My dear Mr. Haynes:

At the last meeting of the Settlement Board it was voted that we should put the income from the somewhat unusual chapel collections during the Fall into a Reserve Fund to replace that which has been unfortunately used up in the last year or two. We felt that we ought to raise this year the amount of money which would be needed under normal circumstances.

This means that we are undertaking to secure something like $3,000 in new money. In budgeting this it was hoped that we might secure ten sustaining members who would contribute from $50 to $100 a year each, and fifty members who usually contribute $10. a year each.

It will be of great assistance to the Finance Committee if you will jot down on this letter the names of any persons in your acquaintance who might be approached. In particular we should be glad to hear of those who might be willing to give the larger sum. Please send this information to Mr. E. T. Filbey, University of Chicago, who is Chairman of the Finance Committee.

Thanking you for your assistance.

Sincerely yours,

Gerald B. Smith

In speaking to Mrs. Palmer, the Chairman of the Summer Camp Committee of the League, a few days ago, she said that she thought it would be helpful if the Board would appoint a "Camp Committee" of its own to co-operate and advise with hers. She felt also that such a Committee of the Board would probably make possible a closer and quicker contact for consideration of matters pertaining to the Camp. Possibly I can best put her thought, as I understood it, in the form of a motion, substantially as follows:

Moved, that a Camp Committee of 3 members be appointed to co-operate and advise with the Camp Committee of the Settlement League in regard to matters pertaining to the maintenance, operation and management of the Summer Camp, said Committee to have power to add to its membership from time to time, such persons as it may consider helpful, whether Board members or not, said Committee to report to the Board at its regular meetings.

Mrs. Palmer said that her Committee had already received valuable assistance from certain men, particularly Mr. Flock and Mr. Sharpe, members of the University, although not of the Settlement Board, and was desirous that some way might be found to continue their interest and co-operation on a somewhat less informal basis. She thought this might be done by including them in the membership of a Board Camp Committee, such as suggested above.

I wish you would present this matter to the Board for their consideration.

Sincerely yours,

M. A. Hirschl

From E. J. B.

The collapse of its Boys' Gymnasium has deprived the University Settlement of one of its most effective ways of influencing the developing manhood of the Stock Yards District. Not only has the Gymnasium furthered their physical development but it has kept these boys off the streets and away from evil companionships and has provided a natural channel through which the Settlement workers could influence their lives in many ways.

Until generous friends of the Settlement rally to the rebuilding of the gymnasium this work can only mark time.

Mr. Dwight Perkins, the distinguished architect, who has volunteered his services in the rebuilding, estimates that it will require approximately $40,000 to rebuild in a way that is safe and adequate for our needs.

Mr. Julius Rosenwald, with fine generosity, has pledged $10,000 and $5,000 more is available from other sources provided the remaining $25,000 is pledged before July 31, 1931.

The faculty of the University has already given much more generously than last year toward the operating expenses of the Settlement and are being asked to give still more. They have also contributed $12,000 toward unemployment relief. The University community is also contributing indirectly to the Settlement through the Sunday offerings of the University Chapel. We cannot fairly expect further help from these sources.

The Directors of the Settlement are appealing to you and to a very few other old friends of the Settlement in the hope that you may be moved to meet this emergency. We shall be grateful for any amount that you feel you can give, and it is our hope that several contributions of $1,000 or more may be received and that the entire amount required may be assured within the short time which has been set.

SOME QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT THE SETTLEMENT

Is the University of Chicago Settlement officially a part of the University?

The relation of the Settlement to the University is somewhat analogous to that of the Quadrangle Club. It is a self-governing organization generally recognized as an important adjunct to the University and receiving the full approval of the University authorities. The University contributes officially to its support through the Chapel collections.

President Harper believed that the Settlement and the social service it stood for was essential to the well-balanced life of a great University located in a large city. Throughout its history its directors and those of the Settlement League have been drawn from the University community.

Where does the Settlement's financial support come from?

The $37,000 expended for Settlement activities in the fiscal year 1929-30 was received from the following sources:

- 22% From Philanthropic Foundations of the city and large individual gifts for specific purposes.
- 20% Contributions from the women of the University community through the Settlement League, particularly in support of girls work and the Summer Camp.
- 16% From University Chapel collections.
- 10% Gifts from members of, mainly, the men of the University faculty and neighborhood.
- 10% Benefits organized by faculty, students, and others of the University community.
- 7% Contributions from the Stock Yards neighborhood (through the Business Men's Association, Stock Yards Community Council, club fees of children, etc.).
- 15% From miscellaneous sources.

In addition the resident workers at the Settlement paid in approximately $8,100 which was expended wholly for their living expenses.

How much money is required for the operation of the Settlement for the present year?

