with respect to the business situation, and is at present engaged in the familiar practice of kicking up a cloud of dust. What we need is specific action which would help establish the fundamentals of business prosperity, rather than a campaign to instill confidence.
3. By way of summary, I should recommend your taking part in this enterprise only provided, (a), you feel that you have to do so as a means of representing the University in a movement which is at least intended to do good, or, (b), you feel that you would be able to give it that personal time and attention which would enable you to develop the proposition into something more constructive than a publicity campaign.

Yours very sincerely,

My Dear Dr. Judson:-

In further to our conversation when last in Chicago, I trust that you have been able to find the time to peruse carefully the plan and copy which I left with you.

You will note from the letterhead upon which this is written, the names of gentlemen who have given their moral support to this effort. Since the printing of this stationery, we have the names of Cardinal Gibbons, Julius Rosenwald, J.J. Simpson of Marshall Field & Company, and undoubtedly others will appear thereon.

As I explained to you, this movement is a voluntary and purely altruistic one for the improvement of industrial conditions, and anticipating if possible the sociological disaster with which our country will be immediately confronted if production and employment are not kept up. This, as you know, is dependent upon a spirit of confidence, and the belief in the future of industry.

It is not necessary for us to dwell upon the economic features with you, for we are quite sure you are aware of the vital necessity for cooperation between capital and labor, and capital can only do its part as reflected through industry in its ability to keep open the factories of our land and create a field for that spirit of cooperation which corporate interests are now inclined to show, the benefits of which were proven in the splendid effort reflected during the period of the war just closed.

Your moral support and cooperation to this effort will greatly assist us in reflecting the sin-

A Plan

to Inspire Confidence and Business Activity in America

DURING the war the demands for war production kept every man and every dollar in America actively and profitably employed.

Now whether the volume of demand is sustained by war or any other cause does not make a particle of difference. If demand is sustained business will continue active and prosperity will stay with us.

The absolute necessity of production of war commodities caused an almost complete stoppage of activity in many lines of production which are fundamental necessities under normal conditions.

America today stands in the greatest need of many of these forms of production, the creation of which has been wholly or largely stopped during the war.

Roads, buildings, power plants, railways, many forms of machinery, all essential to our progress, have been neglected in order that cannon, shells and ordnance might be produced in sufficient quantities.

If the capital and labor which has been and is being released from war activities is now immediately kept busy in such forms of production as those suggested above, the result will be continued purchasing power by the capital and labor thus engaged. That purchasing power will manifest itself in demand for all kinds of commodities from shoes to steam-shovels, from cement to candy.

Thus, demand will be maintained. This demand will be a natural demand. Every increase in the forms of production referred to above, directly increases the wealth of the country and the progress of commerce.

We have the men. We have the money. We need the production. And we need it now.

The only thing that is standing in the way of immediate activity is a feeling of insecurity—a lack of confidence by the general public in the stability of fundamental conditions—a state of fear.

In short with every physical factor favorable to continuous prosperity we face the possibility of serious commercial depression and consequent social unrest merely and solely because of a timid state of mind in the public generally and in the business public particularly.

The obvious remedy is the education of the public to a clear appreciation of the situation so that action will be taken confidently and speedily.

A campaign of leadership in thought, calling upon America to go steadily ahead and do business will, it is believed, have as tremendously effective and far-reaching results as similar campaigns during the war had in the development of the national will to victory and the willingness to work and save to that end.

Under the sponsorship of the Committee as shown in the letter accompanying this folder a definite plan for such a campaign has been formulated.

The business philosophy which it is proposed to exploit through this campaign is indicated by the specimen advertisements shown herewith.

The purpose of the committee is to secure the consent of a group of our most eminent leaders in finance, labor, industry and commerce, to act as signatories to the advertisements and to act as sponsors for the whole campaign.

Preliminary expenses for drawings, printing plates and printing, literature and so on will be borne by a group of manufacturers and merchants throughout the country, several of whom have already indicated their desire to so assist the movement.

Advertisers and owners of advertising space will be asked to contribute space for carrying on the campaign. The campaign is planned to last not more than three weeks.

The work of preparing advertisements and literature and of planning and directing the campaign in detail will be carried on by volunteers from the leading advertising agencies and advertising associations. The campaign, its organization and carrying out, has been thoroughly planned and can be released in a short time.

The Committee, however, will not proceed unless the plan as it now stands and as it is indicated herein meets with the general approval of the business men of the country to whom it is being rapidly submitted and only if it is indorsed and sponsored by the leaders, of thought in finance, labor, commerce and government, some of whom are now being asked to act as sponsors for the campaign.

The purchasing power of the individual is the foundation of prosperity and the basis of commerce

Commerce (buying and selling) is simply the exchange of commodities for commodities. Commodities are produced by labor, that is, by all kinds of labor, mental, manual, all human effort.

The speed and volume of labor's production is aided, increased, expedited, by capital. Capital is simply the machinery by which the processes of labor and commerce are quickened and made easier. When the demand for capital to be used in production is strong and active the demand for labor is also strong and active.

This condition inevitably tends to bring the price of capital (interest) and the price of labor (wages) up to higher levels under the inexorable working of the law of supply and demand.

When the artificial and unnatural condition of war is present with its capacity for destruction of both labor and capital and its necessity to take great quantities of both out of the normal processes of production and commerce, the tendency of prices to higher levels is enormously accelerated.

With the ending of war's destruction and demands usually sudden as in the present case, the capital and labor which has been devoted to war production is left non-productive, therefore without earning power, and consequently without purchasing power.

With this sudden falling off of buying power, demand slackens, production slows up through lack of demand, earnings of both labor and capital decrease, rates of interest and wages go down, the level of prices falls, business stagnates.

Under present conditions however, there is not a shadow of excuse for these things to happen in America unless the American people deliberately permits them to happen. To prevent them we have only to go steadily courageously and confidently forward with our business and the urgent pressing demand for long neglected products which are or should be used in normal peaceful conditions will keep all labor and capital employed at excellent living rates.

Thus we will maintain production earning power and demand at a high level.

It has been estimated by competent authority that in our large cities and industrial centers alone there is now needed building construction and public works for which plans have been fully drawn and preliminary arrangements made amounting in the aggregate to at least One Half Billion Dollars.

It is being held up in anticipation of a drop in costs.

Much good the owners of those buildings will get from lower cost buildings when the earning power of the completed building declines as much or more than the difference gained in first cost.

In the interests of the building owners themselves as well as in the interests of the business of the country contracts for this work should be let immediately and the buildings produced.

There is not a state in the country that does not stand in real need of millions of dollars worth of good road construction. Especially so in view of the great development of long haul motor trucking which the war has brought about. Is there any good reason why this enormous volume of business should not be released at once?

Our railways have been suffering for years for additions to trackage for new construction, for motive power, for rolling stock. Why are not the orders for these things put through?

We are wasting every day 30 to 40 million horsepower of energy in our running streams simply because we have not built the necessary power plants to put that energy to work. If that energy had been available during the war the coal shortage that caused so much suffering and delay would never have been even dreamed of.

Why does not Congress right now pass a water power act which will make it possible to harness this great power resource.

The building of the plants and their operation will give employment to billions of capital and thousands upon thousands of men.

There is no more excuse for idle labor or idle capital in this country than there is for a man to die of thirst on the shore of Lake Superior.

Keep business going — Carry on — Produce — Work — And work together

This space is left blank for signatures of the men who stand sponsor for this campaign.

Industrial Victories

—like military victories—

are won by Courage, Patriotism Unity and Confidence

HESITATION and timidity are as fatal in commerce as in war. Prosperity and plenty to an extent such as even America has never dreamed of are awaiting us with outstretched arms. To enjoy them we have only to go steadily forward to meet them. If ever there was a time when rich rewards awaited the producer now is that time.

