Green Hall, University of Chicago,

June 11, 1914.

Dear President Angell,--

We appreciate your kind and immediate response to our letter. It is only because we feel that we have a very real and deep-seated difficulty that we are taking your time at present. We hoped, after the conference between yourself, the heads of the Houses, and the management, to find that our difficulties had been settled. But even after that it has not appeared that the management was conscious of any difference between the needs of a college dormitory and those of an ordinary restaurant. An instance of this was the refusal to consider providing <sup>service</sup> for the annual Green Hall beach party, on May 22, a legitimate function of the Commons.

If these short comings were off set by real efficiency in its primary functions we could accept the rest, but we do not know of any department of the Commons where the management is considered a success by the people whom it serves. Whatever the quality of the food may be, or where ever it may come from, it is <sup>often</sup> poor by the time it comes to the table, possibly spoiled in preparation. Since the management has failed to give us efficient service and proper food. and since it has also failed completely to adapt itself to the needs and customs of the dormitories we feel that it is our duty and our right to let the administration know that from the point of view of the women there has been a decided change for the worse.

Yours truly,

Green Hall, University of Chicago

June 11, 1914

Dear Mr. Macdonald:

As regards your letter and the question of the fact, it is only because we feel that we have a right to be satisfied with the fact that we are at the time of the to point, after the manner of your statement, the basis of the Honor, and the management, to find that our statement is settled. But even then that it has not occurred that the management has not been able to afford between the needs of a college formation and those of an ordinary statement. An instance of this was the refusal to consider anything for the annual Green Hall, and we are not a little disappointed at the result.
It is true that we have not yet been able to in the primary instance to could a great deal, but we do not know of any department of the University that the management is considered a success in the people whom it serves. Whether the quality of the food was not, or where ever it may have been, it is poor by the time it comes to the table, possibly spoiled in preparation. Also, the management has failed to give us all-out service and to our food and since it has also failed to attend to the right to the needs and interests of the students.
We feel that it is our duty and our right to let the management know that from the point of view of the people there has been a serious change for the worse.

Yours truly,

Deutscher Akademischer Bund

EXECUTIVE OFFICE
225 FIFTH AVENUE

Hon. Marion Talbot,
Dean of Women,
Univ. of Chicago, Ill.

New York, December 26, 1914.

Dear Madam:

The "German University League" of Graduates and Students of German Universities has been organized for two purposes. The League proposes to unite its members in scientific and business intercourse through a central bureau of information, and it proposes further, by spreading as Goethe says "Licht, mehr Licht" on German thoughts and ideals, to help in maintaining the goodwill of this country towards the Germans.

Prof. Rudolf Eucken and Prof. Ernst Haeckel, both of Jena, have recently addressed a letter to the "Universities of America", giving their view on Germany's position in the present war, copy of which letter you will find enclosed.

While this letter was designed to reach a general audience among the American Universities, we know that the two German professors would greatly appreciate the opportunity of answering any question their American colleagues may wish to ask in connection with their letter, and we feel sure that they would very much like to hear any comment you may care to make on it.

With this in view, we shall, therefore, be pleased to have you send us your questions or comments relating to the above letter. We shall, of course, consider your communication confidential and not for publication. We shall inform Messrs. Eucken and Haeckel of them and see to it that all questions are promptly answered.

Such a suggested exchange of thought will further that understanding and that sympathy between intellectual leaders of the world, so devoutly to be desired and so earnestly to be striven for in these troubled days.

Appreciating your giving this communication your early consideration and bringing it, if possible, to the knowledge of your colleagues, we remain, with assurance of our great respect,

Faithfully yours,

GERMAN UNIVERSITY LEAGUE

Dear Sir,

I am well aware that American enterprise has made available reprints of the official papers relating to the present European war; but the original British prints of these publications may not be accessible to those persons of influence who would study them for a true history of the conflict. I am venturing to send to you under another cover several of these official documents. I am sure you will not consider this an impertinence, but will realise that Britishers are deeply anxious that their cause may be judged from authoritative evidence.

In common with the great majority of Americans, you have, no doubt, made up your mind as to what country should be held responsible for this tragedy, but these papers may be found useful for reference, and because they contain the uncontrovertible facts, I feel that you will probably welcome them in this form.

My long and intimate association with the United States through my writings gives me confidence to approach you, and I trust you will not think me intrusive or misunderstand my motive.

With all respect,

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH-CABLE COMPANY (INCORPORATED)

TRANSMITS AND DELIVERS THE WITHIN NIGHT LETTERGRAM SUBJECT TO THE FOLLOWING TERMS AND CONDITIONS:

The Company will receive, not later than midnight, NIGHT LETTERGRAMS, written in plain English, to be transmitted only for delivery not earlier than the morning of the next working business day, at rates as follows: The standard day rate for a ten-word day message shall be charged for the transmission of a NIGHT LETTERGRAM containing fifty words or less, and one-half of the standard day rate for a ten-word day message shall be charged for each additional ten words or less in such NIGHT LETTERGRAM.

To guard against mistakes or delays the sender of a NIGHT LETTERGRAM should order it REPEATED, that is, telegraphed back to the originating office for comparison. For this one-half the unrepeat NIGHT LETTERGRAM rate is charged in addition. Unless otherwise indicated on the face of this blank THIS IS AN UNREPEATED NIGHT LETTERGRAM, AND IS PAID FOR OR AGREED TO BE PAID FOR AS SUCH in consideration whereof it is agreed between the sender of the NIGHT LETTERGRAM and this Company as follows:

1. The Company shall not be liable for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for non-delivery of any UNREPEATED NIGHT LETTERGRAM beyond the amount received for sending the same; nor for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for non-delivery of any REPEATED NIGHT LETTERGRAM beyond five times the sum received for sending the same, UNLESS SPECIALLY VALUED AND INSURED (in which case, conditions 3 to 8, given below, shall apply to such repeated message); nor in any case for delays arising from unavoidable interruption in the working of its lines; nor for errors in obscure Night Lettergrams.

2. Corruptions in the transmission of NIGHT LETTERGRAMS, at any point on the lines of the Company, be INSURED by contract in writing, stating agreed amount of risk, and payment of premium thereon, at the following rates, in addition to the usual charge for REPEATED NIGHT LETTERGRAMS, viz: one per cent. for any distance not exceeding 8000 miles and two per cent. for any greater distance.

3. This Company is hereby made the agent of the sender, without liability, to forward this NIGHT LETTERGRAM over the lines of any other company when necessary to reach its destination.

4. NIGHT LETTERGRAMS will be delivered free within one-half mile of the Company's office in towns of 5,000 population or less, and within one mile of such office in other cities or towns. Beyond these limits the Company does not undertake to make delivery, but will, without liability, at the sender's request, as his agent and at his expense, endeavor to contract for him for such delivery at a reasonable price.

5. No responsibility attaches to this Company concerning NIGHT LETTERGRAMS until the same are accepted at one of its transmitting offices, and if such a NIGHT LETTERGRAM is sent to such office by one of the Company's messengers, the latter acts for that purpose as the agent of the sender.

6. The Company shall not be liable for damages or statutory penalties in any case where the claim is not presented in writing within thirty days after the NIGHT LETTERGRAM is filed with the Company for transmission.

In further consideration of the reduced rate for this special "NIGHT LETTERGRAM" service, the following special terms are hereby agreed to:

A. NIGHT LETTERGRAMS may at the option of the Telegraph Company be mailed at destination to the addressee, and the Company shall be deemed to have discharged its obligation in such cases with respect to delivery by mailing such NIGHT LETTERGRAM at destination, postage prepaid.

B. NIGHT LETTERGRAMS shall be written in plain English. Cipher or code language is not permitted.

C. The above terms and conditions shall be binding upon the receiver as well as the sender of this NIGHT LETTERGRAM.

D. No employee of the Company is authorized to vary the foregoing.

THIS IS AN UNREPEATED NIGHT LETTERGRAM and is transmitted and delivered by request of the sender under the conditions named above. Errors can be guarded against only by repeating the NIGHT LETTERGRAM back to the sending station for comparison.

backgrounds for making any suggestions.

If you care to take the further trouble of sending

current program for the department of "Home-hood Administration", so that I may know what ground it now covers, and will tell me the number of conferences to be devoted to that subject. I will try to evolve "suggestions" if I can. But my ideas on Home Economics and kindred subjects are so moss-grown that I fear they will be of little use, and quite superficial - which is worthy neither of the subject nor of

My dear Miss Talbot:-

It seems to me that the idea of departmental conferences has in it possibilities for the nicest kind of reunion. Of course all of us will want to visit with old friends but it will be most interesting to know what other people are doing.

I presume you are planning some general address and group discussions. My ideas are pretty much limited to my own line of work so far as ideas for a program go. At present all my attention is centered upon the practice apartment of which I have charge. It seems to me that through a practice house one can best make the connection between principles and actual doing. For that reason I would suggest a little discussion on the use of practice houses, their aim and the best methods for accomplishing it. It may easily be that there are too few of our roommen interested in that kind of work to make such a discussion valuable, but this is just a suggestion.

It would be a great pleasure to be back for the reunion time. It may be possible although our own commencement comes just at that time.