Before the collapse of the boys' gymnasium the year's requirements were estimated at approximately $35,000. The rebuilding of the gymnasium may increase this amount to at least $40,000.

Is the Settlement still needed in the Stock Yards district?

For thirty years many of the most distinguished men and women of the University and of the city have given unstintingly of their money and time and effort to the Settlement. Only a conviction of a real need could call forth service of this order. Those needs exist in equal if not larger measure today. There is great poverty in the Stock Yards district but if the Settlement were primarily a charitable organization it might find greater need for alms in the lodging-house districts of the city or elsewhere. But poverty is not the only social problem and the Settlement is engaged primarily in aiding hard-working men and women, mainly of foreign birth—and their children—to become good American citizens in the face of the privations of poverty and of many other handicaps. In no part of the city is the need for this particular type of service greater than in the great industrial district of the Stock Yards, and no district offers better opportunities for intelligent study of the adjustments of workers to industry for the promotion of the highest interests of both.

Do the people of the Stock Yards neighborhood aid financially in the support of the Settlement?

Yes, to the extent of around $2,500 annually or about 7 per cent of the Settlement's requirements.

The more prosperous business men of the district are contributing generously to the Settlement. Most of the people of the district can afford to contribute little, if at all. Their contributions are a token of their appreciation of the Settlement's influence in their lives.

Why should the University community have a special interest in the University Settlement?

The Settlement, of course, receives its support in money and in earnest human effort largely from the University community, but in other and perhaps more significant ways it is peculiarly a University Settlement. It is becoming increasingly a laboratory school of social service, where the young men and women of the University with the encouragement and guidance of their University instructors may see and study and aid in solving the social problems of a great city. The new executive head of the Settlement, Miss Mollie Carroll (Ph.D., Chicago), is also an Associate Professor in the University's Graduate School of Social Service. Her appointment is symbolic of the increasing emphasis upon the Settlement as an opportunity for education and research and for real leadership in social service.

University of Chicago Settlement Survey

Preliminary Report of Summary and Recommendations

This summary will be presented under four headings, as follows:

1. Relationship of the University to the Settlement.
2. The relationship of the Settlement to the city and nation.
3. The relationship of the Settlement to the immediate community.
4. Some specific problems and recommendations as to Settlement policy, staff, plant and equipment.

I. Relationship of the University to the Settlement

1. As in the past, so today, the University Settlement is the child of a fine spirit of idealism - of a desire to share our cultural advantages, our human sympathies and our common aspirations for a better life with others in less favored circumstances, both through personal and financial services, and in this way to make a practical application of those humanitarian principles taught on our campus.

2. The Settlement is an unofficial branch of University extension, by no means fully appreciated in its possibilities for interpreting life more fully not only to those who live "Back of the Yards," but also to those of us who study here. Comparatively few members of the University have any adequate knowledge of what the Settlement is or what opportunities it offers them. Among these may be mentioned the following:

- a. Character development through an intensely interesting line of service.
- b. Social and cultural development through intimate and sympathetic contacts with its varied nationality groups.
- c. Invaluable personal training in the art of working with many types of human beings, in a pleasant and agreeable way.
- d. Field work experience through supervised field service in the many departments of its work. Here it may be noted that at present the University Y.M.C.A., the School of Social Service Administration and the Settlement are actively perfecting a plan to greatly extend the scope of both volunteer and professional service at the Settlement.

3. The University has benefited substantially since the Settlement's founding through the generous co-operation offered by Miss McDowell and her staff to both students and faculty members engaged in social or economic research projects. Its records and community goodwill increase the value of this co-operation yearly.

4. Miss McDowell's writings and lectures have been of much value to our classes, which also have found the Settlement an interesting center and base for field and inspection trips.

3. The relationship of the Settlement to the immediate community.

I. Relationship of the University to the Settlement

1. As in the past, so today, the University Settlement is the child of a fine spirit of idealism - of a desire to share our own natural advantages, our human sympathies and our common aspirations for a better life with others in less favored circumstances, both through personal and financial services, and in this way to make a practical application of those humanitarian principles taught on our campus.
2. The Settlement is an unofficial branch of University extension, by no means fully appreciated in its possibilities for interesting life more fully not only to those who live "Back of the Yards," but also to those of us who study here. Comparatively few members of the University have any adequate knowledge of what the Settlement is or what opportunities it offers them. Among those who may be mentioned the following:

Its records and community goodwill increase the value of this co-operation yearly.
4. Miss McDowell's writings and lectures have been of much value to our classes, which also have found the Settlement an interesting center and base for field and inspection trips.

In consideration of these facts alone it would seem that the Settlement merits even more generous personal and financial support from the campus than it has received in the past. Such an increase depends most largely upon more effective methods of placing the Settlement and its program before both faculty and student body. Such means can be found.