If there was ever a moment when it behooved all men engaged in productive commerce—laborer—capitalist—farmer—mechanic—banker—manufacturer—to join hands and move forward now is that moment.

"The shelves of the world are bare."

The world needs goods as it has not needed them in many, many years.

For four long years wealth has been destroyed at a rate such as history has never before recorded. And in addition many of the normal processes of production have been stopped in order that the greedy maw of war might be filled.

All the world is clamoring for food, shelter, clothing, machinery, ships, railways, capital and credit.

And we have all these things for sale. We can have them in still greater abundance if we work together in production.

Work together. Therein lies the magic of it all.

Move on. Keep step. Keep going. And pull your share of the load.

"I am going to slow up and wait" says a manufacturer, "maybe prices of my raw materials will go down and I can buy cheaper."

Much good it will do you to wait.

When the prices at which you buy go down the prices at which you sell will go down also. How do you gain anything?

"I was going to buy a house", says the prosperous mechanic "but I guess I will wait. Maybe prices will go down."

Alright. But just bear in mind that the price of houses is not going down until the wages of carpenters, masons, brickmakers, lumber cutters and so on, go down.

These men and their fellows are the buyers of the products you make, just as you and your fellows are the buyers of their products. When their wages go down purchasing power for your product falls off. The price of your product drops. Your wages drop with it. What do you gain by waiting?

Here is a city in which we will say that the principal industry is shoe manufacturing.

This city needs a half dozen new school buildings, or a new bridge, or twenty miles of new paving for its streets. The wise city fathers agree that they will wait for lower prices. That sounds good to the community so wait is the word.

And while they are waiting the men who build school houses and bridges and lay pavements and make the materials from which these things are constructed are waiting for money to buy shoes.

Shoe prices fall. Wages of shoe makers fall. Returns on capital invested in shoe factories fall. The community income decreases under these conditions and when they finally build their necessary buildings and roads they are relatively no better able to pay for them in spite of lower costs than when shoe prices and profits and shoe making wages were on the same relative high level that building costs were on. It is useless to go on multiplying instances. The principle is clear as crystal.

If business stops to see what is going to "happen" a lot of things are going to happen. If everybody waits to get lower prices—everybody will get lower prices—not only on what they buy but also on what they sell, regardless of whether the thing they sell is food, labor, capital, ships, shoes or sealing wax.

A general level of high prices is neither better or worse than a general level of low prices. The only thing that is harmful is violent general fluctuation of prices. The important thing is to maintain a general level. Gradual adjustments injure no one. Violent adjustments injure everyone.

You cannot escape the application of the law of supply and demand. You can however seriously interfere with the sources of supply or demand, or both, by erecting artificial or sentimental obstructions.

Demand has no commercial effect unless it is accompanied by purchasing power.

Purchasing power depends upon earnings.

So long as labor and capital are fully employed in this country and their earning power is allowed full sway there will be ample purchasing power for all we can produce.

Permit an artificial sentiment for "lower prices" to stultify natural demand, earnings will promptly decrease, labor and capital will be idle, purchasing power will fall.

Buy then if you like at pretty much your own prices but how are you going to sell?

The man, the concern, the municipality or the commonwealth, that refuses now to buy any needed commodity, thing, or service, at a price fair under present market conditions, on the ground of waiting for lower prices, is just as much a "profiteer" as the man or concern that under war conditions refused to sell a needed thing at a fair price because a higher price might be obtained by "holding off." And you will find that they are generally pretty much the same individuals.

The wise thing, the patriotic thing, the business-like thing for American business today is to "Carry On".

Keep going — Keep busy — Keep working, and work together

We spent royally for Destruction Let us now spend wisely for Construction

We need good roads. Make them.

We need buildings—home—public and industrial. Construct them.

We need more railway trackage and equipment. Produce them.

We need homesteads for many of our returning soldiers. Drain the swamp and irrigate the arid lands and they will "blossom like the rose."

Possibly 50 million, certainly not less than 30 million horsepower, is literally running to waste in our streams. We need industrial power. Harness the streams. Build the dams, construct the power plants.

The immediate carrying out of only a fraction of our needs in these lines of production will put to work every idle man and every idle dollar.

The purchasing power of the labor and capital thus profitably employed, plus normal demand, plus foreign demand, will keep every wheel turning, every factor of commerce busy at top speed.

Every dollar wisely expended on productive lands, buildings, railways, good roads, power plants and similar undertakings is an addition to the permanent wealth and industrial progress of the nation.

Spend NOW for peace and prosperity

[SPACE FOR LIST OF SPONSORS]

To get up HERE—
took five years

Why should we go back again in five months?

The adjustment of prices to a normal level can be accompanied by prosperity just as great as we have had during the raising of prices to a high level.

If we keep right on doing business.

Prices went up steadily during the war because there was a constant and sustained demand for production.

That demand kept all capital and labor steadily employed at a remunerative rate. To sustain that remunerative employment of capital and labor will insure continuous prosperity.

The world needs production today, as much as it was needed during the war. The only difference is that we need less of some things and more of others.

We no longer need cannon, shells, and powder. We need tractors, plows and fertilizers.

We are three years behind in our normal necessities for homes and public buildings.

We are five years behind (or more) in our needs for railway facilities including rolling stock.

We are ten years behind in the development of one of our most essential and profitable natural resources—waterpower. More than any other nation on earth we stand in need of good roads and highways—thousands of miles of them.

With the capital and labor which has been devoted to war turned into avenues of production for these things which are so essential to our industrial progress and economic life, the earnings of that capital and labor will develop an enormous market for shoes and clothing and food, and all the other commodities made for the comfort or to meet the desires of mankind.

With consuming and purchasing power thus sustained our farms and factories will continue to teem with activity and prosperity will abound throughout the land.

With capital and labor thus fully and profitably employed the only price effect will be in the adjustment and probable decline of speculative prices—a result that can but little effect the normal level of legitimate values.

[SPACE FOR LIST OF SPONSORS]

Which is the Worse "Profiteer"

The man who refused to sell on a fair basis a year ago and held out for a "higher price"?

Or the man who refuses to buy on a fair basis now and holds out for a "lower price"?

Both trade on the necessities of others.

Both take advantage of conditions to speculate at the "other fellow's" expense. Don't be a "buying profiteer."

If you need anything and it is offered to you at a fair price, present market conditions considered, buy it.

If everybody waits for "lower prices", the flow of business will be checked and everyone will be at a disadvantage.

Keep business going. Carry on. If everybody keeps busy and gives the other fellow a fair deal everybody will make their turn-over and the process of adjustment from war conditions to peace conditions will be so gradual that we will never feel a single bump.

This space is left blank for signatures of the men who stand sponsor for this campaign.
Where space is donated, donator is expected to add signature and state that he donated space.

Why should we drop into the ditch when we can travel comfortably and safely all the way?

We can make the transition from war conditions to peace conditions so easy, so gradual, that we will never feel the least jolt. Or we can drop ourselves into a depression that it will take us months of painful and toilsome effort to climb out of with much loss and suffering.

It is up to US and that means EVERYBODY

If we quit talking and speculating and keep on "sawing wood" every pair of hands and every dollar will be kept busy and the train will move along to its permanent level without a single jar.

If we stand aside and stop business to wait for "lower prices" we will get them all right, but who will gain from them?

While you are waiting for lower prices for the things you buy just remember that prices for the things you sell will come tumbling at the same time.

Commerce is the exchange of commodities for commodities.

There is business enough for all and then some.

Keep on producing—Keep on buying—Keep on selling—Work and work together—Carry on

Dear Mr. Robertson:--

Just a line to thank you for the interest shown in us and to tell you that at last we're here.

This camp is at the fair grounds and every available bit of space is used. The men are quartered in tents, canvas-wood barracks, buildings, stables & on the face of the open grand stand.