Very sincerely,

Corra E. Gray.

Dear Miss Talbot:

I am very much interested in the plan for the quarter centennial to be held in June 1916. It may be that I can not be there in person, but I'll surely be there in spirit, and will contribute in any way you may wish to indicate.

The "home" conference of departments is rather new, and a plan feasible only for such a productive institution as the University of Chicago. I feel honored doubly, as an alumna of such an institution, and as an assistant in such a conference.

I am steeped just now in the consideration of the content of Household Administration or Home Economics Scientific Courses for colleges and universities. As you know, the University of California has never been committed to any definite policy in this matter, and so all of us are continually at work on the problem. Last August I presented a paper on the subject at a conference of the Home Economics professors from a number of the Agricultural Colleges, called by Dr. Claxton. There was considerable difference of opinion expressed as to the feasibility of the views therein. I found that the subject of cooking courses vs. applied science courses in the higher institutions is rather a burning question. The point seems to be with many of these instructors, "If cooking courses are eliminated from the university curriculum, what shall we teach in their place, and where are the students to learn their prerequisite cookery?"

Would it be possible at this conference in June to outline some reasonable and reassuring answer to these questions?

Again, is the Home Economics course to serve a social and cultural purpose only, or a vocational one also? Can we afford to train the college woman in such a way as to make her more valuable as the engineer of a private household, or must our courses aim to give her a professional or specialist's training? I am rather inclined to the latter view, and believe that a combination of the two is an impossible dream. This belief is based perhaps primarily on the inevitable view that the private household is of dwindling importance in the modern scheme of economics.

The very relegation of so many of the food courses to the School of Education at Chicago seems to brand their content as not quite university style. And it is no secret that some of them justify that relegation. But may not such a conference as you speak of separate these goats from the sheep, and outline the silhouette of super-sheep for the future?

I am advocating here the establishment of this work as primarily graduate work of a professional character, similar to such schools as the graduate schools of medicine, law, engineering, etc. The professional dietitian so trained might well be looked to to supplement and strengthen the work of the physician, nurse, social worker, government extension worker, Whether the University of California will eventually adopt such a policy is of course impossible to predict.

Do you approve of the tenor of these questions that I am raising? Do they seem pertinent to the situation as you see it?

With the very best wishes, and most grateful remembrances for yourself and Miss Breckinridge,

Very sincerely yours,

Dean Marian Talbot,
University of Chicago,
Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Miss Talbot:

In reply to your letter of November 29th, I wish to thank you for informing me of the University Home-Coming. During the spring or early summer I hope to have a two or three months' leave of absence from the college, and shall try to arrange my plans to be in Chicago from June 9th to 13th. I am confident that such a meeting as you mention can be made most profitable to all present.

In regard to suggestions for the Conference, I am inclined to believe that a series of round table discussions should form a part of the program. Personally I should like to hear discussed the following topics: 1. Principles and practice of cookery - how much should be taught in the colleges, high schools and grades? How can the work given be made of greater value to the students? (From my own experience here of four years, I am firmly convinced that the work can be made much more effective by using larger quantities of food materials. Of course this involves a problem of finance and methods of disposing of the products.)

2. What should constitute a college course in dietetics? (Until this year I have taught the laboratory as well as the lecture work in dietetics in the college. This year I am able to carry only the lecture work. We have deviated somewhat from the ordinary college course, and although we have not worked out what we consider by any means an ideal course, still we have been able to obtain some very interesting results. The course in our School of Home Economics is elective, but practically every senior woman elects it; I think I would be save in saying that 90% take the course. )

3. Professional apprenticeship for dietitians.

4. How much child care shall be taught in the grades, high schools and colleges, and how and by whom shall this work be conducted?

5. The teaching of house sanitation in public and high schools.

7. Practice houses.

6. Extension work in home economics - methods of conducting the courses.

I think also the clothing side should not be neglected. I wish that we might also have some lectures by you and Miss Breckenridge. I am sure that from your seminars, material has been worked out that would be of splendid service to us.

I wish that I might have the pleasure of having you and Miss Breckenridge visit at our college. I am most enthusiastic over the possibilities of our work here. We have a very growing department. Four years ago there were five teachers in the Home Economics School; at the present time there are fifteen.

I have just returned from San Francisco where the department has just finished a very interesting piece of work. Before the opening of the Panama Pacific Exposition, the Oregon Commission requested that the college have an exhibit in the Oregon State building. The domestic science department decided that perhaps the most effective exhibit that could be put on for the department would be the conducting of a tea room by the senior women. This was agreed to, and a kitchen and dining room in this building were equipped, the Commission furnishing the funds. This dining room and kitchen were separated from the rest of the building by glass walls; this enabled all visitors passing through the halls to watch the preparation and service. The students were dressed in white.

Seniors were chosen according to the standard of work done in college, and nine were always on duty with one teacher in charge in the capacity of advisor. Each group of girls remained at the exposition for six weeks. Changes were made every three weeks in order to make the adjustment less difficult. Luncheons were served to the public. The capacity of the dining room was thirty six, so by beginning service at twelve, it was possible to serve the dining room filled twice, making our capacity at noon seventy two. Throughout the entire time many people were turned away every day, and shortly after starting, guests were forming in line at eleven o'clock in order to be sure of service. A three course luncheon was served for seventy five cents. While there was no desire whatsoever to clear any money from this undertaking, over two thousand dollars was cleared, our share of which is to be turned over to the Student Loan Fund for Home Economics. Our transportation expenses amounted to $250. per month; in addition to this a concession of $500. was paid. We have demonstrated to the college the practical value of the domestic science training.

12/15/15

Breakfast and dinner were served to the Oregon family, numbering from twenty five to forty. All girls were responsible for the preparation and service of the luncheon, but two girls only for the preparation of the dinner and breakfast, while two other girls served. This experience we consider has been invaluable to our senior women, and it would be a very difficult thing for us to determine what this has meant to the department as well as to the college as a whole. I shall send you a copy of the appreciation which has just been received from the Oregon Commission, illuminated by Paul Elderb, Main Artist.

This shows you that we really have had a purpose larger than our school or state, and that is the dignifying of service. From the great interest and enthusiasm of the people whom we served, I feel confident that it was a most fortunate undertaking. It was somewhat difficult for us to arrange the class work of these students, but we have had splendid co-operation, the departments serving our school having been most gracious in arranging for the work taken to be made up; then too, one credit per week was allowed in Institutional Management for the work at San Francisco.

Pardon me for taking so much of your time in explaining this little piece of work done by our college;- I have just returned from San Francisco, and am full of enthusiasm over the results. With best wishes for a restful holiday season and a profitable and happy New Year, I am

My dear Miss Talbot:

Some time ago you asked me to make suggestions for the Household Administration Conferences to be held during the home coming in June. Since our Home Makers' Conference I am wondering if it would be possible for Miss Ravenhill to be secured for those conferences. Her series of lectures during our Home Makers' Conference week were excellent. Her lectures are based upon sound scientific investigation, and she was able to interest hearers many of whom were graduates of our own college, students, as well as the present home makers. The women were so delighted that they asked for extra sessions to be arranged, and extra lectures to be given by Miss Ravenhill, one of which was entitled "Habit Formation in Childhood." I am firmly convinced that it would mean a very great deal to the graduates of the University of Chicago to hear the lectures which Miss Ravenhill is prepared to give.

Please do not misunderstand me. I do not wish to be presuming in my suggestions, and even though you find it undesirable to bring in outside speakers, I am sure we will have a very profitable series of conferences. With very best wishes,
I am

Dear Miss Talbot:

In reply to your letter of Nov. 30, 1915, would it not be very helpful in clearing up some of the confusion which exists as to the scope and purpose of household administration, if a portion of the departmental conference were devoted to a series of talks, stating as definitely as possible the scope and purpose of household administration from the following points of view:

1. The Public.

City and village

Rural.

2. Students of Household Administration.

Prospective teachers of the subject.

Students who expect to enter other professions

3. Superintendents of Schools in which the subject is taught.

4. Instructors of Household Administration in Colleges and Universities.

5. National, as held by the Bureau of Education, Washington, D.C., of which, Mrs. H. W. Calvine is the "Specialist in Home Economics."

I also suggest that the conference formulate a statement of the points it considers the scope of the department, and the aims toward which it should move, and also the phases in which research work most urgently needs to be done.

I should like very much to be with you,
but school here does not close until June 17, so it will be impossible. The work is interesting, but occupies most of my time, as I supervise all the Domestic Science work of the High School + grades, and teach three High School classes, and also supervise the night school.

work in this department, and teach two nights each week. One night School classes is composed of the nurses taking training in the Hospitals of the city, to whom I must present a course in dietetics and invalid cookery. It is exceedingly interesting to organize the work for them.

Wishing you an interesting and helpful conference, I am,

Very sincerely,

Sylvia A. Miller.

I think perhaps this sin of omission is directly due to the fact that I haven't an idea so far -

My Dear Miss Talbot:

Your note in reference to the coming Conference in June was received many weeks ago but I am sorry to say has been unanswered until now. It arrived during a very busy time which somehow failed to become less busy as the weeks passed by.