II. The Relationship of the Settlement to the City and Nation

1. In common with many settlements, but perhaps under more than usually trying circumstances, the University Settlement has and still is conducting a series of important experiments in the adjustment of conflicting nationalities and racial relationships. Its success has made Miss McDowell demanded both in this country and abroad to share her experiences and conclusions with others who are interested in these problems. Racial and nationality groups from near and far meet at the Settlement to seek her counsel and encouragement. With the recent influx of Mexicans into the stockyards she has met an exceptionally complex problem to engage her attention.

2. Again the Settlement, like others, performs a very valuable cultural service in helping to preserve and interpret the varied cultural contributions of the many immigrant groups in its district. This includes the interpretation and appreciation of others cultures not only as between these groups and ourselves, but also as between different groups in the community. Thus a fruitful source of conflict can be made into a common heritage and a binding factor for all. In like manner the Settlement is one of the most effective agencies for interpreting American ideals in their finest forms to the newcomers, and doing it in a friendly, sympathetic manner, without the coercion which always tends to breed misunderstanding and active opposition.

3. Due to her long experience with women and children who worked in the packing plants, Miss McDowell and her staff have been able to assist materially in the solution of problems affecting these groups in industry. The national government drew on her for assistance during the war, and the City of Chicago showed its appreciation of her abilities later, by placing her at the head of our Department of Public Welfare.

4. The University Settlement has long furnished important leadership in the National Federation of Settlements and a variety of other local and national civic or social organizations.

5. Due to the breadth of policy, flexibility of program and variety of experiences met by resident workers in a Settlement, this forms an unusually fruitful school for the training of social work executives.

In consideration of these facts alone it would seem that the Settlement merits even more generous personnel and financial support from the campus than it has received in the past. Such an increase depends most largely upon more effective methods of placing the Settlement and its program before both faculty and student body. Such means can be found.

4. The University Settlement has long furnished important leadership in the National Federation of Settlements and a variety of other local and national civic or social organizations.

5. Due to the breadth of policy, flexibility of program and variety of experiences met by resident workers in a Settlement, this form an unusually fruitful school for the training of social work executives.

While the constant demand for such individuals to take important positions in many fields leads to a serious loss of leadership in the Settlement itself, the contribution it has made in this manner should be given full credit on its account.

6. One more contribution is needed. The case story of the Settlement, written in the form of Miss McDowell's life at this post, would be a very valuable record for social and professional workers in the future. Every facility and encouragement should be given to see that this is accomplished while there is opportunity.

Altho a number of other contributions to the large community life of America may be recalled, the foregoing are enough to show something of what the Settlement has done in the past, and to indicate some of its possibilities for the future.

III. The Relationship of the Settlement to its Own Community

The report of the original University "Back of the Yards" survey, made in 1893, previous to the founding of the Settlement, with others made from time to time through the passing years, when compared with a study of conditions there today, impress us with the great strides made during that period. This has been a period of general social progress, and no one agency can claim the lion's share of credit for the improvements effected in this or other districts. There are, however, certain notable contributions made to this progress so directly traceable to the Settlement and its leadership, that they warrant review at this point.

1. Like a lighthouse on a stormbound coast, the Settlement has consistently pointed the way to better things in community life for the district. No one can say how much this has helped to encourage the struggling forces for social, civic and economic betterment, that have brought about the change in our picture.

2. Few things have changed more for the better than conditions of employment in the stockyards. Miss McDowell's honesty of purpose, firm and intelligent stand for human rights, with her counsels of moderation in times of stress, and her spirit of mediation as between worker and employer, have done much to help iron out the serious differences that so long beset the packing industry. The old bitterness has very largely disappeared. Advanced policies of employee representation, guaranteed minimum employment, pensions for retired workers and a generally more democratic attitude indicate a new spirit in the great packing plants of Chicago. Observance of the Alschuler Award of 1918 reflects great credit on the employers.

While the constant demand for such individuals to take important positions in many fields leads to a serious loss of leadership in the settlement itself, the contribution it has made in this manner should be given full credit on its account.

6. One more contribution is needed. The case story of the settlement, written in the form of Miss McDowell's life at this post, would be a very valuable record for social and professional workers in the future. Like a number of other contributions to the large community life of America may be recalled, the foregoing are enough to show something of what the settlement has done in the past, and to indicate some of its possibilities for the future.

III. The Relationship of the Settlement to its Own Community

The report of the original University "Back of the Yards" survey, made in 1893, previous to the founding of the settlement, with others made from time to time through the passing years, when compared with a study of conditions there today, impress us with the great strides made during that period. This has been a period of general social progress, and no one agency can claim the lion's share of credit for the improvements effected in this or other districts. There are, however, certain notable contributions made to this progress so directly traceable to the settlement and its leadership, that they warrant review at this point.