For the first night we were compelled to sleep in the aisles of a stable. The more luxurious stalls are used by some of the older men. A big bunch left last night for France so that there will be quarters provided for us.

As we arrived about 10.00 A.M. when the men were away, we didn't receive our expected ovation until later by individual units.

Enclosed you will find a clipping.
It is an excellent example of what a franzed reporter can do. This report appeared in all the Philadelphia papers. We are now so proud of ourselves that we are almost unendurable.

Aside from all joking & modesty, our bunch does look good in comparison -- & reflects a good deal of credit on the W. of C.

My dear Dave:

I very much appreciate your most cordial letter of August 14th. I am afraid that I shall be too busy in the future to be a very reliable informant as to what is happening to the various Chicago men. However, Urban Lavery of our office will be in touch with Bill and me at all times and I shall ask him to let you know of any developments of interest.

You no doubt know that Bill MacCracken will attend the second camp at Fort Sheridan.

Should you have occasion to be in Rockford while we are in camp there I hope you will look me up. I shall be very glad to see you. I do not know what my address will be but of course I will be in the artillery.

Please give my sincerest regards to Mrs. Robertson and thank her for her message to me.

Dear Mr. Robertson:

I received your much appreciated letter, some time ago, and I am ashamed to think that same was not answered before, but the facts are I have not had a moment which I could call my own. I have been on the rush from one thing to another, and I neglected many things which I should have attended to, but nevertheless, I know you will understand the circumstances.

I am now at Rockford. I got my commission as officer in Cavalry, but as they are not going to use much cavalry at the present time, they are using us in the Machine Gun Battalion. You might have noticed that they called them the "Suicide Club." I have as a room mate, Lieutenant Pincof, who was a student at the University. We will have our entire allotment of men in service this week, and as ours is the only company that will, we will be able to get going much sooner than the rest, and of course this is the indication that we may be the first to go to France. It is a very interesting life and also very hard, but no doubt, we will all get used to it in time.

I am obliged to write you today a letter that can bring nothing but sorrow to you. Dear Dad and Mother:

Perhaps you will think that letters from me are rather scarce but I could not get time and facilities to write for about a week. We got paid the other day and I had a great time stocking up in toilet articles. I like to buy from the French people for they certainly are pleasant and patient with the yankee you can't talk French.

Perhaps I may have more spare time later on and then I intend to study the language. I can take up a French paper and get the trend of the news because so many of the words are direct derivatives of latin. The pronunciation is so different that I couldn't understand it when it is spoken. Perhaps if I am over here long enough I will learn enough French to give me a few credits at the University of Chicago. I shall certainly make my spare time count the best I can.

It has been over a week since I have had any mail but likely another bunch will come before long. I suppose those cigars you sent to Toten will come in the next mail. I still have several of the original Havana's you sent before so I have a little birthday party every evening.

I am putting in this letter a morning glory that a little girl gave me as I passed her garden today. If I didn't have a friend over here I could get along with just the children. They all seem to like me and I have seen some of the prettiest little children four or five years old that you can imagine. I guess children are the same the world over and as you used to remark, "That men are only boys grown tall".

When I look around on a sunny morning it seems just like the grouse season up home and I have felt the call several times. Maybe George can kill my share this year and if you can get my deer in November my services won't be missed to any extent.

I expect to buy some Christmas presents soon and send them home but I hardly know what to get for any of you. I suppose I will just take a chance and get something that you won't want.

I am in the best of health and as for spirits, I am one hundred per cent strong.

The censor wont pass anything about France so I will give you a few things about America. In the first place, America is "God's Country" that is with the exception of parts of Texas. It is a land where people do not really know hatred. In reality, the majority, being about 90% of the America people, are energetic, honorable and likeable. It is a land where there is plenty for the man that will goont after it and moreover it is my home. These are a few things that it took a war to make me realize. So when you rise in the morning and look out over the beautiful Flambeau river and the pines of northern Wisconsin, say to yourself that you have no right to be otherwise than happy for you are enjoying America," At once the ideal and goal of the boys in France." Now do not interpret this to mean that I am feeling blue for I am busy most of the time and have lots of pleasant amusement when off duty.

I hope before long to see Cass or some of my friends over here and would give anything to see Uncle Captain Dave Cooper coming down the line. Be sure to let me know when he starts.

Give my regards to all the folks when you write them and also to my friends in Ladysmith.

Dear Fran:

Very hearty congratulations on your appointment. They may seem a bit belated but they are the more enthusiastic because of what I have heard concerning the work of yourself and other Chicago men in the camp. All the University is proud of the achievements of the alumni and students. We are eager to keep some account of the work done by Chicago men. Will you not, therefore, let me know from time to time something about yourself and others of whom you may hear, or if you are too busy to do this, will you ask your Fraternity or correspondents to let me have general items of interest? Some, I wish to print in the University Record, others may appear in the Alumni Magazine. Everything we can possibly get we wish to file in the History of the University participation in the great war.

The best good luck go with you always.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. and Davie:

I have given Art Carlson over five weeks to write; I have reminded him every time our paths have crossed; I have tried to wager with him that he wouldn't write before I did, promising at the same time not to write for two weeks. I write now firmly believing that he has not written; if he has, we leave for France in a week. I am sorry I haven't the pictures to send; they are especially good of Davie, Jr.; and I forgot, too, to bring any snaps of the camp... You may have guessed already that we are out on a hike, but you wouldn't tell from this letter head, except perhaps ^{from} the words underlined, that we are in a sleepy little Pennsylvania Dutch village, peopled by kind old men and women, as simple as they can be and as quiet as an after-country-dinner atmosphere. Each family, on our arrival, baked two pies for the soldiers; if they were officially delivered, we will have them for mess today; our mess as for certainly needs spice; but perhaps my last days at Chi spoiled me by making me an epicure forever... It certainly does seem strange that I should be hiking over the most picturesque autumn-colored hill roads in the world - my world, at least - instead of waiting in line to get my class cards ~~at~~ in the Cobb corridor, but I believe I am satisfied where I am... Chicago certainly has come into its own in the Allentown camp; we have the best mechanics and cooks in the place; we have also the weight of numbers, and in other ways a certain indefinable prestige; our speed in

Dear Mr. Robertson:

Perhaps you have already heard that John Green and I were among the successful applicants in the examination for Assistant Pay Master in the Naval Reserve. I saw John last Saturday, and, as you can imagine, we are both very much pleased over our appointments.

Personally, I know that my success in a great measure was due to the letters which I submitted to the Board of Examiners, and I want to thank you for the one which you wrote for me. At the same time I want to say to you that it was a master piece and without question one of the best letters of recommendation I have ever read.

I do not know how soon I will be called, but if it is possible I should like to see you before I go away. I will leave tonight for a short vacation.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Robertson:

Instead of being an aviator I have turned out to be an Ensign in the Navy. Expect to be called to Washington in the near future to attend the paymaster's school there. After that is completed an assignment to sea will probably take place.

At any rate I'm in the service.
With best regards I remain

Dear Dr. Judson:

Throughout the summer
the recollection of your kindness when I called to say Good-bye has added much to my happiness, so I want to thank you again.
We've had a busy time in the Medical Officers Training Camp. There have been twelve companies of Student Officers.
Ours was Company 1. It has been disbanded. But we had a very happy time.
Thirteen of the Company were former students in our Department of Anatomy, and eight were from the Staff of Rush or the Presbyterian Hospital. We had a very considerable family party from the University of Chicago. The members of the Company have been sent on various special duties in America and Europe. I suppose we are "Graduates" of the Camp, but we are,

The war is over and all these University-men are back each with his affectionately remembered colleagues.

Meanwhile I hope we can be of some service.

With cordial regard to Mrs Jackson and yourself, and gratitude for your kindness I am, Yours sincerely, Basel Harvey.