First let me say that I should very much like to come to the conference but shall be unable to get away from my work here in Springfield at the Technical High School at the time proposed.

As for suggestions I am afraid I have very few. I myself should find helpful a discussion of the relative value of practical and experimental work in

Household Science in High School Studies
Also what courses should be included in Household Science and its allied subjects and what the student should be fitted for on the completion of such a course-

Your letter of February 23rd with respect to the name Alpha Beta Phi in this University was duly received. We have had for some years a local fraternity among the men called Alpha Beta Phi. Last fall this fraternity obtained a charter from the national fratruernity Signma Nu. The name Alpha Beta Phi ceased to exist as a distinct organization. The design of the Alpha Beta Phi pin is a vertical diamond-shaped pin with the lower half of the diamond elongated and the Greek letters Alpha Beta Phi in vertical succession on a black enamel centre. It is entirely different in shape from the sketch in your letter. The organization no longer exists among us.

Dear Marion Talbot,
Chicago, Illinois.

My dear Miss Talbot:-

I am overcome with shame for my neglect when I see the date of your letter to me - Not only your letter, but many other things, too, have been neglected these past few months -

Your plan for the conference in June interests me very much - and it is a real disappointment that it will not be possible for me to be with you then -

I have made out a list of subjects that seem to me to come within the scope of household administration tho some of them are not incorporated in the course in many schools -

Perhaps you know that I have been out of things for some time. It has been three years now since I found I had developed pulmonary tuberculosis - I came to California <sup>and</sup> have been living in a sanatorium ever since June 1913 - It is this experience that has brought me to consider questions that had made little impression on me before.

My doctor, who is a reliable specialist, tells me I am now 70% well and that he is putting no limitations on the amount of brainwork I may do; but that for another year I should keep quiet physically - I have been on expense for as long without earning anything that I feel I must do something now since I can work mentally without harmful effects.

I would prefer doing some such thing as reading the papers of correspondence courses as I could do that while sitting quietly on my porch at home -

It seems as if my six years of college work were rather in vain if they didn't prepare me to make my living with my brains -

I am leaving here soon to go to my sister in Tucson Ariz. for the next year or two. I shall be very near the campus of the State University of Arizona - but it is a very small school and there will probably be little chance of my finding anything there.

I will have access to the library, however, which will be a help and have thoughts I might find something in the line of bulletin-writing to do.

I would be very grateful for any suggestion from you in regard to such matters.

I am wishing you all a most successful conference time and that I might be there too. The past three years have afforded plenty of thinking time and I have lived over my year in Chicago more than once with great pleasure. I shall never forget the kindness and consideration
I received from you and from Miss Breckenridge and am much glad that I had that time with you.

Very sincerely yours,

which Miss Beaver says can be used for prints. I can attend to it

I am glad to know you are to be

Ames, Iowa
April - 21 - 1916

My Dear Dear Talbot:

I was very glad to hear of the plans for the celebration to be held this commencement and will certainly co-operate in every way possible. I am planning to send a study of textile fabrics, as purchased by the average consumer. I have just finished a number of them to be used by our Extension Department as exhibits and aids in their lectures and I believe it shows this phase of my work as well as anything I could send. If there is any expense, it will be in connection with the pictures of the institution, but as the head of my department is away. I am not able to make any definite statement. However I feel sure that there will not be any as I believe the pictures are available.

I hope that I will be able to attend the interesting meetings you have written about. Our commencement is on the 8th and it is often very hard to be excused, especial when there are so many Chicago people, who will want to leave early. However I shall make the effort to go, and if I am not successful, I want you and Mrs Breckinridge, that I appreciate very much the opportunity and that my best wishes are yours for the success of the Household Administration conference.

Sincerely yours,

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT
CORNELL UNIVERSITY
ITHACA, NEW YORK April 26, 1916.

Dear Miss Talbot:

I have just received your communication of the 24th inst. regarding the office of Adviser of Women at Cornell University.

I am glad to have your views on the subject. The problem, however, at Cornell is very different from that at the University of Chicago, which has abandoned co-education and adopted the policy of the segregation of women. Co-education is the Cornell policy and we intend to keep it so.

One of the most distinguished professors in the University who has always been a champion of co-education had a long conference with me yesterday on this subject. He is opposed to the policy advocated by some of the Alumnae of establishing an office of Dean of Women, which, while perfectly proper in an institution which segregates women, would at Cornell differentiate the women from the men. With us the Dean is the executive officer of the Faculty, and as such he deals with the women students as well as with the men students. The Professor to whom I have referred entertained the conviction that if we began creating special educational offices for the women it would logically lead to a separate woman's college, that is to say, it would undermine the principle of co-education.

Ithaca, New York, April 22, 1971

Dear Mr. Tolson:

I have just received your communication of the 24th inst. regarding the office of analysis of women at Cornell University.

I am glad to have your view on the subject. The problem, however, at Cornell is very different from that at the University of Chicago, which has abandoned co-education and placed the policy of the segregation of women. Co-education is the Cornell policy and we intend to keep it.

One of the most distinguished professors in the University has been a leader in this situation and a long collaboration with no possibility of compromise. He is opposed to the policy suggested by some of the members of the office of women at Cornell, which, while partially proper in an institutional sense, suggests women, would at Cornell discriminate the women from the men. With us the men in the executive office of the faculty, and we must be able to work with the women as well as with the men students. The University is when I have referred to the situation that it is a co-educational institution for the women. It would logically lead to a segregation of men and women, that is to say, it would involve the principle of co-education.

ITHACA, NEW YORK

We have at Cornell wardens of the women's halls and an Adviser of Women who exercises jurisdiction over the wardens, who cooperates with the women students in administering self-government, who supervises their social life, and who gives them advice on personal matters and also with reference to their future vocations.

Nearly half the 700 women at Cornell University are in the Department of Home Economics in the College of Agriculture, and in that Department the professors, assistant professors, and instructors are all women. The remaining women are principally in the College of Arts and Sciences. And in a co-educational institution like Cornell I think it would be proper to have a woman on that Faculty. And last year both the Faculty and Trustees voted with practical unanimity in favor of that policy on the understanding that only a woman of distinguished ability and learning and recognized scholarly productivity should be considered. My own belief is that if we had such a woman in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences a good many of the problems that have now been raised in connection with the Adviser of Women would disappear.

For your private information I will say that I am in favor of making the Adviser of Women a member of the University Faculty. That can not be done, however, without amending the statute. And the Board of Trustees, and I assume the University Faculty itself, will be called upon in the near future to take action on that proposal.

ITHACA, NEW YORK

It must be borne in mind that at Cornell University the University Faculty has nothing to do with the instruction of students. That is a matter within the competency of the several college faculties. The University Faculty deals with questions affecting the general policy of the University. And as I have already said apart from a few scattered students the women in the University are divided almost equally between the Department of Home Economics in the College of Agriculture and the College of Arts and Sciences, so that their education is in the hands of these two faculties.

Very truly yours,

however, with a meeting of the Board of Trustees and I believe the University Faculty itself will be called upon to take action on this proposal.
It must be borne in mind that nothing is to be done until the Faculty of the University has acted within the month of June.
There is a matter within the month of June several other matters. The Faculty has

You kindly asked us to mention the date of our arrival at Chicago. This is now being fixed for March 15th or possibly the 16th, if we are ~~not~~ detained for a night on our way from Boston. We are advised that our best plan would be to arrange for a meeting in a private house, where we can explain something about the work for which we are seeking support, but the success of this altogether depends whether our friends in Chicago can persuade people to be sufficiently interested to attend such a meeting. Dean Marion Talbot,
University of Chicago,
Chicago, Illinois.

My dear Dean Talbot;

I was very glad indeed to receive your letter telling me of the plans for the Home Administration meetings in June. I know that they will be most helpful and I wish indeed that I might be with you. I am to teach here in summer school so that it will be impossible for me to leave.

Miss Allen and I are still here at the University of Kansas. Miss Sprague, as you probably know, is the head of the department. We are having most interesting times and although the struggle has been hard we have gained ground. There is always a desire for popular Domestic Science work and we are asked continually to feed "the hungry multitude". However, Miss Sprague is firmly convinced that it is impossible to do real university work and so much practical work also. So she refuses all requests and we are constantly criticised for not being practical enough.

Because of these refusals we have had time to do some of the work that we feel is so much worth while. Our Special Problems are interesting and I wish that I could send you copies of all that we have done so that you might judge for your self. We hope that in a short time we may be able to publish them in some form or other so that they may be used by others also. This is one point upon which we feel most strongly; that all of the departments over the country must begin to publish their experimental work so that each may profit by the experience of the other.

Jelly making has been one of our problems. The girl who worked with this problem started at the point where Miss Goldthwaite left off and by use of the hydrometer and burette has worked out some problems which were unsolved. One girl is working on coffee by the specific gravity method and she has shown that with only half as much used the pulverized coffee will give a brew equal in strength and flavor to that given by the medium ground coffee. As both coffees cost the same and as the pulverized coffee can best be made by the filtration method which gives a brew much weaker in tannin than does any other method, it is certainly much wiser and more economical to use the pulverized coffee. Then too we have all sorts of problems with baking powders, flavoring extracts, cakes, muffins, fondant etc.; all intensely interesting not only because they furnish us with accurate data which we need, but also because they give the girls the scientific spirit which is so much needed in Home Economics work.