1. Like a lighthouse on a storm-bound coast, the settlement has consistently pointed the way to better things in community life for the district. No one can say how much this has helped to encourage the struggling forces for social, civic and economic betterment, that have brought about the change in our picture.

Advanced policies of employee representation, guaranteed minimum employment, pensions for retired workers and a generally more democratic attitude indicate a new spirit in the great packing plants of Chicago. Observance of the Alschuler Award of 1913 reflects great credit on the employers.

3. Adjustment of new groups to old in the community has been one of the most important problems of the past thirty years back of the yards. As each new group has come in, the Settlement has acted as neighbor and friend to the stranger. It has striven diligently and with much success to help the newcomer find his place, and to create a spirit of neighborly welcome from the older groups. This sort of service still remains one of the major opportunities of the University Settlement.

4. The appalling deathrate in this district in the old days grew out of its serious sanitary problem in large part. Today the district compares favorably with many other parts of Chicago. No small part of this improvement came from the abolition of the old city dumps, largely at Miss McDowell's insistent demand, backed by the united sentiment of the community she led. Her efforts to have Bubbly Creek filled, and one more danger removed, promise to be crowned with complete success as soon as the new State orders can be carried out.

5. Through her pleadings some of the most objectionable of the fertilizer plants have been removed. There seems to be room for very material progress in the abolition of foul odors from the yards for the future.

6. Throughout its history the Settlement has organized the community to demand better public services, sidewalks, street paving, sewers, lighting and police and fire protection. A large amount of success has attended these efforts.

7. The Settlement has long been both an organizing and co-operating center for various health, charitable, protective and educational organizations of the city, in their work in this district. Today three United Charities workers are residents, thus benefitting by the closer touch and understanding only possible through actually living in the community they serve. Boy and Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls and like agencies have active branches at the Settlement. Local churches, schools and parks co-operate with the Settlement staff in handling problems of community interest.

8. Davis Square was secured for one of the most needy parts of the district very largely through Miss McDowell's work. One of her own staff became one of its most capable directors for several years.

9. The Settlement has taken a keen interest in the standards of commercial recreation in its community. By friendly counsel, or by social pressure when no other approach was effective, the proprietors have been encouraged to give the community a better and better type of recreation. It is now the common verdict that local standards compare favorably with much wealthier parts of the city, altho this battle must be fought on to insure improvement in the future.

3. Adjustment of new groups to old in the community has been one of the most important problems of the past thirty years back of the yards. As each new group has come in, the settlement has acted as neighbor and friend to the stranger. It has striven diligently and with much success to help the newcomers find his place, and to create a spirit of neighborly welcome from the older groups. This sort of service still remains one of the major opportunities of the University Settlement.

4. The appalling destitution in this district in the old days grew out of its serious sanitary problem in large part. Today the district compares favorably with many other parts of Chicago. No small part of this improvement came from the abolition of the old city dumps, largely at Miss McDowell's insistent demand, backed by the united sentiment of the community she led. Her efforts to have Ruppely Creek filled, and one more danger removed, promise to be crowned with complete success as soon as the new state orders can be carried out.

5. Through her pleadings some of the most objectionable of the fertilizer plants have been removed. There seems to be room for very material progress in the abolition of foul odors from the yards for the future.

6. Throughout its history the settlement has organized the community to demand better public services, sidewalks, street paving, sewers, lighting and police and fire protection. A large amount of success has attended these efforts.

7. The settlement has long been both an organizing and co-operating center for various health, charitable, protective and educational organizations of the city, in their work in this district. Today three United Charities workers are residents, thus benefiting by the closer touch and understanding only possible through actually living in the community they serve. Boy and Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls and like agencies have active branches at the settlement. Local churches, schools and parks co-operate with the settlement staff in handling problems of community interest.

8. Davis Square was secured for one of the most needy parts of the district very largely through Miss McDowell's work. One of her own staff became one of its most capable directors for several years.

9. The settlement has taken a keen interest in the standards of commercial restoration in its community. By friendly counsel, or by social pressure when no other approach was effective, the proprietors have been encouraged to give the community a better and better type of restoration. It is now the common verdict that local standards compare favorably with much wealthier parts of the city, and this battle must be fought on to insure improvement in the future.

10. It is and should be the Settlement's policy to supply only such recreational and educational services as cannot be, or are not being, more satisfactorily provided by some other agency. Its wide and varying program has been built to meet actual needs, not to fit some plan imposed from without. This flexibility is an essential characteristic of Settlement work.