P.S. Mrs Harvey and little Mary have been getting on very happily. They spent one month in a very beautiful spot near Fort Riley. In the autumn they will be again in Chicago—Mary in the School of Education and Mrs Harvey taking care of her and studying French.

B.H.

Still "Student Officers" and shall always be.

For six weeks I've been in Command of Ambulance Co. 16—animal drawn. 150 men, 28 horses, and 70 mules. The men were of good quality. The horses were decent, kindly beasts and are sleeker than they were. The mules put two of the men in the hospital. The Commander who can discipline those creatures so that they become really obedient is a capable man. I remarked one day to the leader of one pack mule that he seemed to be getting along nicely. "Oh!" he said "I've got the tame mule." But two men have appeared in the Company who can manage them—one Missourian and one from Georgia.

Yesterday, I left Fort Riley, under orders to report to the Commander of the 34th Div. at Camp Cody, New Mexico. I understand that I am to be Assistant to the Division Surgeon there, and act as Sanitary Inspector. The Division Surgeon, Colonel Coffin, was formerly Director of Ambulance Companies at Fort Riley. So I shall continue to be under him. He seems to have a partiality for University men. Three of the four Commanders of Ambulance Companies whom he appointed, are members of University faculties.

It is a pleasure to think of the happy reunion there will be sometime when

Dear Dr. Robertson:

The following items may interest you for the report you are preparing on the service of University men in the war. R. A. Hall, Ph. D. in Chemistry, 1907, is now in France as a Lieutenant in the infantry, N. A. and on account of his experience in chemistry he has been assigned to the Anti-Gas Division. The letter was received from him two or three days ago.

Ralph L. Brown, Ph. D. in Chemistry, Summer Quarter, 1917, is First Lieutenant in the Medical Service, N. A. and will leave in a few days with a small scientific commission of picked men for France.

Leonard Loeb, Ph. D. in Physics, 1916, is First Lieutenant and will leave with the same commission. He is the son of Dr. Jacques Loeb, formerly Professor in the University.

Dr. William McPherson, Ph. D. in Chemistry in 1899, and Head of the Department of Chemistry, Ohio State University, is a Captain in the United States Army and in charge of one of the laboratories working on gases in Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. Johnson:

Your letter of October 15th, addressed to Mr. Payne, is at hand. You were reported with a grade of C in Meteorology and Conservation, $\frac{1}{2}$ major each for the Winter quarter.

I am pleased to hear from you, and I assume that you are in good health and spirits. You would have greatly enjoyed seeing the Chicago-Illinois game last Saturday, one of the best games ever played on Stagg Field, a tie, no score! Between halves the Y.M.C.A. took up a collection for the War Service work. It amounted to $1756.08, so the Secretary told me this morning.

I trust that the service you are performing in the great cause in which we are all engaged, may be successful, and that in due time you may return to us in peace and safety, and be able to complete your course.

Your total credit is 27 majors, even three years of work.

The President's Office

My dear Mr. Robertson,

I chanced upon one of the return envelopes you so kindly sent us, and it reminded me of a duty yet undone.

Mr. Canning has been assigned captain of C company, 341st Infantry, National Army, at Camp Grant, Rockford Illinois. His men come from Wisconsin, principally from the small towns and farms south of Eau Claire.

I think he has a few Chippewa Indians among them. He finds the work engrossing to the exclusion of every other interest, and enjoys it thoroughly. He says apropos of this.
"I'm so busy learning to fight that I almost never think of war." His official address - Captain John B. Canning, Inf. P.O.C.
341st Infantry, N. A.

Camp Grant, Rockford, Illinois

I hope this will be useful to you, and if I saw more of my husband, I could doubtless give you rather more interesting details of his work. His only off-duty hours come on Sunday, and just at present can't be counted on, owing to the multiplicity of details over which the company commander must keep an oversight. If you plan to keep Chicago men informed about each other, I am sure my husband would welcome such news eagerly.

Yours sincerely

"Somewhere in France"

Dear Sir:

Although we have been on the journey almost four weeks we have only just now reached our Hospital and settled down to real work. From the United States we went to the southern tip of England. From there to the northwestern corner for a week and from there back to the English Channel which we crossed and then to our Hospital in France. Censorship does not permit of a clearer description of the trip but suffice to say we can hear the big guns booming on the front night and day.

Our quarters are most comfortable, our food as good as any of our fondest hopes, and everything has been made pleasant. The work, with the big drive just begun, bids fair to be as much as we can possibly stand, but as none of us came with the expectation of a pleasure jaunt we are not disappointed and, in fact, eager to do our little bit in this awful struggle.

Books do not convey the slightest idea of the real intensity and horror of the present War. One must see in order to appreciate.

And the heroism displayed here, not alone by the soldiers, but the women and children is one of the saddest and yet thrilling parts of the struggle. Perhaps I am not yet toughened to the work, but the sights to be seen here are hourly more than I can stand dry-eyed.

With the earnest wish that we may meet soon in the United States and kindest regards to yourself and my friends in Harper, I am

My dear Dr. Judson:-

It has been so many years since you have seen, or probably heard from Cowee J. C. of the class of 84 T. H. S. that you may have forgotten such a person is still living. This, will, I believe, be a pleasant reminder.

// It has been our privilege and pleasure to entertain at our home many of our soldier boys now in training at the Watervliet Arsenal. Among others, we meet two of your University boys through some Chicago friends; a Mr. Swett and Mr. Sproul. We were so delighted with those two that we told them to bring over the rest with the result that we have had twenty of your boys to dinner, or tea every Sunday P. M. I enclose you a list of them. Possibly you may recognize some of them. Your University may well be proud of its boys if this twenty is a fair sample. I have never met a finer lot of boys in my life. Our program is about as follows; Saturday P. M. an Auto Ride for five. Saturday evening three or four to spend the evening. Sunday three or four to dinner and for an afternoon tea (which is Cocoa) ten to fifteen more of the boys and a half hour "heart to heart" talk to the boys by my good wife, who gives each boy a Gospel of John if he is not already provided with a testament.

Since beginning this work, some six weeks ago, I brought it before the board of the Y. M. C. A. and now they are entertaining the boys Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Yours of the 26th inst. is received.

I thank you very much for remembering me, and especially for the kindness you have shown to our boys at Watervliet. They are, I think, a creditable body of young men, and I am delighted to have my old friends in Troy be of assistance to them. I have heard from Mrs. Cluett, and I understand that my old college classmate Mr. Hollister also has aided in the good work. My dear Doctor:-

The enclosed for your official files, this for yourself.

It is very apparent that I have been very remiss in maintaining for such a long period an absolute silence, as if I were the commander-in-chief, afraid to put a pen to paper lest in an unwary moment I should be giving away in a careless fashion my innermost and official secrets- and I only an obscure captain in His Majesty's Overseas Military Forces? But letter writing seems to be daily a more difficult matter for me to encompass than formerly. But if I have been remiss I will now try and make amends.

"And now America is at war; at war with all the deep sincerity she is capable of to help wipe out for all time from off this earth the powers of autocracy, of absolutism, of divine right of kings, the powers of militarism, barbarism and racial brutality, and to establish peace harmony, democratic self-government, and national good will throughout this round globe! All power to her arm!

"How eagerly on this side the great waters all Europe waited to see what America in her travail this past winter and spring would bring forth! Succor or thrice

The University of Chicago

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Office of the President

winter and spring would bring forth! Succor or thrice damned neutrality? I shall never forget the emotions with which I read through the stirring yet intensely logical and convincing appeal of President Wilson to the Country in his speech to Congress, calling upon the Republic "to arms"! And how gratifying the immediate response was, and how wonderfully are the preparations going on towards launching the thunderbolts of war! Bartholdis statue at the entrance to New York's harbor more than ever typifies and justifies that word so dear to the American people, because the U. S. A. has entered upon this colossal struggle without "an ax to grind", no annexations, no indemnities, but she fights for a great ideal, for the advance of liberty and civilization in this world of ours. Right must and will triumph over might!