Every day that I teach I become more interested in the Dietetics which to me is the most interesting work of Home Economics. We use Sherman's Chemistry of Foods as our text but of course we supplement that with all the available books on the subject. We have the Journal of the American Medical Association for latest theories and I have not found anything more helpful. I have each girl keep a box of cards with each recipe worked out for calorie value, protein, and mineral salts. Lately we have been adding data on the excess of acid or base in each recipe. The girls feel familiar with servings of all kinds. I do all the work in servings because I find that the 100 calorie portions do not give accurate enough idea as to what the foods as served at the table contain. This is particularly true in regard to the mineral salts. I have had charts made showing the comparative cost, nutritive value, and mineral salt value of the typical foods. I am getting these plots all checked up and revised and I shall send you copies when I get them finished if you care to have them.

I am sending you under separate cover a copy of the catalogue which shows the work that we are doing. That is what you meant by printed matter, is it not? I am also sending a picture of our Demonstration Kitchen of which we are most proud. The big folding doors on the east side of the kitchen open into a lecture room where the students sit to watch the demonstrations. The small picture is of Fraser hall in the basement of which we have our quarters. The other pictures are of our laboratories. If there is anything else that I can send you, I shall be only too glad to do so.

Will you pardon this long letter? I always feel that you are so busy that one has no right to take more of your time than is absolutely necessary. However, before I close I want to tell you that I can never thank you enough for all that you did for me when I was in Chicago. You gave me a point of view which has been most helpful in my teaching and will be just as helpful in any other work that I take up. I know that no one could have been more kind, thoughtful and considerate than you were to me while I was at the University. So many times I have wished that I might tell you just what you mean to me and how greatly I appreciate all that you did for me. Thank you very much indeed.

My dear Miss Talbot:-

I am not sure that I shall be able to be in Chicago at the Time of the Household Administration meeting but I shall make every effort to do so. I am particularly interested in such discussion as may be taken up in regard to your department because we too have the problem of what should be done in a brings responsibilities. The meeting promises to be most profitable.

Miss Marion Talbot,
The University of Chicago,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Miss Talbot:-

You may have heard that we shall probably lose Miss Downey this year. Although her engagement has not been announced, she is planning to marry one of the men in the Geological State Service work. He seems to be an exceedingly good man though one appreciates his good points more as one knows him longer. I think Miss Downey has known men well enough to make a wise choice and she seems very sure in this case. You can imagine that I shall part with her reluctantly for she has been so capable, loyal and enthusiastic and so eager to help in constructive work. She is quite a remarkable little person for while she has been engaged for a year, there has never been one moment when she has seemed to have had any engagement or interest which was not so thoroughly subordinated to her work that I was seldom even aware of it. Because she has shown this ability and because I believe that women should have an opportunity to continue in a profession, I have recommended that she be allowed to continue her work. The Chancellor, however, does not approve and there is a state law against the employment of two in one family which might be construed as applying in this case.

I shall be looking for some one to fill Miss Downey's place. We want some one to take the Dietetics, the advanced food work, a general course in Food and Nutrition and a course similar in character to Miss Breckenridge's "Public Aspects". I am afraid that the latter introduces a rather unusual combination. We are offering it next year because Miss Downey wished to give it, but it may be difficult to find anyone who is prepared to do as many types of work as she is. Nothing of the kind has been given here and it will require a person of considerable discrimination to fit the course to this situation. The rank will be that of an assistant professor and the salary $1500.00. I shall probably arrange to be in Chicago in May or June so that I could see any applicants whom you might recommend.

I wonder if you know of any opening which would be suitable for a graduate of our department who is unusually strong. Miss Woodruff is of the same caliber as Miss Swain. She has had twenty-five hours of chemistry in which she did very good work. Her work in bacteriology was of such a character that Prof. Billings recommended her for a position as instructor in that subject in Simmons College. They will not appoint without seeing the candidate, however, and it is too far for her to go. Needless to say she is one of the best students that I have ever had. I am very much tempted to keep her for ourselves but I realize the danger of "inbreeding" and I want her to have a wider experience. If you should know of a good opportunity for such a candidate which you cannot fill I should appreciate a consideration of Miss Woodruff. She would be an excellent candidate for a fellowship but I believe she needs to teach next year. I should also mention that she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

With most cordial regards to you and Miss Breckenridge, I am Yours very sincerely,

May 1, 1916.

Dear Miss Talbot:

I have delayed in answering your letter of Apr. 11, until I have obtained some material, tho' small in amount, for your exhibit. I am sending you pictures of classes in cooking, and in sewing, tho' I have had charge of none of the work in sewing. These pictures were taken last winter by the Calumet & Hecla Mining Co. to partially illustrate their welfare work for the folk of Calumet, and tho' not very good, they are the best I could obtain.

I find no printed matter regarding the work of the school, but perhaps the following statements will be helpful:

Sewing is taught in the grades, from the 6th to the 8th, one double period each week. In the High School it is offered five double periods <sup>(90 min.)</sup> each week, for two years; from 150 to 175 students are enrolled each semester. Instruction in sewing is given each year in night school, 20 weeks, four nights each week. The average attendance this year was 30.

In cooking, instruction is given to all 8th graders.

two double periods each week. The High School gives one year's work in cooking, five double periods each week. The enrollment is from 50 to 75 each semester. Work in cooking is given five evenings each week, one evening being devoted to "Advanced cooking" - those who have had the night school work of the previous year, as "beginners", and one giving to the nurses who are taking training in the hospitals of the city, for special work in dietetics & invalid cooking.

I'm sure the conference will be very helpful and interesting, and wish I could be there. If there is anything further I can do to be helpful, I shall be glad to do it.

Very sincerely,

Sylvia A. Miller.

Dear President Schurman:

Please accept my appreciative thanks for your very cordial reply to my letter. May I take the liberty of correcting two or three misapprehensions. It was very far from my wish to suggest that the authorities of Cornell University establish an office similar to that of the Dean of Women of the University of Chicago, except in so far as any new arrangement may give added dignity and respect to the office. I would point also that the office of the Dean of Women was established here with the organization of the University and has no relation whatever to the so-called policy of "segregation", which was adopted several years later. It may be of interest to you to know that we hear very little of "segregation" In fact, out of fifty-four classes offered this Spring which might possibly be segregated, only nine are so organized, the elementary courses in English and one course in History. Permit me to add that I feel highly gratified to receive so frank an expression of your opinion. Your views lead me to a feeling of assurance that some solution of the problem will be found, which will be entirely satisfactory to all who are interested

Dear Miss Talbot:

Your letter of May 3 has been received. I am very much interested in the conference which you expect to hold on Tuesday, June 6. I hope very much that I may be there. School is out before that time but I have two new women for the summer session and I had promised to stay here until they get settled in their work. I very much need a vacation and I shall make a strenuous effort to get away before the fifth.

Both Miss Kneeland and I will be in Chicago for the summer quarter. Miss Kneeland will take work in the University for the first term only. I shall probably be in Chicago for the whole summer. We are both interested in rooms and I shall appreciate it very much if you will have your secretary write me as to with whom I should communicate. Miss Kneeland does not care to be in the dormitory and I suppose it would be impossible for me to be there since I will not enter for University work. We would like to have rooms near each other if not in the same apartment. If there is such a thing to be had as a small two or three room apartment with bath, it would suit our needs rather ideally. I shall appreciate any information you may send.

I am hoping that you will still be able to let me have the list of references of which you spoke in February when I was in Chicago. I have my work pretty well mapped out for June, but after that I

I wish I could write you that I expected to be at your conference from the 24th to the 6th of June. I shall try to come for a day or two, but the experience of the past two years makes it seem probable that I shall not be able to get away. Our commencement is the eighth of June, and the summer school begins the following Monday. Matters which come at that time can commonly not be put off.

I will look into the matter to learn how many women of the university faculty are eligible for membership in the American Association of University Professors. I judge that I am not eligible, nor are any of my staff, unless normal schools are considered institutions of equivalent rank, and I suppose that that is not accepted.

My dear Miss Talbot:

It is a cause of sincere regret to me that I have seemed, no doubt, indifferent and neglectful, not to say discourteous to you since receiving your interesting letter of April 13. I am most annoyed to offer an excuse of 'busy': who isn't! The delay in forwarding the only illustrations we have of our campus and buildings which would be of service in the plan of which you wrote has been due to the fact that it is but just issued and I had one sent as soon as out. I hope that was in time and will give some idea of our setting. It is a beautiful campus and deserves better showing.

How very much I should like to be present on June 5 to join in the interesting gathering. If it were not so far and we were not so absorbed in preparing for our own closing I should try to be there. But I have to be in New York at the General Federation of Women's Clubs this week and that is quite all I can leave for now.

Will it not be possible for us who are not able to be present to have reports of the addresses? I should be glad to meet any expense for such reports as are available.