11. Particular care is being and must be exercised to insure that the work of the Settlement shall tend to integrate and build up the homes of the community, and under no circumstances to become their competitors. Its efforts to improve health, housing, recreation, civic services, better community organization and higher standards of living generally have contributed to this cause in a large way. Mother's clubs and home-making classes have been more direct aids. Friendly visiting in the homes has been another important service to this end.

12. Perhaps the most promising single achievement of the Settlement was the creation, under its leadership and with the assistance of interested friends in the neighborhood, of the Stockyards Community Council, just after the late war. The council grew out of a great common need, the need to unite the best forces of all agencies and individuals in the community to stem the rising tide of juvenile delinquency. Its possibilities extend to the farthest outposts of community progress. Here again the Settlement has lived up to its ideal of working with, rather than for its community, of helping develop local leadership and interest in its local problems, and apply local initiative to their solution.

The Community Council includes representatives of twenty five local social civic, business or other agencies, including the schools and churches. It should grow until it includes every organization that takes an active interest in the welfare and progress of the membership in this area.

At this point it may be well to stress the unique place the Settlement holds among social agencies in its district.

(1) It stands more completely than any other as a social experiment station, where new problems are met by new methods, where temporary reverses means revision of effort but not defeat, and where the successful activity, once carried safely past the critical stages in its development, is readily turned over to the appropriate public or private specialized agency that proves able to handle it as well or better than the Settlement. It does not copyright ideas.

(2) It has at all times stood for a community-wide program of social and civic betterment, has furnished a continuous leadership, thereby gaining the confidence of its neighbors and profiting by the experiences and knowledge of the past, and has worked on a flexible program, free from the restraints of any dogma or party platform.

10. It is and should be the settlement's policy to supply only such recreational and educational services as cannot be, or are not being, more satisfactorily provided by some other agency. Its wide and varying program has been built to meet actual needs, not to fit some plan imposed from without. This flexibility is an essential characteristic of settlement work.

11. Particular care is being and must be exercised to insure that the work of the settlement shall tend to integrate and build up the homes of the community, and under no circumstances to become their competitors. Its efforts to improve health, housing, recreation, civic services, better community organization and higher standards of living generally have contributed to this cause in a large way. Mother's clubs and home-making classes have been more direct aids. Friendly visiting in the homes has been another important service to this end.

12. Perhaps the most promising single achievement of the settlement was the creation, under its leadership and with the assistance of interested friends in the neighborhood, of the Stockyards Community Council, just after the late war. The council grew out of a great common need, the need to unite the best forces of all agencies and individuals in the community to stem the rising tide of juvenile delinquency. Its possibilities extend to the farthest outposts of community progress. Here again the settlement has lived up to its ideal of work - the wish, rather than for its community, of helping develop local leadership and interest in its local problems, and apply local initiative to their solution.

The Community Council includes representatives of twenty-five local social clubs, business or other agencies, including the schools and churches. It should grow until it includes every organization that takes an active interest in the welfare and progress of the neighborhood in this area.

At this point it may be well to stress the unique place the settlement holds among social agencies in its district.

(1) It stands more completely than any other as a social experiment station, where new problems are met by new methods, where temporary reverses means revision of effort but not defeat, and where the successful activity, once carried safely past the critical stages in its development, is readily turned over to the appropriate public or private specialized agency that proves able to handle it as well or better than the settlement. It does not copyright ideas.

(2) It has at all times stood for a community-wide program of social and civic betterment, has furnished a continuous leadership, thereby gaining the confidence of its neighbors and profiting by the experiences and knowledge of the past, and has worked on a flexible program, free from the restraints of any dogma or party platform.

(3) Most valuable of all, its leaders have been residents of the community, sharing alike the common good and evil of every sort that is a part of local life, being on the job twenty four hours a day, extending a well-balanced sympathetic and neighborly intelligence and goodwill to all, without regard to color, race, tongue, creed, status or political opinion. It has considered no need too small and no task too great, if it involved the welfare of its neighbors, to engage its earnest interest and attention. Where local effort could not meet the problems of the community, it has reached out and brought to the community the best talents and resources of individual and organized social service from every part of the city or beyond.

(4) The Settlement provides, beyond any other agency, a place where freedom of speech and assembly is guaranteed. Within its doors it is safe to discuss the most critical and controversial of social, political or economic questions. It welcomes the free discussion that brings truth to light for the common good, and assures that evil shall be dragged out into the sunshine so that its true face shall be seen by all. At the same time it is cautious in espousing doubtful panaceas or in assuming responsibility for the views of those who meet in its halls.