"Here am I still stuck on the wrong side of the channel, within sound of the guns at the front, in spite of semi-official promises that I will be sent across shortly! it's maddening, but it can't be helped by any vituperation or "cussing," so I have to grin and put up with it. Of course I'm not idle, in fact, I have a great deal to do and am "on the job", alert for and combating trouble that threatens the health and comfort of the troops in the brigade from time to time. It's interesting work and I've learned a lot

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Office of the President

worth remembering, and forgotten a lot that testing has proved worthless. As a result of my brief experience, I have formed the opinion that a Camp Sanitary Officer, whatever his rank, is at one and the same time a most cordially hated and esteemed man; he can't help stepping upon the corns of the indolently disposed Officers Commanding, Adjutants, Quartermasters and others of that ilk, but if he obtains results that pass muster and are worthy of the commendation of the Powers at General Headquarters, he becomes "the white-haired laddie" of the local Headquarters. I've had my share of knocks and some mead of praise as well, so that on the whole I am not immensely discouraged.

Rumor has it that already there are some American troops training in England, but I've seen none of them. I am on the lookout for the boys from the U. of C. as I understand there have been great and successful doings in a military way on the old campus, and that among other things a field ambulance has been formed, drilled and ready for service overseas under the captaincy of Dr. Clark of "Anatomy"-----splendid! I hope that I may meet the gallant captain and his men "somewhere" in France, or in England perhaps. What other doings have been going on I wonder at the U. of C? I did appreciate those U. of C. "news letters" you favored me with last summer, and would feel very grateful to you if I might receive copies once in a while when they deal with something specially of interest.

The University of Chicago

Office of the President

My dear Sir,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 10th inst. in relation to the proposed visit of the Hon. J. M. McKim to the University of Chicago. I have the pleasure to inform you that the University is pleased to accept of the visit of the Hon. J. M. McKim, and that the necessary arrangements will be made to receive him and his family.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
The President of the University of Chicago.

The University of Chicago

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Office of the President

My first leave I am to enjoy on Oct. 1st. when I am allowed four days plus an extension of three more if I apply for it by wire--just watch me apply! It is my purpose to make a trip to Scotland and visit relatives and friends whom I have not seen for more than twenty years; I expect to make every day count, and hope to polish up my Scotch (not polish off my "Scotch"), so that I may be able to extend to my friends Manly and Scott greater latitude in conversation in that tongue, affording them as it were, advanced courses? I will likewise try and augment my fund of real Scotch stories for their amusement also.

Your remarks upon your visit to Ogumquit Me. were duly noted, and I was pleased that you met those friends of my sister and mine. They are each and all very delightful and genuine people, and I am glad that you met them. Is not Ogumquit a charming place for a rest and a change from Chicago? I thoroughly enjoyed the visit I made to it several years ago.

Speaking of my sister, I am very fortunate in having her with me over here, and in the small coast town where we live, we have taken lodgings and are very comfortable. The town is a most healthful one and affords many delightful walks, seabathing and rowing. Here one scarcely realizes that the country is at war, so peaceful is it.

Is the Quadrangle Club still at the corner of University Ave. and 58th st. or has it moved into new quarters? I will certainly miss the old place, but will be quite ready to revel in the luxuries of the new upon my return.

The University of Chicago

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Office of the President

By the time this reaches you the Autumn Quarter will have well begun, and, I doubt not, with a large registration in spite of the claims of war. I wonder what sort of a football team Mr. Stagg will have this year, and what will be its chances of being a championship team. Sports and military training go well together they should not be divorced. Over here, our Canadian boys keep up their baseball, lacrosse, cross-country runs boxing and all forms of athletic sports, and competitive matches with British and Canadian camps elsewhere, have been fostered with splendid result. In fact, each camp has a very "live" sports committee who rout out all available material. Just now football teams are organizing, and the goal posts are upon the athletic field already; so it looks as if we would have some good matches this fall.

Sept. 27: Distractions of one sort or another have prevented me finishing this up in anything like schedule time; a hard day's work, and at night I am too tired to think, or a trip to a neighboring camp or town on business of an afternoon brings me back too late for the delights of corresponding, so I have just to seize the opportunities of leisure as they come. Army life, let me tell you is far removed, particularly in war-time, from the usual smooth-running schedule of civil life. It is an odd but interesting mixture presented to you----all sorts and conditions of men, mixed up in curious ways socially and militarily, we live in a verily topsyturvydom! I had a private driving me around in my car who was a millionaire from the west, another was a young lawyer who had a good practise in Winnipeg, but joined up in the ranks. Then there are officers too, of all grades, from all levels in civil life, from universities, schools, the banks, warehouses, etc. all now quite changed by the rules and regulations of the life military, so that their old friends would scarcely know them.-- but all so very interesting in the study of them! Ones individuality is lost in the mass, and in the conduct of life, so that a strong feeling of impersonality is felt on every hand; one realizes that he is but a cog, and a small cog it may be, in some wheel of a vast machine that is ever moving and grinding away in a mysterious manner. But each cog and each wheel is felt to have place and purpose in helping on a great work to a fitting conclusion. The Army is a most wonderful organization, believe me, and full of fascination.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Office of the President

It has struck me that this may be to all very uninteresting so I will call a halt, salute, and dismiss myself.

When the burdens of your office will permit, Sir, I should be very glad to receive a few lines from your eloquent and facile pen on topics that will bring the ivy covered walls and my friends within their bounds before my mental vision/

Please convey to President Judson, Dr. Goodspeed, Mr. Arnett and my many other friends my very kind regards. To you Sir, I present my very cordial greetings, and trust that Father Time and Duty are not laying heavy hands upon you

Keeping Step

The sudden thrust of great responsibility often leads a man to discover himself. So it is with institutions. Their fitness, enterprise and capacity are brought to light by the urgency of a great occasion.

Witness the Young Men's Christian Association in the present world war. Anticipating the call of a million men to the colors during 1917, the National War Work Council took steps to put one thousand Association experts in the army camps, and, asking for $3,000,000 to finance the work, got nearly $5,000,000.

Responsive to new appeals and to the fast growing magnitude of the task at home and overseas, the call now is for four thousand men of the best Association training and for $35,000,000 to finance the work up to July 1, 1918.

Along with this effort to keep step with the army, goes the heroic effort to quicken the pace in the regular Association work, to fill membership depleted by enlistment and draft, to carry through enlarged programs of service, to enhance worthily the prestige of the local Association for the sake of a strong home base behind the army work, and for the sake of the work that is bound to come when the war is over.

Speeding Up the Training Agencies

With the Association as with the nation, it is a question of man-power, adequately trained. Hitherto unthought-of demands are made on the training agencies. The Association Colleges have responded by speeding up and adjusting. Much emergency work is being done. Thirty and ninety-day courses are being offered to meet the extraordinary calls of both army and home work. The value of these short courses as an emergency measure is proven.

After the War

In time of war prepare for peace. The Young Men's Christian Association, under God, is coming out of this war with a widened clientele, a broadened scope of service, and enhanced prestige and power. The intensity of these extraordinary days will not be wholly lost when peace returns. The Association is demonstrated as a service agency. The spirit of service and sacrifice will be abroad in the land. Religious thought and emphasis will in many points be changed. The Christian world will have had a new birth. The Prince of Peace will have a new following.

Out of all this will come a day of boundless opportunity and grave responsibility for the Association.

Then, as now, it will be a question of executive leadership—man-power—generalship broadly educated and thoroughly trained for the specific task.

The Association training colleges must look ahead, keep fit and be ready!

Farewell to 4,000 of the First Reserve Officers' Training Camp at Fort Sheridan, A Typical Bit of Y. M. C. A. Service.