My dear Miss Talbot:

How I wish I could be with you for your quarter centennial celebration. My work does not close in Texas until July 1st. However, I am going to suggest that it might be extremely interesting to discuss at this conference the need and value of extension work. There are so many workers needed in the field and so few trained people, I wonder if it would not be advisable to consider a course in extension work for the Department. Also, efficiency engineers are being employed in every line of business. Could not some of the courses in institutional work be arranged with the idea in mind of training young women to go into homes for a month or six weeks and help re-organize the work there? - Really, <sup>establishing</sup> efficiency home engineering. If you are interested at all in either of these ideas I would be delighted to write in further detail concerning them, especially the extension work.

My dear Miss Talbot—

I am sending you under another cover a collection of photographs of the California buildings and camps, which I hope will not be too late to be added to your department exhibit. It is a matter of keen regret to me that I can not be present for this wonderful celebration, and particularly for the very interesting department conference which Mrs. Glenn is to address.

We are in the throes of a department organization, however, with a new building, (temporary,) and entire new equipment to get together before our summer session beginning June 26. The new department of Home Economics is to be divided into two parts, Household Art, and Household Science. I have the responsibility for the development and start of the latter, so I must tend to Berkeley matters all of June.

Needless to say I shall be thinking most

Miss Marion Talbot,

The University of Chicago,

Chicago, Illinois.

My dear Miss Talbot:

The state-wide interest in all phases of home economics, the generous appropriation to the land grant colleges, and the very popular reception home economics has just received at the Biennial, indicate, I believe, that the schools and universities are not meeting the demand for this work. The clubs, the homes, the communities, want help. The best way to give this help is through the Extension Department of our established universities and institutions of learning. There are few, if any, adequately trained people for extension. Why not give the Chicago University girls a course in Extension work?

A course in extension household economics would need be very broad and inclusive. It would need to build on a good home economics foundation; such courses as the following <sup>should be</sup> considered:

1. Meaning and scope of extension work,
2. Conditions in rural and urban communities that need remedy,
3. Means of reaching of these communities
  - (1) Exhibits
  - (2) One-week schools
  - (3) Home economics weeks
  - (4) Baby health conferences
  - (5) Lantern slide lectures
  - (6) Rural rallies
  - (7) Educational campaigns
  - (8) Sanitary and social surveys

This is only a small part of what such a course would embrace; also, people training for such work should be well trained in English and oral expression.

I am sending a few samples of some of our feeble efforts here in Texas, and this may be the best argument for trained workers, as ~~practically~~ here the work has been the training field.

Please excuse this hasty note. I do indeed wish I might be with you to get the benefit of all the valuable discussions that are sure to come up.

The University of Chicago
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Miss Talbot:-

I should like to be among the very first to congratulate you on your excellent book on the Education of Women. It is so sane, so well-balanced, so convincing. Amidst the multitude of excellent things there is one phrase which represents a particularly telling contribution to educational discussion: namely, your proposed substitution of "major objects" for "major subjects." That would revolutionize curriculum making. Your problem now is to get your book read by the trustees, presidents and faculties of women's colleges. I shall be interested to know whether you succeed in doing so and with what results.

Very sincerely yours,

Abraham Flexner

Miss Marion Talbot,
Chicago, Illinois,

Dear Miss Talbot, - It is time to make my report about the position which was open at Baker University.
Miss Phillips, the young woman Dr. Mason wanted to get, if possible, has accepted the position. But,
though I lost that one,

I signed a contract for another yesterday. It is at the College of Emporia, Emporia, Kansas. Dr. Culbertson, the president, has been here at the University for three or four days, and through our interviews I feel as though I were not going to an entirely strange place. The college is one somewhat similar to Baker, I think. Its enrollment is two hundred and fifty, and the faculty wishes for no increase over that number. There is no academy, so that all the work is of college standard. I think it will be good experience, for, as Dr. Culbertson says, I am going to have to overcome some difficulties. The department is only two years old, and apparently needs quite a bit of reorganization. Last year the building where the courses were taught was completely burned, so that now the department is in two small rooms of the science building.

But a large new building is on the way, where the Home Economics and Arts is to be quite splendidly at home. The salary is $1,000 this year, with the promise of more next year, as well as an assistant for the new building.

Possibly you may know Miss Riddell, the dean of women at Cuyahoga. She took her doctor's degree here at the June convocation, and,

I believe, has had charge of one of our dormitories
for several summers.

My thesis is getting along slowly. The spinach iron determination is almost finished, so that I can soon start on my other vegetables.
Even though I work all day and some evenings, I cannot possibly finish the laboratory work this term, but as long as it is all done in time for the examination, I do not care about the time put in.

Summer school is quite gay this year with its Saturday night dances during July, its picnics and various field trips. Mary Pickford was a guest at the dance last night for nearly a whole half hour! It was exceptionally warm, but a great many were there to see her. Perhaps most of them came for an hour or so — just on account of plain curiosity. You see, I judge others by myself.

I can imagine that you are having a very pleasant summer. I will not see you again before my new college and I have become fairly well acquainted with each other.

So I want to thank you
now for all the help and encouragement you have given me. It has been a real pleasure to have been in your classes, and I hope that I can put the good ideas — and ideals —
you gave us to some satisfactory use.

Wishing you the best
vacation possible,

I am,

Sincerely yours,

Florence A. Otis.

July 17, 1916.
Dyer Mass, Penna

My dear Miss Talbot-

You see, I've decided to take you at your word of last year and feel that I can count on you when my scheme of things gets too much involved. At the same time I don't feel that it's quite excusable for anyone to break into your vacation time in this fashion as if you consider this quite too great a nuisance and put it into the waste basket I shall consider it entirely justified.

Perhaps I ~~have~~ <sup>am</sup> got to the point of my afflicting most readily by reminding you that at one time you told some of us about your own difficulties in finding what you wanted to do after college. I know that my "after college" is not immediate but the "doing" has not settled itself yet in my mind, in fact, it is that which is so bothering me at present that I'd like to tell you about some of the targets to which I am flying, mentally, and ask what you think of them.

From what I wrote you last winter you may have gathered that I was not altogether ready to go on for another year with the work I am doing now. It is secretarial rather than research and accordingly a considerable distance from anything I'd ever even thought of doing. I had a talk with Miss Kingsbury about it during the winter, telling her that the thing which seemed most desirable to me then was some teaching experience before going back to get my degree tho I was not at all sure of wanting to look upon the teaching as a permanent choice. She then asked whether I'd be willing to take an economics I class which she had had this year, assist her in some of the department work and give the other half of my time to continuing what I had been doing this year. I would have been glad to do that but as the introductory economics comes under another department with a head not favorable to the introduction of Miss Kingsbury's work, the appointment of the latter's assistant in her (i.e. the economics) dept. was unsatisfactory and he would not agree to it. I'm sorry to have to explain all that but I wanted you to see why I am so little inclined to stay here. Incidentally, no appointment has yet been made and Miss Kingsbury is still trying to get the teaching opportunity for me here.

But all that plan was made with the idea of one or two years teaching and then a return to Chicago where I could finish my thesis and have a chance as well at some help in the many unsettled places in my mind. With her H.W.'s no longer there of course all that is changed. I can't work out the thesis alone, and, frankly, there is no one else under whom I can do it either. I am, therefore, in an altogether different situation about taking a degree at all (which would have been the natural thing for me to turn to for next year if no chance for teaching materialises). I don't like the idea of simply working off a "choce" as a thesis, something that appears quite meaningless and even uninteresting to me and everyone else and is simply done for the bringing about of something else, apparently, equally meaningless. That is, I had hoped, not of another year at the University to get some chance to think things out, to apply my thinking to the points that trouble me most with the idea that as a result I might find my "something to do" and be at least comparatively ready to do it.

But a routine thesis won't help much that way, will it? On the other hand, does it, with the appended degree really open opportunities otherwise inaccessible and thus compensate for itself?

All that is one side of my question. The other is this - I've said that I wanted the teaching only temporarily. Essentially, I should like to get into some kind of sustained work, i.e. a trade union or something similar in which I can work with not for my associates.

That being the case is there any wisdom in going to New York and getting into the Women's Trade Union League then volunteer work with the hope (quite blind on all specific points) that this will lead to something? I say New York because the wage earning women seem most in control of the situation there, because I have been introduced to some of them by Miss Kerot, who seems to me much interested in the work, and there there is perhaps a greater chance for me there than elsewhere.

Two things make me hesitate to decide on this however. First, because I can see absolutely no farther than the "odd jobs" of volunteer work - which is not satisfying. Second, I wonder whether going into anything of that sort (any movement which is fighting for a place in the sun) means becoming partisan, I mean by that, partial, unseeing of the other side, "my cause right or wrong. Do you think so? And if you do, is it well, open-eyed, to choose the thing that will have such a result?

I couldn't have written a worse letter, Miss Talbot, if I really did have to decide the fate of the universe. You're privileged to laugh at it as much as you like. Now I can see that it has humorous spots! It's only very recently that I got the idea of writing it all. Previously, I had hoped to ask you whether you'd spare me about half a day to talk it over, for Helen and I had a scheme of vacationing in Maine early in August and then I thought it might be possible for me to get back here by way of seeing you. But now it's hardly likely that Helen can get her leave of absence before September while, if I stay right on, my time here will be up September first. Therefore, I've been reduced to writing - and for that I could never offer enough apologies if I didn't believe you'd understand how it is that I came to write at all.