In the following pages some of the more specific needs of the Settlement policy, staff, plant and equipment will be discussed, and some of its disabilities and limitations reviewed. Granting all that may be said truthfully about changing conditions and Settlement limitations, it cannot be questioned that until such time as the neighborly Christian spirit is no longer needed for the solution of human problems, the Settlement will continue to have a large and vital work to do.

IV. Some Specific Problems and Recommendations Concerning Policy and Plant, Staff and Equipment, of the University Settlement

1. Policy and Staff:

(1) Direction and Control:

The present plan of executive organization seems well adapted to the needs of the situation. It combines the long experience and wide contacts of Miss McDowell, for matters of policy, with the necessary time and energy for detailed control of operation and program of Mrs. Thompson.

(2) Neighborhood Contacts:

Since personality rather than program is the ideal in Settlement work, there is need of a large amount of friendly contact between it and the community. This should be increased by more friendly

IV. Some Specific Problems and Recommendations Concerning Policy and Plant, Staff and Equipment, of the University Settlement

I. Policy and Staff:

(1) Direction and Control:

The present plan of executive organization seems well adapted to the needs of the situation. It combines the long experience and wide contacts of Miss McDowell, for matters of policy, with the necessary time and energy for detailed control of operation and program of Mrs. Thompson.

(2) Neighborhood Contacts:

Since personality rather than program is the ideal in Settlement work, there is need of a large amount of friendly contact between it and the community. This should be increased by more friendly visiting in the homes and more frequent contacts between staff and the workers in other social organizations in the district.

(3) Employment and Vocational Assistance:

Until some public agency can provide very much more adequate employment and vocational guidance services than at present, there will remain a constant challenge to the best efforts of the Settlement. Both younger and older individuals seek this assistance in much greater numbers than the present staff and equipment can handle to good advantage.

(4) Health Services:

The Settlement has long taken a leading part in bettering the general health conditions of its area. There still remains a very important field in which it has not met the need adequately.

a. It should provide competent physical examination for every child before allowing him to enter active sports and games that might work serious injury to one with a weak heart or weak lungs.

b. Each day the workers discover need of some special or general clinical or dispensary service among their children and adults. Seeing that these get the proper service takes too much time which they want for their own regular activities. A full time health worker on the staff could care for both this and the foregoing to the best advantage.

c. The balance of this worker's time could be put into various other health activities, including diet and hygiene classes, home demonstration work for older children and mothers and visiting and advice in the homes of the neighborhood. Such work is greatly needed there.

d. Much good also could be done with some increase in the funds available for emergency care of teeth, eyes, and ears, nutrition work, etc., especially for the kindergarten children.

(5) Stenographic Help:

The family welfare worker needs at least one afternoon's help per week from a student stenographer, for dictation and record keeping. This might be of material assistance to a student working her way. The worker also needs more satisfactory records and filing equipment here.

(6) Departmental Stagg:

A resident student girls' worker, with some experience and ability who might give considerable time for her room and board, would very much relieve the pressure of work in that department.

A resident student girl's worker, with some experience and ability who might give considerable time for her room and board, would very much relieve the pressure of work in that department.

Some re-arrangement in the system of salaries, with a slight increase, in the boys' department would add to its efficiency of operation.

There are large possibilities for extending women's work whenever the budget will permit of adding a competent worker to head this.

Heads of department should be free enough from routine to have ample time for visiting and advising as to the work of their volunteer assistants. All resident workers should be encouraged to take time for professional reading over and beyond that essential to carry on their particular work. They also should make it a part of their policy to keep in as close touch with their children's homes as possible, and to keep in touch with the other social and educational or religious activities in the district. It is important that they avoid over-specialization in their efforts to do the best job they may in their particular departments.

(7) Volunteer Relationships with the House:

It seems very important that the non-resident workers should be brought into as close personal contact as possible with the residents, in order to appreciate the real spirit of the Settlement. If they were invited as guests of the house to dinner at reasonable intervals, say monthly, and had occasional special dinners for the group as a whole, as is done here a little now, and much more in some other Settlements, it would help build up this esprit de corps that is essential to the best work. The Settlement owes the outside worker the opportunity for this valuable education in social ideals.

(8) A very valuable addition to the Settlement's resources would be a general library of current professional magazines and the best new books in social research, for the free use of all members of the staff. Miss McDowell provides this service in part from her own income, but should not have to do so. Each worker already finds it necessary to spend considerable sums for new books for his own particular line of work, and has little left for the more general works that he should read to keep well abreast of the times.

(9) House-cleaning Time:

If plans for the annual housecleaning and overhauling could be made and contracts let, to take care of this work during the slack season, as in June or perhaps in mid-summer, it should result in a material economy, and would give the residents much more enjoyment of the brighter quarters before the wear and dirt of the fall program has dulled them. Also it would help level out a highly seasonal industry, to the benefit of the workers in it.