New Courses and Special Features for the Year

In the five months since June 1, nearly six hundred men have been enrolled in the College classes, this including the regular summer school, the special July and September War Work Schools, the September special School of Physical Education, and the regular classes of the present College year. With the exception of men now in residence, practically all of these men are in service either under the colors or in the Association work with the army at home or overseas, or at the home Association base.

The plans ahead are here indicated.

Special War Work Schools

The third special school of Association War Work will open Monday, November 19th, and continue for one month. This school is being planned and will be maintained in close relationship with the National War Work Council and it is the earnest desire of the Personnel Bureau, in view of the demand for both men at home and overseas, that not fewer than one hundred and fifty men shall be enrolled in this November School. The faculty of the College will be assisted by other specialists. The program of work will follow closely the precedents established by the earlier short intensive courses. The curriculum will include Bible Study (the Bosworth course prepared for army work); survey courses in Modern European History; also in Association History, Principles, and Organization; First Aid to the Injured; Hygiene—Personal and Camp; Military Affairs; Physical Activities, with stress upon recreative contests and games; the Technique of Army Association Work, etc.

If the demand warrants, a fourth War Work School will be provided after January 1st. Special courses will be available for men desiring to fit themselves for the army physical directorship. It is very desirable that intending students in these war schools be on the approved list of the Personnel Bureau of the War Work Council.

The January Schools of General Association Work and Physical Education

In response to the demand from the city field and to aid in meeting the emergency call for men with something of experience and training, the College will, beginning January 2nd, offer intensive courses continuing four weeks each in General Association Operation and in Physical Education.

The courses will be so chosen as to give the largest possible contribution in so brief a period to the men enrolled. They will be conducted with special reference to the local field. Classroom work will be supplemented by visitation of the Departments of the Chicago and nearby Associations. Further information upon request.

Similar intensive courses will be offered at the opening of the Spring Quarter, March 27th, if the demand shall warrant.

Winter Quarter Courses in Boys' and County Work

In conference with leaders on the field, special intensive courses covering the three months of the Winter Quarter, January 2 to March 20, are being arranged for men desirous of qualifying for regular or emergency work in the County and Boys' Departments, both of which are so keenly looking for competent leadership.

In these as in other schools the regular faculty of the College will be supplemented by specialists and the courses offered will be of unquestioned value. It is proposed that supplementing the work of this quarter, students having completed the work offered by the College may be placed for another month for actual experience in departments of selected Associations. A special circular describes more in particular the program of these schools. It may be had upon request.

The Regular Winter and Spring Quarters

The organization of the regular curriculum makes it possible for students to enter to their advantage at the beginning of any quarter. The Winter and Spring Quarters of the present year open respectively on January 2nd and March 27th. Students entering at these dates will find many attractive courses available, all work being credited toward the diploma or a degree.

The Correspondence Course on the Organization and Conduct of the Physical Department

The long and successful Association experience of Dean M. I. Foss, Dr. H. F. Kallenberg and Mr. J. G. Hoffer, in the realm of physical education, will be made available through a correspondence course on the above subject. This course, among others, will include such topics as:

Leaders Corps and Other Volunteers.
 Budgets and Policies.
 Awards and Prizes.
 Medical Examinations and Staff.
 Managements of Leagues and Tournaments.
 Health Educational Work.
 Religious Effort in the Physical Department.
 Publicity Methods.
 Exhibitions and Entertainments.
 Office Records.
 Hints on Reading and the Building of a Technical Library.

The plan provides that one outlined lesson shall be sent to the student every two weeks. The student is at liberty to ask questions and receive further personal advice upon any point involved. Twelve lessons will be given, the entire course covering a period of six months. The cost will be $10, payable $5 in advance and $5 at the beginning of the second half of the course. The course will be under the leadership of Dean M. I. Foss, to whom correspondence should be addressed.

Sectional Institutes on Physical Education

In the interest of the larger number who will find it impossible to avail themselves of the courses above described, the College will upon request furnish the leadership for a limited number of institutes on Association physical work, such institutes to be held in certain central points at which may be assembled physical directors and others related to the physical department from neighboring Associations. The program of these institutes will vary in character depending upon local desires. They will, however, be made most practical and should be of very great value. Use will be made of experienced physical directors in the section concerned. Invitations for the conduct of such institutes should come through the State Committee or representatives of a given section with the approval of the State Committee.

The Tentative Element

The College reserves the right to cancel any special school in which there is insufficient enrollment to warrant going ahead. These schools are made available as a contribution of the College to meet local needs. Their worth will depend largely upon the co-operation of the local field and the men interested in securing the enrollment necessary for their successful conduct.

In view of this tentative element, prompt enrollment is especially necessary. In case of any cancellations, students who have registered their intention of coming will be notified at least ten days in advance of the intended opening of the school concerned.

Expenses

For each of the thirty day schools the expense involved is: Matriculation fee (except in the War Schools), $5.00; tuition and educational incidentals, $20.00; text books, approximately, $5.00; board and lodging, $6.00 to $8.00 per week.

For regular or special schools continuing through a quarter of three months: Matriculation fee, $5.00; tuition and educational incidentals, $38.50; text books, approximately, $5.00; board and lodging, $6.00 to $8.00 per week.

It will be noted that a gymnasium outfit (where necessary), laundry, and personal incidentals are not included in the above.

Requests for application blanks for entrance to any of the above schools or for further information regarding them should be addressed to The Association College, 5315 Drexel Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

What They Got in Thirty Days

Records of the Association War Work Council are to the effect that 836 men have to date been enrolled in the standard courses of training offered by the Colleges at Chicago and Springfield and at the several Summer Schools. Of this number 231, 27 per cent, practically all of whom are now at work in the military encampments, have been served by the sessions of Association Colleges.

How successful have the courses been? Do they make the contribution to efficiency and zeal for Christian service that they were intended to make? Perhaps these questions can best be answered by the men themselves.

"As a student Association cabinet member I knew only of the Association's activities among college men and a little of the local city work. I had no conception of the tremendous power and resourcefulness of the Association, its history, its leaders. * * * The course of war work was just the thing I needed to balance my conception of the Young Men's Christian Association."

Another writes:

"It gave me an insight into the history, ideals and purposes of the Association which I am trying to represent and that helps me to see the purpose of this work and the reason why it can justly lay claim to its position in the camps."

Others are impressed as they could not have been otherwise with the immensity and significance of the task and opportunity:

"I don't believe that under any other conditions we could have obtained so broad a view and so deep an insight into the work that the Y. M. C. A. is doing in the military camps. It is certain that in no other way could we have come into contact with so many of the men who are doing the biggest work in the various camps."

Some comment on the practical value of obtaining in advance a knowledge of military men and affairs:

"It gave me the military viewpoint and has thereby already kept me from many otherwise embarrassing positions. In other words, I was enabled to change from the civilian work to military with a lesser amount of fear."

Again, others are impressed with the practical value of the suggestions as to methods of work and the technique of the job itself presented as they were from the rich experience of able secretaries right from the camps and fresh from the military atmosphere:

"The class in Methods bringing in ideas from the various camps, I consider a valuable one. It brings one into direct contact with the work in the field and gives some mighty fine suggestions for various lines of camp activity."

"The plans, programs, etc., received are a great help in meeting unexpected situations."

The School of Association War Work—Lake Geneva

Practically universal is the sentiment as expressed by one man to the effect that

"A man has no place as a Y. M. C. A. secretary in army work unless he is in sympathy with the action of our government. Nothing can do more to give one such a point of view than that series of lectures from Dr. Anderson."

In the words of another:

"The fine course in history put me in closer harmony with the war, its purpose and justification; and that puts me close to the soldiers for they must feel that we are working with them as well as for them in winning this war."

In conversation with Mr. A. H. Lichty, Executive Secretary of the Association War Council of the Central Military Department, one student said:

"This training is invaluable. It gives me some of the passion for men rather than to look upon Army Association Work simply as a job."