Very sincerely,

Frieda S. Miller.

Miss B has told me of your generous part in assuring the continuance of the School of C.

I feel very grateful both because I believe the <sup>work of the</sup> School to be invaluable and because Miss B finds in it an opportunity to work for human needs which the Univ. of C has never afforded her. When I asked for her promotion some years ago, ~~after a long and devoted service.~~

I was told that it could not be granted, but she could be allowed part of her time, continuing the same rank and salary in the Univ. Two years ago I made the same request and was told she could not be promoted because she did not give all her time to the Univ. This situation has reconciled me to her finding an outlet for her special ability in the School altho

I lament the fact that <sup>and</sup> the University itself does not take up more actively the social needs and are helpful in connection with them of the community. Her happiness has been clouded by the <sup>uncertain</sup> financial condition of the School ~~has been under~~ "real strain," but I have never heard her repine that she <sup>herself</sup> was working without financial remuneration. Thanks to your generosity, the work for the next three years will be vastly easier. My relations with her both personal and official, are such that, in a way, what you have done, lightens my own burdens and impels me to send you
this word of grateful appreciation.
No acknowledgement is necessary.
With cordial regards

I have read with very great interest the admirable pledge which you have prepared for your students. May I say that I hope it will be construed to include a definite effort to keep up in every way men, standards of industrial protection for women and children which are the hard-won result of a generation's work in this country and which the experience of England teaches us should not be lightly thrown aside at the outset of the war?

Dear Miss Talbot:

Permit me to thank you for your very kind letter concerning Miss Breckenridge and the continuance of the School of Civics.

I fully agree with you as to the value of the school and very much hope that it can be continued indefinitely, although I feel that it should be almost, if not entirely, self-supporting. A school which practically insures a remunerative position for its graduates should, it seems to me, pay its own way, and in cases where it is impossible for students to pay in advance, I think they should obligate themselves to pay the unpaid balance out of their salaries.

It gives me added pleasure to know that I have also helped to lighten your burden.

Very truly yours,

Hon. Herbert C. Hoover,

Dear Mr. Hoover:-

As a member of the American Home Economics Association and a teacher of Home Economics for many years I am deeply interested in the movement to secure the active cooperation of the women of the country in our great contest. I find myself very eager that their efforts should be spent along lines more in accord with the experience of the other warring countries and with modern scientific and economic knowledge than seems to be under <sup>public discussion</sup> consideration at present. Those of us who are teaching that domestic goods should be produced, manufactured, and distributed under sound conditions of health, wages, hours of labor, and environment can but raise a question as to whether it is timely to lay so much stress on untried, unsupervised, and unstandardized home processes. It is going to be extremely difficult, even impossible, I fear, unless the war is greatly prolonged to make our prosperous farmers and farmers' wives realize the significance of the food which they are deliberately throwing away or allowing to go to waste. If some device could be put into operation whereby the money value of such food stuffs could be credited as a gift to the nation, provided these food stuffs were conserved, it seems to me that the psychological and moral effect would result in actual saving. Are there no communities into which trained organizers could go and collect such food stuffs and preserve them under proper conditions? I know that in my own barren corner of New England it would be quite impossible to organize the community in such a way that each house wife would assume the responsibility of

of conserving for an indefinite future use surplus products of the farm, even though she had the requisite technical knowledge, but I think it would be very easy to go about among them and secure contributions of different kinds of food.

I have felt for a long time that we Home Economics people should develop new methods of caringg for foods rather than insist on maintaining old methods, even with such modifications as science may suggest. I believe the time is ripe for the government to lead us into more economic and efficient ways of <sup>increasing</sup> providing feed. It is because of this conviction that I take the liberty of writing to you and also to the Secretary of Agriculture.

With sincere respect, I am,

Very truly,

It is hoped that through the activities of these agents an unusual amount of fruit and vegetables may be conserved. They will also endeavor to teach the use of substitutes which should release considerable quantities of other foods for consumption.

The Department appreciates your interest in this matter and I am sending you, under another cover, a number of publications along this line which have been issued by the Department. I assume that you are in touch with the work which is being done through the home economics extension agents of the State colleges of agriculture. If the organization will now before Congress is passed it will provide funds for the employment of additional home demonstration agents who will be placed both in the rural districts and in certain cities. It is hoped that through the activities of these agents an unusual amount of fruit and vegetable may be conserved. They will also endeavor to teach the use of substitutes which should replace considerable quantities of other foods for conservation.

I fully appreciate the difficulty you mention in getting housewives to preserve their surplus fruits and vegetables and the still greater difficulty of having such products standardized for commerce. However, experience does not warrant us in encouraging the idea of undertaking to send experts into communities actually to do the work of canning. That would require a considerable equipment which the Department is not able to provide and a greater number of trained people than we could hope to secure even if we had the funds to engage them. Our view is that the best that we can do under present circumstances is to give demonstrations and by a process of education bring our people to the point of preserving for use in their own households the fruits and vegetables grown upon their own farms or premises. I am glad to say that we have gratifying reports of considerable accomplishments in these respects throughout the country at this time, and it now appears certain that American households will carry into the winter a greater supply of home-grown and home-preserved fruits and vegetables than ever before. This increased household supply should automatically release for the general trade a corresponding volume of commercial products.

Very truly yours,

J. S. H. Metc.

OFFICE OF HOME ECONOMICS.

Dear Mr. Talbot

I am glad to know that many fellowship applications came in and that so good a candidate as Miss Denton is available. The Richards Trust thought it best not to ask for themselves power of appointment but simply to contribute their share to the fellowship and leave the choice to the institution co-operating. So you act according to your usual procedure there and make the decision and send an announcement (when the matter is completed) to Queen, Educational Review, and other papers if you wish I can do that too. I think it would make an appropriate departmental notice from your department.

I am here helping Dr. Larnworthy for three months. The Home Office is trying hard but has discouraging conditions. However I am hoping for better things. There is a splendid "Committee on Alimentation" Dr Lusk, Dr Mendel & others which should do great things in time.

Best wishes to you always

My dear President Judson:

I thank you for your message announcing your willingness to help the Food Administration. Our appeal to the colleges has been met most cordially.

We have thought the matter through with care and feel sure the young women soon to leave the college walls will bring a mighty force to aid in the task which seems to grow more serious as the days go by.

I write you today merely to express our sincere gratitude to you and your institution, and to say that in a day or two a plan will follow with the hope that it will prove helpful to you.

Perhaps you know that recently a new committee has been organized by the American Association of University Professors, known as Committee W, whose function as indicated by the title is "Opportunities for women." This committee is in process of organization, and if you have any advice as to a chairman we want to get it. Of course we would expect you to be a member of the committee, representing the University of Chicago.

The suggestions for chairman which have come to us from various institutions, are as follows: Maltby, McKeag, Merrill, Nichols, Wilcox, Calkins, Soudder, Hart, Galt, and Hewes. This is a blind list, for neither the initials nor the institutions have been reported to me. Perhaps, however, you will recognize the names and can give me your opinion about them, or any other name you wish.

May I add that I think in this emergency the Director is entitled to cordial support and help from each Head of a House, and that such a situation as was called to our attention yesterday with regard to a certain head of a table ought not to exist, and ought not to be allowed to exist, for a moment?

I do not know of any practical movement which is on foot. I repeated the idea of my Chicago speech in an address at the meeting of the Council of the N.E.A. at Atlantic City the other day, and have some hopes that someone may be moved to take up the matter in a practical way. I have neither the time nor capacity myself for any active organizing work. But I have the feeling that if some one or more persons having the required organizing ability were to come forward they would meet a warm response from a large number of persons. It is a satisfaction to know that you are interested, and if I hear of any movement I shall certainly put the persons conducting it in touch with you.

Dear Prof. Dewey:

Just after receiving your cordial letter I heard from Mrs. Gertrude S. Martin, Executive Secretary of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae, that "several of the members of the War Service Committee have expressed themselves as favoring a requirement of universal national service which will include women as well as men and we should like to have this much wider idea (that is, compulsory military training) very thoroughly discussed at the Council meeting very early in April, in the hope that we may reach some conclusion which can be expressed in the form of a resolution that might win for itself wide popular endorsement as a means of affecting government action."

If you have an outline of your plan which I could use directly or indirectly in the discussion, I would be more than glad to receive it. I would prefer not to trust my memory in quoting you, and I am certainly not competent to outline an independent plan. I am eager, however to make use of every agency which promises help in bringing about the substitution of a rational plan of training for national service for that of universal military training.

I am very glad to know that the Collegiate Alumnae are taking up the matter. If a variety of different sorts of organizations could be brought to plan for the universal training, each from its own point of view, and then their various projects brought together for unification, I think it might be the best way to get at the whole affair. If you will write Mr. W J Bogan of the Lane Technical School he will doubtless be glad to give you a copy of my speech as soon as it is ready. The Association had it reported stenographically, and are now printing it.