If such a survey as this were made every five years, it would provide valuable records and a check-up on progress and change, and stimulate interest on the part of all concerned.

2. Plant and Equipment (in addition to above)

(1) The University Settlement has an exceptionally good set of records but is handicapped with inadequate filing equipment.

(2) The present heating system is inefficient largely on account of improper routing of the steam or its control, as in the boys' gym where much saving could be effected if the heat could be shut off when it is needed only in the dressing room. Tightening loose windows and weatherstripping others also would add to the comfort of the residents and save fuel.

(3) Forty additional lockers would be very useful in the boys' locker room. Both convenience and the safety of the boys' clothes is concerned.

(4) Better furnishings, at very little cost, for the boys' club room would create more pride in the club and better order in and care of the room.

(5) In this age of machine industry, opportunity for creative expression is particularly valuable. The Settlement, in its manual arts division offers a chance eagerly used by a large group of boys, but is handicapped for lack of sufficient material. Lumber prices are prohibitive to these children.

(6) A good fence around the remainder of the playground would greatly protect the surface from damage, increase the safety of the children and reduce the difficulties of proper supervision.

My dear Mr. Haynes:

I think your letter is very admirable and I have no changes to suggest in it. I fear that you have let yourself in for the permanent job of official letter writer on behalf of the Settlement. At least, I shall hope that you will have the opportunity frequently.

I am not quite sure whether Mr. Bean has arranged to have the list of alumni sent to you or not. If you are in the dark as to the matter, will you let me know so I can see that you get a list as promptly as possible.

Sincerely yours,

My dear

There are some youngsters and young people over by the yards who need a friend at this time. Will you help?

The University <sup>needs</sup> of Chicago Settlement is facing a deficit unless it ~~gets~~ $2,500 by May 1. That means getting 100 to 250 persons to contribute $10. to $25 each. Will you be one?

The Settlement helps at three places. It helps the neighborhood people who attend its clubs and classes to have a normal wholesome life. It helps students at the University by opening their eyes to a side of life which is new to them. It helps the University by showing the general public that our Alma Mater can be of practical, everyday service now as well as of service in research and teaching, where the dividends are deferred.

You are the only one who can tell ~~what~~ you can give, but we hope that you can give something and can give it now. A deficit would mean cutting work the youngsters need.

Notes of Finance Committee
University of Chicago Settlement
Quadrangle Club, Monday, March 12

The necessity of raising the $2,000 deficit on the present year's budget brought forth the following plans:

1. A special letter to a selected list of 200 alumni to be written by Mr. Haynes and addressed from the Chicago Alumni Directory to be furnished by Mr. Bean. Donald Trumbull's name was particularly recommended for a possible $100.00 donation, which will probably be handled by a personal call

2. The Settlement neighborhood community campaign under Mr. Laycock's supervision.

3. The solicitation of the Board of Trustees, including particularly the following new members, Avery, Barnard, Mc Nair, Stevens, and Ryerson by Mr. G. B. Smith

4. The solicitation of the members of the Settlement who regularly give special contributions at this time of the year - Mr. Smith to write the letter and Mr. Bastin to provide the information from the records

5. Solicitation of possible new contributors to the deficit to be special letters, each member of the Committee to contribute names. The following are suggested new:

Edwin Nelson
Mrs. Dummer
Mrs. Reeve
Major Tolman's sister
Mrs. Wiese
J. V. Farovid, 7857 South Shore Drive
Dr. Otto L. Schmidt, 1218 Madison Park
Samuel Dauchy,
John Sokol
Mrs. Harold B. Ickes - Mr. Haynes
Dr. Herman Bundeson
J. W. Hallam
Mrs. H. R. Riddle, 5622 Woodlawn
Dr. Frank Kadlec (nee Anna Koleyky)

250 sheets of stationery and envelopes have been ordered, and will be ready Wednesday, March 21. Apply at Mr. Bastin's office for the quantity which you will need.

Dear Mr. Smith:

I have read your letter over carefully. It seems to me that it is a good one. If I were to make any suggestions, it would be that we put first the statement of the appealing usefulness of the Settlement as shown, for instance, in the third sentence of your second paragraph and then put the quotation from Doctor Harper at the end.

Accompanying this is a draft of a letter to be sent to the two hundred alumni. I have prepared this not as a substitute for your letter but as a different letter to go to a different group. My understanding at our meeting last week was that you were to prepare a letter for a somewhat general group of larger donors, while I was to prepare a list and letter for a group of not over two hundred alumni. It is for this latter group that the attached letter has been prepared. It is to go, of course, over your signature as President of the Settlement Board. I know you will feel free to suggest any changes which come to your mind.