Another, who was a University man, said: "It gives you a one hundred per cent better training for the work than you could possibly have without such training."

Still another: "One of the things of the training has been to help me feel that I am not big enough for this work now."

After his conversation with a dozen students, Mr. Lichty wrote:

"I made it a point to ask each of these men about their estimate of the value of the kind of training they had just completed. Every man stated clearly and promptly his conviction as to the great value which training of this kind has meant to him personally. The men felt more sure of themselves and believe that when they enter the work it will be with a more intelligent grasp of what they are going to do and why it ought to be done. A mighty fine spirit was shown by all of the men without a single exception with reference to salary matters and doing the ordinary type of work. I want to congratulate the College upon the magnificent spirit of unselfish service that you have been able to develop among these young men."

A prominent secretary from one of the great camps of the middle West, himself a graduate of the Geneva School of Association War Work, has just dropped this word: "We can tell from the spirit that breathes thru his service whether a secretary in this camp has been thru your course of training."

How shall we estimate the value the course has rendered to one who says: "You have given a rudder to a rudderless ship, and a compass by which to steer. Through the influence of the month of training I have been led to make the final decision for Christian work as a life calling if it be that I can be a useful tool in that greater Kingdom."

Real Stuff from Camp and Field

High Spots

In the wide scattering of the men of the College at home and overseas there are two points of concentration, especially worthy of note. One Association unit at Camp Grant and one at Camp Funston are manned entirely by Association College men. At Camp Grant the unit is made up of C. W. Cox, J. A. McDill, C. E. Cline, W. W. Kirkland and J. H. Burk. At Camp Funston the men are H. C. Coffman, J. F. McFarland, R. R. Vernon, Viggo Nelson and M. L. Piper.

Experiences

From C. W. Cox, '15, at Camp Grant: "Assigned to the largest division of men in the cantonment. When full we will have about 12,000 as our allotment, 2,000 soldiers to each secretary on our staff. Most perfect co-operation on the part of the officers. * * * The men themselves are very accessible and responsive. Every man of us is realizing the enormity of the task of ministering adequately to the physical, mental and moral needs of 12,000 men, and is looking to God with increasing importunity for Divine assistance."

Kirkland, '19, of this unit tells of a typical day's work: "We all pitched in on Saturday night after closing time and did the dirty work, cleaning up. Next morning, right after early mess, the men swarmed over to the 'Y' and began writing letters. Letters need stamps, so desk duty began early and kept two men busy all day."

Building Manned by the Association College Unit—Camp Grant

"At 9:30 Bible class attended by seventy-five with one hundred others writing in the room within earshot. At 10:30 four hundred and fifty men attended service. In the afternoon visitors came in and kept secretaries busy giving information as to location of relatives and friends. At 4:00 a soldier came in with a telegram, telling that his father was dying. We secured sufficient funds to pay his expenses to his home in Massachusetts, he to repay from future pay checks. At 6:30 a dozen men gathered around the piano and led over nine hundred in an informal song service. At 7:30 a 'straight-from-the-shoulder' talk from the speaker of the evening. Some figures for the day are, over $200 worth of stamps sold, $700 in money-orders and checks issued, $150 in checks and money-orders cashed, 11,000 envelopes, 30,000 sheets of paper handed out, 15,000 post cards sold, 220 lbs. (about 18,000 pieces) of first-class mail handled.

"This is a sample of our building activities only, taking the full time of two secretaries. Three of our men are at work outside organizing educational classes, religious and recreational activities, and one man working up talent among the men for our nightly entertainment. Every night finds us packed to capacity. Our motto is 'Service and the Other Fellow.'"

Instructors on Leave

Three members of the Faculty are released for Army work. Prof. Foster, director of religious work at Camp Custer says "Big things are up constantly."

Dr. Kallenberg in charge of physical work at Camp Grant says, "Our program includes the scheme of mass athletics, that makes everybody get into the game."

Mr. Coffman at Camp Funston in charge of the Association College unit says, "The team spirit is counting in a powerful way. Within a week we sent home about $10,000 to mothers, sisters and wives of the men. We have a large number of College men in camp, some of whom are thinking of going to the Y. M. C. A. College if they are still living when the war is over."

Dr. Slaten

During his absence on leave as religious director at Camp Custer, Michigan, the work of Dr. Foster in the Bible and the Christian Church is being carried by Professor Arthur W. Slaten, Ph. D.

Dr. Slaten

Dr. Slaten comes to the College with an unusual combination of educational advantages and experience as a religious leader, holding degrees from William Jewell College, Rochester Theological Seminary, and the University of Chicago. He has done research work, especially in the New Testament, in the Universities of Glasgow, Marburg and Leipsig.

Academic work has not separated him from a close vital touch with life as has been demonstrated by his work in the pastorate and among young people, especially among students.

Dr. Slaten did his first work with the College during the Lake Geneva Summer Schools and all concerned are happy in the relationship established for the present year.

"Efficiency"

This is the title of the course. The instructor is Mr. A. G. Taylor, known to Lake Geneva men of 1916 for his popular course upon this subject.

September Short Course—Physical Education

This year the course is being offered in the regular curriculum at Chicago.

Mr. Taylor is a recognized master in his subject and the men in his class are enthusiastic.

Emergency Course in Physical Education

Outstanding features in the September School of Physical Education were:

1. Volunteers sent by Associations to be better fitted to serve, a splendid idea originating at Tulsa, Okla.
2. Local Associations unable to find a trained director, selected the best volunteer and sent him.
3. Some interested high school and college men took the course to try themselves out in the work.
4. One came to prepare himself to serve a church as physical director.

The Men Behind

The Bulletin pleads guilty! It has had much to say about students, alumni and faculty, but little to say about the men who carry the load, as members of the Board of Trustees. The College is blessed with a strong Board, some of whom just now are taking a noteworthy part in the war activities. In passing, let it be noted that recent action of the College corporation has authorized an increase of the number of Trustees from twenty-seven to thirty-three, thus allowing wider representation.

First, the chairman, Mr. Walter A. Rogers, President of the Bates & Rogers Construction Co. This Company has the contract for the great national cantonment at Rockford, known as Camp Grant. Day and night, since July 1st, Mr. Rogers has been giving close supervision to this job which has involved the outlay of millions for material and the employment of up to eight thousand workmen. The execution of this contract has been a marvel of organization and speed. In spite of it all, Mr. Rogers gave an entire day to the College on the opening day of the quarter.

Mr. L. Wilbur Messer is a member of the Executive Committee of the National War Work Council and is giving much time to this work.

Judge Selden P. Spencer is Judge Advocate General of a Missouri regiment.

Mr. Lyman L. Pierce is serving the War Work Council as Department Campaign Director in the Western Military District.

Mr. S. W. McGill as Divisional Director of the American Red Cross War Finance Committee has recently completed the task of raising $3,500,000 for Red Cross from seven states in the Southeast. His headquarters have been at Atlanta.

The sympathy of all members of the Board of Trustees is extended to Mr. Clyde R. Joy of Keokuk. Mrs. Joy, after months of severe suffering, entered into rest on September 24th.

The Output Tells

'12

Alfred H. Swan is now on the Physical Education staff of the Chinese National Committee with headquarters at Shanghai. Putting across a program big enough to interest that mighty nation is some task!

'16

C. A. Witherspoon helped recently to raise a fund of $300,000 for the Red Cross in Mississippi and is now with the Army Association at Jackson, Miss. "The response of the men," he says, "is simply wonderful."

'03

Released for a time from the Secretaryship of New Haven, Judson J. McKim is heading the Association work at Camp Meade in Maryland.

'01

Down at Camp Taylor in Louisville the Association huts, the Administration Building, and the great Auditorium were ready for use and pretty well manned in early September. Philo C. Dix is the executive in charge.