We are considering taking the three houses on Woodlawn Avenue just south of Fifty-eighth Street, and fitting them up as halls for women students. Board will not be provided, as that can be obtained easily almost directly across the street, in the Ida Noyes Commons. My thought had been that we could have the organization consist of one Head for the three houses, with an assistant in each of ~~them, or certainly in the~~ two in which the Head does not reside. It seems to me that this would offer a pleasant place for women, and provide some of the greatly needed more room. How does it strike you?

Thanks for your note of the 14th inst. with regard to the new halls for women students. These three buildings will be in shape to be opened for the summer quarter. My understanding is that there will be one Head, who will have quarters perhaps in the middle of the three houses, and that in each of the others there will be an Assistant. The one Head we can give her board and rooms. The Assistants we can give the rooms for the service rendered. The Director of the Commons has arranged to have special tables reserved for the residents of these halls for two of the meals in the day - breakfast and one of the other meals, I forget which. WOMAN'S COMMITTEE

Green Hall
The University of Chicago
Chicago Illinois

My dear Dean Talbot:-

I was very glad to get your letter of April 9th with regard to economy of wearing apparel by the women of our country, and am especially grateful for copy of your letter to Mr. Shaw of the Commercial Economy Board.

Now this is confidential, but for months the Woman's Committee has been making a constant appeal to the Commercial Economy Board to allow us to send out a letter in regard to women's wearing apparel, but whenever the attempt has been made Mr. Shaw has assumed that the women of this country are so much more bound by fashion than by patriotism that he does not think any concerted effort on the part of women would be generally accepted. Then again he is so very much afraid of disturbing the business of the country, whenever we have suggested any plan for simple and moderate dressing he has declared that it would leave large quantities of ready-made clothing on the hands of the merchants and would use up a lot of new material that would be needed and the work of a great many people to make the garments instead of using the garments already made. We have assured him that any plans would require six months or more to put into practice, and that what the merchants have on hand could be disposed of if they were informed in advance and they could supply themselves with new material and a new kind of garment. So pressing has been the demand on the part of women all over the country that something should be done, we made an appeal to the Commercial Economy Board some months ago, asking that the Woman's Committee be allowed to take the matter up, and were informed that we could send out a letter, but to be very careful not to give any information. I wrote as simple and inoffensive letter as I could, and when it was submitted there were three points that I was asked to exclude. I wrote a second letter, omitting the points referred to, but there were two objections which I was asked to remove and submit a third letter. This I declined to do because I felt that it was an insult to the intelligence of the women of this country to send them a letter which absolutely contained nothing in the way of definite direction and in no sense met their demand for a simple and uniform mode of dress.

So that while the Woman's Committee may be accused of not taking any action in this matter, the fact is we have tried every possible way to do something, but our hands are tied, and we have not been allowed to do what we feel is the wise thing.

1911

I am telling you this in confidence, but I want you to understand why it is that we are silent on this subject, which to my mind is of vital importance. With the increasing dearth of labor, the scarcity of material, and the great demands made upon the Government, it seems to me that to be forever harping on the string of food conservation and fail to touch this equally important question is little short of blindness. I think a general demand on the part of women themselves would relieve our difficulty, and I wish that groups of women would write to us and let us send copies of their letters to the Commercial Economy Board and other departments of the Government having such matters in charge. The time has come when the women should be heard in this country, and we should not be compelled to wait until men, who do not understand the real devotion and patriotic desires of women and don't want to, - shall dictate our action. Nothing will move the Commercial Economy Board nor any other of the departments like a general demand on the part of women throughout the country that some intelligent action for conserving clothing shall be undertaken. If this were done, merchants would very soon fall into line, because they would have to.

Thank you very much for your letter, and I shall be glad of any suggestions which you may make along this or any other line of woman's service to the Government.

With sincere regard, believe me,

Faithfully,

Your letter is at hand. It is true that we are to lose Miss Wheeler, and I appreciate your kindness in suggesting Miss Denton.

We had wished her services once and she seemed so uncertain then as to what she could do and what she wanted to do, that I feel she would be a very difficult person to take responsibility. Moreover there were a number of things that I was told about her relations at Ohio State University that would make me hesitate to consider her a member of our staff.

My dear Professor Talbot:

I am sorry to say that we are still on the hunt for the head of our kitchen laboratory about which I wrote you some months ago. I am trespassing again upon your time to ask your opinion regarding a possible candidate. It is Miss Minna Denton with whom I know you are familiar. We feel that her scientific attainments and her scholarly attitude are of the kind that we are searching for but we have no way of knowing her ability at organizing workers or of dealing with the officials with whom she would be likely to come in contact in a position of this kind. As I think I wrote you before, the head of this kitchen laboratory will have to deal, to a considerable extent, with extension workers and should be able to adjust the work of her laboratory so as to furnish them with practical and emergency help without allowing this to interfere with the more permanent lines of investigation which we hope to see conducted. This is, of course, a question that demands considerable tact and judgment in dealing with people.

Please believe that we will be very grateful for any help you may be able to give us in the matter.

My dear Miss Talbot:

I do not know that any proper occasion will present itself to say to the women of the University what I should nevertheless like in some manner to convey to them, namely, my warm appreciation of the remarkably fine way in which they have carried themselves throughout the past quarter. The conditions have been in many particulars exasperating, and such as to interfere seriously with the legitimate work of the institution. I have yet to hear of any serious complaint, however. The women seem to have accepted the situation in a wholly fine spirit, to have subordinated themselves as far as possible to the exigencies of the military situation, and to have made themselves useful in a great variety of ways.

I trust the coming quarter will see a restoration of our normal equilibrium, and of the opportunities which the women of the University have heretofore enjoyed.

Here is an item that may interest you. This January tenth; three months ago today I sent to the University of Chicago Press a paper on The Myth of Io and asked two or three questions relative to its separate publication in case it should be accepted by the Editors of The Classical Journal. The paper presented an interpretation of the Wanderings of Io never before presented in this country or to my knowledge in any European country. It was however sent on the spontaneous recommendation of B.U.'s head Professor of Greek, our Professor Taylor, and with a statement of this fact. As it was sent by registered mail I had the satisfaction of knowing that it was duly delivered at the Press. But no word came from the Press. Nor has any come to this day. When about to leave home for the South I addressed a note To the Editors of The Classical Journal giving my winter address here in Florida, asking at the same time a question about the use of a certain diagram in case of publication. Weeks passed but again there was no response. Two months after my first sending silence still reigned, so I feared one or more letters from Chicago had been lost in the mails, so I wrote again to the editors for information. This inquiry brought a note from one of the addressed stating that by the rules of the office no paper could be printed in the Journal until approved by two of the editors, that he had read my article and sent it to his colleague; I might look for a decision soon. Since that date four more weeks have passed and silence reigns as before. I wish to make all due allowance for recent War-conditions in academic circles, but at times I am wondering what has happened to the University of Chicago I used to know. Could you perhaps - (very prudently and tactfully) inquire into the case and send me a report of progress? At my age every working hour is peculiarly precious. Then again one of my questions to the Press contemplated a possible use of the dissertation in connection with our SemiCentennial, and Semi-Centennials, like time and tide, wait for no man. Once more adieu.

Cher ma bienfaitrice Marianne

Je me suis fait un plaisir et un devoir, en cette simple et courte lettre de vous dire tout remerciement, de l'attention sans cesse constante, que vous avez eu pour moi et ma bonne mère, je ne suis pas seul j'ai mon deux beaux, qui se soignent à moi, pour que vous acceptiez, avec mes très remerciements, que je n'oublie jamais les bien, que votre cœur plein de générosité apporte en notre famille, et atténue notre peine par la perte de notre père disparu, vous les avez acceptés cette photographie, qui représente la famille, ainsi que la vision du cher père disparu, auquel est votre générosité d'indulgence

que nous pleurons toujours

Cher, malheureux unis avec mes remercements et d'un tel plus sincère de bonnisanté ainsi que votre famille, je vous embrasse bien fort.

Votre dévoué Saimon de Splan

Cher M<sup>me</sup> Brechmidge

Je me fais un devoir de m'excuser de vous avoir écrit, à la suite de la lettre du 15<sup>e</sup> mai car tout volontiers pour vous m'avez à une pauvre famille, m'avez de ma part de tout donner qu'il y a quelques renseignements sur le bébé et sur moi même, car à un cœur comme le vôtre, rien ne doit lui être caché, m'avez de famille de trois enfants en bas âge, que la guerre
a enlevé le père seul, de la famille (de son mère compléte). Toujours disparue, car malgré l'armistice, est que la plus part des prisonniers sont envoyés, mon mari elle. Toujours la disparue, tout les espoirs, jusqu'à cette heure m'avez permis, mais plus l'heure avance plus ces espoirs deviennent petit. Hélas... j'ai peur.

ici je parle car je ne veux abusé de tout votre temps, plus longtemps, de mes peines et de mon désespoir, je vais tout parler du bébé, qui est tout heureux, des fois que j'écris à son bienfaitrice malheureuse qui est si bonne pour nous, car il m'avez cause beaucoup, sa petite cervelle commence à s'intéresser à bien des choses, mais son jeune âge 5 ans, depuis le nouvel an il a l'école communale, s'applique de son mieux, assez intelligent, très tranquille, un bon sang, Voici en deux mots chère M<sup>me</sup>
tout ce que je puis vous dire sur le bébé.
quant à moi pendant que ma fille aînée s'occupe des deux petits, je vais faire quelques

minage, pour pouvoir leur assurer aux jours quotidiens, les Vostres qu'elle avec la certitude que ces deux mots, Vostres seront plaisirs, mais tout le plaisir est pour moi aussi de rendre à Vostre générosité tous les remerciements et les respects qui Vostre sont dus, si Vostre me le permettez en une prochaine
lettre de m'entretenir avec Vostre

Je me dit Vostre protégé

Newton Highlands, Mass.
May 24, 1919.