Sincerely yours,

My dear - -----:

Some thirty years ago President Harper wrote:

" Officially and personally I regard the Settlement as a vital part of University work, and I sincerely hope that such interest will be aroused on its behalf as to warrant its permanent continuance".

This hope has been realized. The University Settlement has earned the hearty support of scores of friends in the University and in the city. It is today making something like a thousand personal contacts each week with people "back of the yards" who are hungry for social sympathy and encouragement in higher ideals of living.

In order to maintain this work at present standards, we need to enlarge the circle of its friends. The Settlement is endorsed by the Chicago Association of Commerce, and its <sup>a</sup>affairs are carefully administered under the direction of the Board of Directors.

We need about $2500.00 more than we have in sight in order to meet the current needs of the fiscal year, which closes May 1.

I hope that you will <sup>consent</sup> ~~be willing~~ to be one of ----- persons whom I am asking to contribute $----- each. A card is enclosed on which you can indicate your desire.

~~It seems~~ I am sure that many alumni of the University would be glad to help place the Settlement on a firm financial basis.

My dear President Mason:

Let me thank you, on behalf of the Board of Directors of the University Settlement, for the very generous contribution which you have made.

I trust that some time there may be a sufficient lull in your round of imperative duties to enable you to attend some board meeting, of which you are ex officio a member.

Sincerely yours,

Gerald B. Smith

The Prayer of Confession:

The Minister:

Dearly beloved brethren, the Scripture moveth us, in sundry places, to acknowledge and confess our manifold sins and wickedness; and that we should not dissemble nor cloak them before the face of Almighty God our heavenly Father. Wherefore I pray and beseech you to accompany me with pure heart, and humble voice, unto the throne of the heavenly grace, saying—

The Minister and the Congregation:

Almighty and most merciful Father, we have erred and strayed from thy ways like lost sheep. We have followed too much the devices and desires of our own hearts. We have offended against thy holy laws. We have left undone those things which we ought to have done; and we have done those things which we ought not to have done. But thou, O Lord, have mercy upon us. Spare thou those, O God, who confess their faults. Restore thou those who are penitent, according to thy promises declared unto mankind in Christ Jesus our Lord. And Grant, O most merciful Father, for his sake, that we may hereafter live a godly, righteous, and sober life, to the glory of thy holy Name. Amen.

The Minister:

If we confess our sins God is faithful and righteous to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

The Prayer of Thanksgiving:

The Minister and the Congregation:

Almighty God, Father of all mercies, we, thine unworthy servants, do give thee most humble and hearty thanks for all thy goodness and loving-kindness to us, and to all men. We bless thee for our creation, preservation, and all the blessings of this life; but above all for thine inestimable love in the redemption of the world by our Lord Jesus Christ, for the means of grace, and for the hope of glory. And we beseech thee, give us that due sense of all thy mercies, that our hearts may be unfeignedly thankful; and that we show forth thy praise, not only with our lips, but in our lives, by giving up ourselves to thy service, and by walking before thee in holiness and righteousness all our days; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The preacher on Sunday, October 4, will be PROFESSOR THEODORE GERALD SOARES, PH.D., D.D., The University of Chicago, Chicago, Illinois.

THE University of Chicago Settlement, 4630 Gross Avenue, is the outpost of the social spirit of the University community. The Settlement owns property valued at $80,000 and opened on January 1, 1925, a new Boys' Gymnasium built at a cost of $24,740, contributed by friends of the Settlement.

Responsibility for financing the upkeep and numerous activities of the Settlement rests upon the Board of Directors and the Settlement League, which two groups, with the aid of the Student Settlement Benefit, will raise and expend more than $26,000 for the present fiscal year.

The weekly attendance in the winter on the activities in the Settlement House includes 3,000 girls, boys, and adults. During the summer some 1,800 children and young people share in the out-of-door play and social activities organized by Settlement workers; and over 500 boys and girls are sent to the camp supported by the Settlement League.

The task of the Settlement is to be the wise, understanding, and generous neighbor of a large population of foreign origin who help do the work and shape the destinies of Chicago and the United States. Its future depends on the intelligent and sympathetic generosity of all members of the University—students, alumni, Faculty, and Trustees—and of the Hyde Park community.

PERCY HOLMES BOYNTON,
President of the Settlement Board

LOU-EVE LONGAN
Head Resident of the University Settlement

My dear Mr. Scott:

I am writing on behalf of the Board of Directors of the University of Chicago Settlement to thank you for the very valuable assistance which you rendered in connection with the benefit night for the Settlement on July 9th. You will be pleased to know that the receipts from that occasion were about $740.00. This will go a long way toward the budget of $1000.00 needed to maintain the joy bus for this season.

Sincerely yours,