'18

"Our building has been jammed every day since we opened September 22nd. Our job is so awful big that it overwhelms us." This from C. E. Cline with the College unit at Camp Grant.

'97

After twenty years of successful work as a physical director, James S. Ford is now General Secretary at Newport News, Va.

'06

The new secretary at Central City, Nebraska, is John B. Orange, Jr. "My work opening in good shape and looking forward to a great year's service."

'16

One of the visitors who have brought inspiration to the faculty and students this fall is R. E. West who after eight months with the Canadian troops was given a three weeks' furlough. His battalion is now ordered to the citadel at Quebec for duty in connection with conscription difficulties. The boys are sore, he says, because they cannot go overseas and get into the trenches.

J. M. Horner, Boys' Work Secretary at Lafayette, is under appointment for work with the Army in France.

Oklahoma City has called I. N. Richer for work in the public schools.

'17

"We have never sent an alumnus of the Chicago College to the foreign field who did not make good," is the word that comes from the International headquarters. The last man to join the foreign contingent is W. E. Frantz, who, with Mrs. Frantz, sailed the latter part of September for China.

'09

At Camp Dodge they have asked E. T. Bozenhard to take charge of the physical work, and he is on the job in that great cantonment.

'06

With over one hundred members away in Army and Navy, and his staff loaned to the Army Association, Herbert O. Litten is still directing the work at Manor House, Bristol, England. Litten has been there since his graduation.

'99

One of the busiest of men these days is Karl A. Shumaker. Released for a time by the State Executive Committee, he is now Associate Executive Secretary of the National War Council for the Central Military District. His immediate job is the raising of $12,000,000 for the work in the army and navy at home and overseas. This is the allotment for his district.

'04

Down at Camp Logan, Jacob A. Hiller is General Secretary.

Mr. W. A. Robertson,
Co U. of C.

Dear Sir:

Your self-addressed envelope indicated you expected me to report my activities against the Boche. - Well so far I haven't even seen a man (of our forces) who has seen one!

I was in the Ordnance Department, stationed at San Antonio Arsenal, Texas, from September 23, to November 13, as an enlisted man. I was commissioned November 14, as a Second Lieutenant of Coast Artillery Corps, the United States Army (regular establishment) provisionally. My present station is at Fort Monroe, Va., in the First Company, of the Training

Camp here, training for foreign service with the heavy artillery.

I was very much pleased to note the part the University has played in "this man's army."
But that is typically U. of C.
stuff. Here's hoping it does more!

Sincerely,

Edwin P. Part,
Ph. B. 15.

P. S. There's another man from college with the same name as mine. He is enclosing his address also. - I don't remember ever seeing him at school, although we were at college together. The world is very small, after all.

Dear Sir:-

It is with great appreciation that I acknowledge the assurance that the University is "keeping track" of those enlisted in Army and Navy.

I am grateful, also, to say I have been commissioned as a second lieutenant, and ordered to foreign service after the holidays. My permanent (home) address is:- 221 Sheridan Road, Kenosha, Wis. My business address is as per this letter head - Phone - Harrison 5392.

You ask for names of students in Company 20. You probably know of most of them that I know, and I haven't permanent addresses. However, mail addressed to Co. 20, St. Sheridan, Ill., will be forwarded.

Mr. D.A. Robertson,
The President's Office,
University of Chicago,
Dear Sir:

I wish to thank you for the greetings of the University and express my pleasure at being included on the list to receive your pamphlet on The University and The War. My own alma mater is Cornell University, but, through the associations at your institution during my work in the third Ordnance school under Dean Marshall, I have a keen interest in Chicago.

After a course at San Antonio Arsenal my orders brought me to Berkeley where I am associated with Dean Hatfield in giving instruction in an Ordnance school.

It afforded me a great deal of pleasure to find that the Ordnance Department has taken Dean Marshall to Washington for, to the man who took this work with him, it means that one of the best fitted men in the country has been added to that important branch of the service.

Very Truly Yours,

Dear Sir:

I am awaiting my orders for my permanent station so shall go ahead and tell you about the various men from Chicago that I have met while in the service. I am enclosing a check to cover my membership and subscription fees and shall await with pleasure your issues.

To start with, most of us as seniors at Rush were not figuring on a military career six months ago, and considered the war in Europe as so many of our citizens do even now, as something entirely extraneous to our life.

When war was declared we began to look about us. We all knew that medical men were needed and were sure that we would have an opportunity to be of service in a year or so. We only had about eight more weeks before we expected to be graduated from Rush, so we thought we had better wait until after Convocation Day before taking any action.

About April 15 a recruiting officer from the Great Lakes Naval Training School came to Rush to talk over the needs of the Medical Corps of the Navy and of the advantages to the men in the corps. Most of the men at the meeting figured that if our country was going to have a war, we wanted to be in on it, and as the Department had made arrangements with the Faculty to graduate us "in absentia" if we passed our examinations in the service successfully,

Dear Sir:

I am awaiting my orders for my permanent station

as shall go ahead and tell you about the various man from Chicago that I have met while in the service.

I am enclosing a check to cover my membership and subscription fees and shall await with pleasure your answer.

To start with, most of us as seniors at Rush were not figuring on a military career six months ago, and considered the war in Europe as no many of our citizens do even now, as something entirely extraneous to our life.

When war was declared we began to look about us.

We all knew that medical men were needed and were sure that we would have an opportunity to be of service in a year or so.

We only had about eight more weeks before we expected to be graduated from Rush, so we thought we had better wait until after Convocation Day before taking any action.

About April 15 a recruiting officer from the Great Lakes Naval Training School came to Rush to talk over the needs of the Medical Corps of the Navy and of the advantages to the men in the corps. Most of the men at the meeting figured that if our country was going to have a war, we wanted to be in on it, and as the Department had made arrangements with the faculty to graduate us "in absentia"

if we passed our examinations in the service successfully.

There were about twenty-two in the group and twelve were navy men. Most of the others were in the army corps. Choiner and Bull also from Chicago were there from Washington. Dr. Glomsett, Rush 1911, Chicago 1909 was our lone representative from the army. We spent six fine interesting and profitable weeks in New York and then were ordered back to Washington again for some work in Chemistry and we are now awaiting our job. Spencer is at present on the U.S.S. Kansas. Hager is doing special work in chemistry at the Naval Medical School here in Washington. Choiner and Bull are on duty at The Great Lakes Training Station. Lebensohn is on the North Carolina.

If you are interested in the other men from Rush, they are located as follows:

F. A. Naure	Washington, D. C. Awaiting orders.
H. Gebhardt	" " " "
D. O'Rourke	Colorado Naval Hospital
S. A. Fugna	Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.
H. H. Winn	U.S.S. Artemis, N. Y.
R. Hedges	U.S.S. South Carolina
Hancock	U.S.S. Arizona
P. Neil	France

I trust that my garrulousness has not tired you out and that I may have unearthed some new alumni in the service for you. Many of us "medics" while in school were unable to be very active in "campus routine" but we hope that we may be able to do something in the future for "Our God, Our Country and Our Alma Mater."

With best wishes remember me as (Signed) George A. Gray.

We were called into service by May 19 and most of us to Washington to the Naval Medical School for instruction.

On June 2 we took our examination for entrance to the Regular Navy from the Reserve Force and every Rush and Chicago man passed well. After three weeks in Washington Williams and I with seven others were ordered to Philadelphia for work at the Jefferson Medical College and University of Pennsylvania which had been turned over to the Navy Department. While there I met Alex Whitfield 1911 who is an ensign on the U.S.S. Kansas. Also I ran into Lyle Harpher 1911 who is a corporal in the Marine Corps. I might also add that one evening in Washington I met Eddie Thomas 15 our pole vaulter. We only had a few minutes together as he was leaving to next day with some commission to Russia.

We spent six weeks in Philadelphia and then Williams and I with four other men were ordered to New York for work in Medical Research at the Rockefeller Institute.