Dear Marion:

In cleaning out my desk a day or two ago, the enclosed check turned up under a drawer where I had put it last winter, wedged in somehow, - so I return it.

You will be interested to know about our summer plans, I am sure. They are rather broken. We are going to be here until the end of June; then we have to give up our apartment and Emily and I will go to Sagamore Beach to board for a month, while Edith makes one or two visits and is with us part of the time. August first, Emily starts for California. She will go through Chicago and I hope that she can see you while passing through the City. If it is possible for you to arrange for her being put on the western train, I shall be very grateful; otherwise, I can probably arrange to have some of the relations in the North End look after her. - Come to think of it, you will doubtless be away at that time so I suppose you will not see her.

Winthrop has proved quite willing to cooperate on this plan for Berkeley. Everything has gone well from the start as we have made our plans and I think

Emily will start under the best auspices. She is graduating with high stand from school, having certificates in every study but French and that only because she chose to take a rather difficult course in which she knew she would get <sup>low</sup> no marks but she thought she would learn more. She is very well and happy. She was in the Senior play just over.

Edith, of course, graduates from her Grammar School; She is starting pretty well in everything but Arithmetic. She is very much interested in the Girls' Scouts and music. I think I wrote you that she is to enter the Cathedral School at Garden City next winter.

Emily will visit her Father for a few days before going west.

My own work has gone splendidly this past three months. - I have had about all I could do giving these "Missions", staying a week at each place. My last two were large ones at Yonkers and Englandwood where I spoke in large churches. I am proud to have spoken at Grace Church, New York City, also. The way for next year seems open to continued success in every way. I have given eight of these "Missions" in all this year and started permanent Groups in most of them, the organization and care of which is part of my work. I am extremely tired this Spring but have nothing more to do in the way of speaking so I shall get rested in time.

I have just been at Hampton for their fiftieth Anniversary - a great occasion it was too from every point of view. I was glad to see many old friends.

Alice will have an over-flowing camp this summer and you will probably see her before long. She asked us up there in June but we could not very well go then.

Affectionately as ever,

Edith A. Talbot

Dear Marion:

I thank you for your very kind letter.

If I have not written oftener it was not from lack of desire to have the friendship between you and me and the girls kept up, but from a fear that I should be annoying you by writing without specific object.

I have felt keenly the fact that all the favors and help was on your side, and my great indebtedness, and have not wished to intrude, except unless I was sure you really wanted to hear from us. Now I understand that clearly, I will be glad to write oftener.

Emily will have to make her change alone in Chicago, as there will be no one of our other relations there, and I will plan her trains so that she can have a day at the University. I want her above all else to see the Womens building. You would be pleased with her development of late. She has of course several beaux, and one who is more than that. This is no other than our old friend Shaw Curtis, now a delicate young man of thirty- distinguished, attractive, with a good income. He has fallen desperately in love with Emily, and after having refusing him often ~~xxxxxxxxxxxx~~ she has consented to give him a chance at the end of a year, when he will go to California to see her.

in Brookline,
The Curtis family are much pleased, and want the match very much, and I admit, I would like to have her marry someone I know so well, whose future is assured, and who is fitted to make her happy, from congeniality of tastes. They are devoted friends, and she depends much on him. / Emily is a very strong character, who needs no one to lean on, and is fitted to be the wife of a man rather delicate. He would be too devoted- that would be all. I write a good deal about this because it is a good deal on my mind and heart, and this very day Mrs Curtis is coming to make a call on the subject. But of course the choice is hers to make, and she is too young to make it now.

Edith is going to Lake Winnepausaukee June 27, to spend two weeks or more with friends, the Tylers. Prof Tyler is at Inst of Tech.

They are at Wolfboro, near Dr Dick's camp. You might be motoring through and she would love to see you. Edith is a mere child still, I am glad to say, for the atmosphere in our house has been rather intense this spring. Emily had a lover last year too, who died in the war.

I have engaged a room for Emily at one Mrs Grays boarding house in Berkely after a good deal of correspondence with Miss Murdock and Miss Stebbin. I hope to be able to manage her board and tuition, with the help of the fund. She will earn her incidentals, and support herself in vacations. She will go with clothes for the first year.

She is a fine little earner, and can earn easily all she has time for. It would be lovely for her to see Nisba, and I hope she can get to the University without trouble. You had better write me directions for her to get there, from the station where she gets in.

I hope you are not having such hot weather as we are- it is 96, and that in cool places.

With best love, as ever,

Edith Armstrong Talbot

Dear Marion:

Write to you
after the engagement of Henry and Helen Curtis.

It is true that she is "too young" — but these affairs sometimes take to bit in their teeth and gallop away, you know! I believe that they are wonderfully suited

Cook often, and that every thing will cook
out in the best way.

~~The~~ Its date is set for the marriage. Everything college is planned.

The announcement of - pears in the paper Wednesday.

Please remember that in making
- <sup>Remember the engagement</sup> decisions of this kind, I am influenced by many circumstances too lengthy to write, which may not appear on the surface.

Affectionately

Dear Aunt Marion,

Mama wrote several notes to the immediate members of the family announcing my engagement for me, among them yours. Two or three of them replied to me and of course I replied to them. I did not write any notes myself announcing my engagement.

I have been very much disappointed to not go to the University
during my few hours
in Chicago but the time for transferring is very short.

I had hoped to see you again before I went West but I am afraid
it is out of the question.
I also wanted you to meet Shaw Curtis for I am sure you would like him.

I hope you will have a very happy summer.
Sincerely, Emily

Dear Marion:

I am wondering whether you would be willing to help me with Edith's school year to the extent of $500. <sup>(first three years)</sup> I have a scholarship which reduces the fee from $1000 to $500, for as long as she stays here. You will want to know what my own resources are, and I can only say, I have absolutely no idea how I shall live; I have engagements in prospect, but the financial future is, for anything definite, a closed book. I shall do most of the small income from the Trust Fund to this, but that leaves me $200 short. I can bear this instantly for myself, and am willing to chance it, but if I could be sure of Edith's school year, it would be a great weight off my mind.

I do hope you will feel that you can do this. It could be paid out of the school, and would not have to pass through my hands at all. If I support myself, and give fairly <sup>Relieve</sup> what they need outside school-~~fees~~ fees, that would be about all I could commit on; tho' I might do more, of course.

I thought Emily might be able to get to the University and telegraphed Division ten train-time, but later saw that on her ticket there was a transfer across Chicago which she would have to use, so telegraphed again.
Here a card from Council Bluffs
from her, - all right.

Mr. Koen is well-disposed toward my view as to the use of the Fund for Emily and Edith, and the prospect is good of an arrangement in a friendly way, tho' he has not yet written Winterop. You know I put it in a lawyer's hands on the advice of Mrs. Wade, Division Winterop referred me - he felt that he was not the proper person to attend to it himself.

Dear Miss Talbot:

No: I had not heard of dear Mrs. Wilmarth's death. Her going, like her living, must have been gracious and beautiful.

copy

She was the mainstay of the Student Loan Fund, always generous, sympathetic, but in all her giving never unwise or indiscriminating. How many times I have gone down to the meetings at the end of a quarter with demands of $500 to $1,000 beyond our cash on hand; and silently, unknown to others, she took care of every appealing case. She and Mrs. Judah were tireless in those early days, but she longest of all. In all emergencies she had a fine poise and business-sense. Nothing was done without care and deliberation. Yet her tact and graciousness were preëminent.

In my Later-Day Problems at the end of the chapter on "Women and Wealth" I had her in my mind when I said;

On the other hand, we also know the type - a rarer one - of the woman to whom a husband had left large wealth, whose pleasure is not in self-indulgence, but whose wisdom and sympathy in giving is such that the power of her riches is multiplied an hundredfold and whose unselfish life is a benediction to every one who is privileged to know her."

there

I am very grateful to you for the news of the university, for which I often get very homesick.

(My affectionate remembrances to Miss Breckinridge and Miss Abbott.

Very cordially yours,

OFFICE OF THE DEAN

April 25, 1917.

My dear Dean Talbot:

The enclosed is a transcript of a plan put forward by the Student Council upon which I shall be glad to have you comment. It may be necessary to have a general conference of the Deans, but if the matter can be handled in this way, the saving of time will doubtless be appreciated by all of us. I may say that I am not optimistic of the results to be expected, but I am perfectly willing to have the plan tried wherever the deans favor the experiment. I doubt very much whether the President will approve the proposal to pay for such service. This issue need not be raised, however, until the merits of the proposal in other particulars have been passed upon.

Yours very truly,

Dean.
